Khrushchev Hits German Militarism

Soviet Leader's Attack Follows Tour Of Verdun

REIMS, France (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev renewed his attacks Tuesday on German militarism after solemnly touring Verdun, the bloodiest of all French-German battlegrounds.

The Soviet leader told French officials at a luncheon in Reims, a cathedral city on the traditional invasion route from the east, he was disturbed by a statement by German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer that "Germany has the job of saving Europe."

"We cannot accept such a theory because we see in it a re-establishing of the Hitler theory that the Germans are a superior race and that the others are servants," Khrushchev said.

Tough Outburst

"We must not allow ourselves to fail in an action which will prevent the aggressor from attacking us a third time. Vengeance is being reborn in Germany."

An advocate of tighter ties between France and the Soviet Union, Khrushchev declared atomic bombs must be barred from arsenals of the Bonn Republic — France's closest ally in Europe.

Khrushchev himself recognized the toughness of his outburst and offered an explanation: "I grew up among street urchins, nine children, and the sons of workers. My abrupt speech is not a sign of violence, but of frankness."

In his luncheon speech, after seeing some of the worst scars of two world wars, Khrushchev virtually offered France an alliance with the Soviet Union.

"Our alliance with France," he said, "would be profitable to the whole world."

Visits Reims Cathedral

Looking a bit tired on this fourth day of his six-day tour of the French provinces, the Soviet leader followed a schedule that carried him by jet plane, car and train from Dijon through Metz, Verdun, Reims, Epernay and on to Lille.

Khrushchev briefly visited the stately cathedral in Reims, which was badly damaged in World War I but restored. It was Khrushchev's sole visit to any of the religious monuments that abound in France.

Roman Catholic authorities had removed many of the religious objects in the cathedral and made plain that Khrushchev was seeing the building as a historic work of architecture, not as a place of worship.

Pair Must Die For Killing Four

GARDEN CITY, Kan. (AP) — Ex-convicts Richard Eugene Hickock, 28, and Perry Edward Smith, 31, were convicted Tuesday of first degree murder in the slaying last November of four members of the Herbert W. Clutter family. The jury sentenced them to die by hanging.

The jury deliberated less than two hours.

Hickock and Smith were convicted of using a knife and shotgun last Nov. 15 in the killing of Mr. and Mrs. Clutter, a daughter, Nancy, 16; and a son, Kenyon, 15.

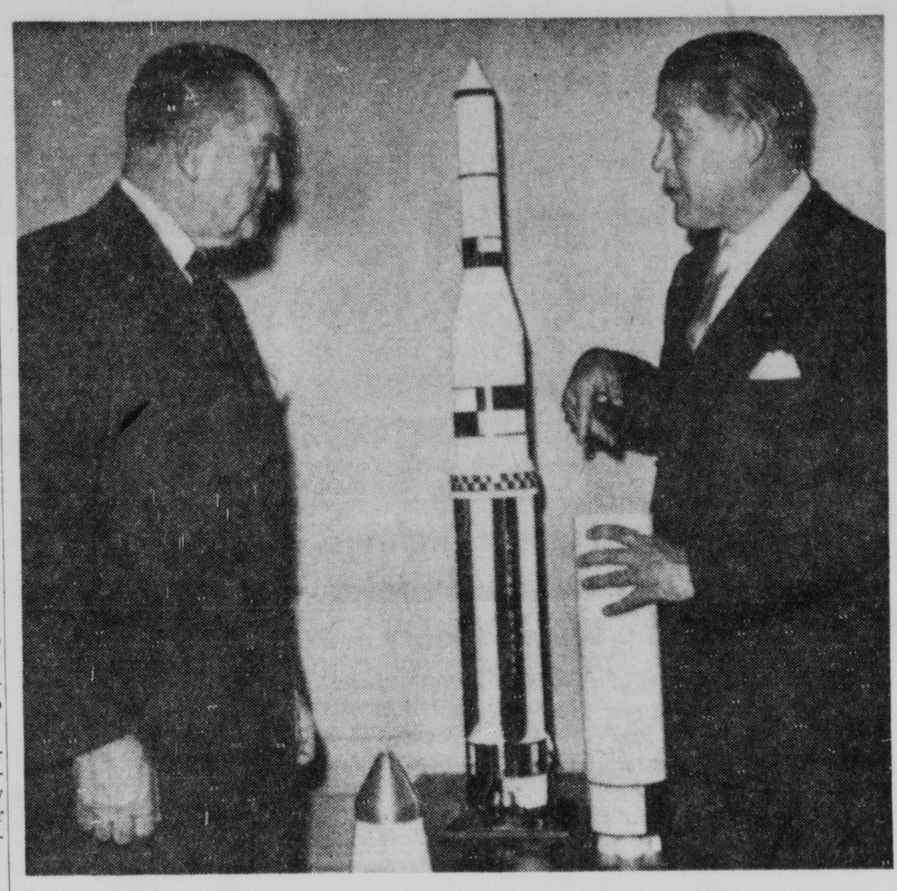

The pair displayed no emotion at the verdict.

Statements made to police by the two men before the trial said they had killed the Clutters because they did not want any witnesses to a burglary of the Clutter's farm home near here.

They got a radio, a pair of binoculars, and less than $50 in cash.

Saturn Engine Test Successful

Dr. Wernher von Braun discusses components of the Saturn rocket with Chairman John Stennis (D-Miss), left, before testifying at a Senate Space Subcommittee hearing in Washington yesterday. Von Braun, director of the Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala., said the Saturn's powerful booster engines—designed to put a man into space—were successfully tested Monday. U.S. Given Evidence That Plane Incident Arranged By Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. investigators held Tuesday a sworn statement that Castro officials conspired in an illegal plane flight which Cubans have blamed on the United States.

The statement came from William Schergales, one of the two U.S. fliers held by the Cubans since their small private craft came down in Matanzas, Cuba, on March 21.

Schergales was said to have plotted the incident with Dr. Juan Orta, a personal secretary in the office of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Washington authorities viewed the incident as a bungled attempt by the Castro regime to give Uncle Sam a propaganda black eye throughout Latin America and at the same time to get rid of one of Castro's Cuban enemies.

Some officials here considered referring the case to the Peace Committee of the Organization of American States, an inter-American body set up to ease Latin-American tension. They saw the flight as a violation of both U.S. and Cuban law, undertaken to inflame Cuban passions against Americans.

According to the original version of the incident put out by the Castro-controlled press, Schergales, 33, of West Hollywood, Fla., and Howard L. Rundquist, 35, of Miami, Fla., were forced down by gunfire when they flew in from Florida to pick up Lt. Col. Damasco Montesino, a police chief under Fulgencio Batista, ousted former Cuban president.

Cuban sources promptly pictured this as further evidence of what they claim are aggressive American designs against Cuba.

But the press stories soon died down. After a U.S. consul visited Schergales in jail, reports circulated that the flight was a Castro plot.

While further inquiry is under way, U.S. investigators so far have pieced together this picture of intrigue, double dealing and Cuban snafu:

Schergales went to Havana in February and spent several days in contact with Orta and with Capt. Alfredo Guerra, another aide in the Prime Minister's office, in working out the scheme.

Another Cuban official in on the plan was Maj. Abelardo Colome, chief of army intelligence in Cuba.

Schergales went back to Florida and enlisted Rundquist, a former U.S. Air Force pilot, for the flight. But Rundquist apparently did not know the trip was to be a put-up job. He thought the mission was simply to rescue Montesino.

When the plane arrived at the appointed rendezvous spot, Colome was waiting. He fired at it with a small pistol. Rundquist was hit in the foot, and the plane was damaged. Colome apologized, saying he had not meant to hit Rundquist.

Actors' Strike May End Today Or Tomorrow

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The four-week strike of actors against major movie studios is expected to end Wednesday or Thursday, with cameras rolling again next Monday.

This would give the industry something to cheer about at its Academy Awards show Monday night.

Both sides have reached general agreement on a formula for a new three-year contract, said sources close to the negotiations.

Hopes are high that such stars as Marilyn Monroe, Bing Crosby, Elizabeth Taylor and Alan Ladd will resume work next week in eight films suspended by the March 7 strike.

There appears to be no major issue to interfere with an official settlement. The actors have retreated from their original demand for a cut of any royalties of features made since 1948. The major producers, who have yet sold no post-1948 films to TV, said flatly they would not share profits with actors if they did.

Terms for a new three-year contract between the Screen Actors Guild and the Assn. of Motion Picture Producers were printed in Daily Variety Tuesday. A source close to the negotiations confirmed them. The formula:

1. The producers would pay three million dollars to a proposed SAG pension fund. This substitutes for the Guild's post-1948 features to TV demand.

2. On all films made since Feb. 1, 1960 and released to TV, actors will draw 6 per cent of the producers' net — total TV gross less 40 per cent for distribution. The payment will be the same whether a film was a hit or flop.

3. Producers will pay the equivalent of 5 per cent of all actors' salaries up to $100,000 — over and above the salaries — into a pension, health and welfare fund for actors.

4. Actors will seek no extra payment for features shown on pay TV, although they may when negotiating the next contract.

5. Salary increases: Daily actors from $90 to $100; weekly freelancers from $300 to $350; stuntmen from $90 to $100 per day.

Portable Atomic Reactor Unveiled

DUNKIRK, N.Y. (AP)—Nuclear engineers unveiled Tuesday a portable atomic reactor that may speed the advent of the atom as a major source of power in remote areas.

The 300-ton reactor will begin furnishing power and heat for an advanced scientific station on Greenland ice cap some time in August. The U. S. Army claims it will prove cheaper to operate than conventional diesel power plants.

The reactor, designed and built here by Alco Products, Inc., will be the first prepackaged nuclear generator ever set up at a remote outpost.

The nuclear unit will enable arctic researchers to man the Army's Camp Century in Greenland, 152 miles east of the big Thule Air Force Base.

Ground Test Of Mighty Saturn Engine Successful

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mighty Saturn rocket engine—this country's big hope for sending man to explore space—underwent a successful ground test, Dr. Wernher von Braun announced Tuesday.

Von Braun told the Senate Space Committee of the test as he forecast new money being applied to the program should speed up its operational date by about a year—from early 1965 to early 1964.

That engine, he said, should be powerful enough to hurl 25,000 pounds into orbit around the earth or lift 12,000 pounds to a landing on the moon.

The German-born rocket scientist, who heads the Saturn project, was asked the inevitable question: How is the United States doing in space, as compared with the Soviet Union?

His reply: U. S. space shots of the past year are yielding better scientific results than Soviet forays, but the Russians—with bigger rocket power—"still have the edge on us in the payload capacity."

It is this rocket deficiency that the 1½-million-pound thrust Saturn is intended to overcome.

Using colored motion pictures, Von Braun showed the committee how two of the Saturn booster's eight rocket clusters were tested Monday at the government's space flight center in Huntsville, Ala. It was a static, or tied-down, test.

Von Braun appeared in support of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's request for 915 million dollars in the bookkeeping year starting July 1.

House Boosts Money Bill, Then Passes It

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted Tuesday a 197½-million-dollar increase in health and education funds despite administration protests.

The money bill was passed after the House Appropriations Committee complained of administration budget policies in those fields.

The extra funds were in a $4,184,022,731 bill to finance the Labor Department, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and several small agencies for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The bill was sent to the Senate by roll call vote of 360-10.

Africans May Call For Total Work Boycott

Action Threatened By Negro Group If Demands Not Met

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Quiet returned to the Negro townships around Johannesburg and Cape Town Tuesday after many hours of terror. But militant nonwhites warned of more trouble unless their demands are met.

On the eve of the opening of the South African case before the U.N. Security Council in New York, Negro leaders here declared they will call a total work boycott unless the government abolishes its laws forcing them to carry passes at all times.

"We have said before and we repeat that there can be no peace in this country until the demands of the African (nonwhite) people are met," said William Jolobe, spokesman for the Pan Africanist Congress.

Bill Would Outlaw PAC

A one-day work boycott Monday in mourning for 72 persons killed by white police erupted into violence when the few Negroes who ignored the stay-home orders attempted to return from work.

The Negro workers were stoned and pursued by bands of their own race. Later the bands went on fire-setting raids, burning down a half dozen buildings, including churches.

Meanwhile, the Nationalist government of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd rushed through its second reading in Parliament a bill outlawing the PAC and the larger and more moderate African National Congress.

Cape Town Still Crippled

Negroes streamed back to work in Johannesburg after the night of violence but Cape Town still was crippled. Police ranged through the Negro quarters of Johannesburg looking for riot leaders.

The rules forcing nonwhites to show their passes to police were suspended last weekend following a campaign by the Pan-Africanists. But the government declared the suspension is temporary. The government has threatened to arrest anyone burning his passbook, long a symbol of the Negro's inferior status in jobs, homes and political power.

At Cape Town, Justice Minister F. C. Erasmus told Parliament the acts of the Pan-Africanists were close to revolution.

He announced that penalties for victimization and intimidation will be increased 10 times to a maximum of $1,400, five years in prison, 10 lashes, or a combination of all these. He said even stiffer sentences will be imposed if necessary.

West Rejects Soviet Nuclear Disarm Plan

GENEVA (AP) — The Western powers rejected Tuesday the Soviet approach to nuclear disarmament. They maintained the Kremlin's program was based on emotional slogans suitable for mass meetings but lacking any scientific reality.

French disarmament expert Jules Moch told the 10-nation disarmament conference that vague promises to surrender possession of nuclear weapons are meaningless unless accompanied by rigid controls.

In the present state of the world's scientific knowledge Moch said, it is impossible to tell how many atomic and hydrogen bombs are held in stock by the world's nuclear powers even with controls. Some stocks could always be hidden.

Moch said the problem should be attacked in a roundabout way since the control problem is so difficult. He suggested the powers agree on ways to control a cutoff in the production of fissionable materials for military purposes along with the conversion of known stockpiles to peaceful uses.

These two steps, the French delegate said, should be accompanied by the abolition of missiles and other delivery systems.

Senate Group Amends 'Heart' Of Rights Bill

Would Let State Registrars Sit In On Vote Hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Judiciary Committee Tuesday night approved the House-passed civil rights bill after making 15 changes in it.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee late Tuesday amended the voting referee section of the House civil rights bill to let state registrars sit in on Negro registration hearings.

The amendment, sponsored by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn), was adopted 7-6.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY) called this a "devasting blow" to the voting rights section, the core of the bill, and said it would scuttle the attempt to protect the right to vote for Negroes.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, a committee member, said a fight would be made to knock out the provision on the Senate floor and predicted this would be successful.

Midnight Deadline

Kefauver's amendment was one of several adopted by the committee as it worked against a midnight deadline to report the House measure back to the Senate.

The changes, if enacted by the Senate, could drag out the civil rights controversy still longer.

The first major change the committee voted in the House bill would make it a federal crime to obstruct all federal court orders—not just those dealing with school desegregation. That passed 9-5.

Another change struck out a part of the bill's antibombing section. By a voice vote the committee deleted a provision to make it a federal crime to flee across state lines to avoid prosecution for communicating any bombing threats, whether false or real.

Debate Begins Wednesday

If these or other changes go through in the Senate, the legislation would have to go back to the House. Southerners who have been fighting the bill would thus have another chance to block action there.

The Senate is to begin debate on the House bill, as amended by the committee, Wednesday. It began consideration of the issue Feb. 15.

In previous actions on another version of the bill, the Senate did what the Judiciary Committee did to broaden the court order section.

However, some senators protested this would work against labor unions in some circumstances and the Senate then threw out the whole section.

Rains Threaten More Flooding In Middle West

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Rains Tuesday brought threats of more flooding in parts of Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Iowa.

Dozens of streams already were overflowing from rapid melting of snow.

Helicopters rescued people marooned in several parts of Nebraska.

Rain fell in Nebraska as the snow melt continued. Flooding was worst in the eastern part of that state. Hundreds of persons left their homes.

A lake about eight miles wide was formed after a dike broke near Ashland, Neb., about 30 miles southwest of Omaha. The water isolated 35 farms. The dike broke on Ashland Creek after a drenching rain.

High water was blamed for three deaths in Missouri and two in Nebraska.

Thousands of acres of low farmland lay under water in the three states. Some of the land had been seeded, but no estimates of crop and other losses were available.

Scores of highways were closed by water, and Union Pacific Railroad tracks were covered about 50 miles northwest of Omaha. Trains were rerouted.

Five helicopters, each capable of carrying 16 persons, were sent to Nebraska from Ft. Riley, Kan. Nebraska National Guard helicopters also were busy airlifting.

In Kansas and Missouri the big burden of water from tributaries was still to come in the Kansas and Missouri rivers. Some smaller streams were dropping.

A severe thunderstorm forecast was issued for east central Kansas, west central, central and east central Missouri and west central Illinois. Some hail and windstorms also were forecast.

Navy Blimp Sets Endurance Mark

LAKEHURST, N.J., (UPI)—A Navy blimp with normal equipment established a new endurance record for sustained flight Tuesday by completing 95½ hours of anti-submarine patrol high over the Atlantic.

When it landed at Lakehurst Naval Air Station at 8:20 a.m., almost four days after takeoff, the blimp was running low on fuel and its 19 - member crew complained that they were out of cigarettes.

The craft, a ZPG-2, broke a record of 73.1 hours of sustained flight set by a sister ship 12 days ago.

Error In Body's Vast Cell Factory Triggers Cancer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Each day about 500 billion cells die in your body and 500 billion more are born.

In this vast factory of life lies a serious margin for error which can let cancer start, scientists said Tuesday. They're trying to understand the process, and errors, to devise better cancer controls.

With elegant precision, dying cells are almost always replaced by identical, healthy cells under genetic control.

But errors can creep in with something going awry to make a cell different, malignant, uncontrolled. Sometimes from outside—a virus or X rays perhaps —can toss in a monkey wrench to product oddities in the delicate life machinery of cells.

This estimate of 500 billion new cells daily — amounting to about one per cent of the total cells in the adult human body — was cited by Dr. M. Demerec, director of the Carnegie Institute Department of Genetics at Cold Springs Harbor, N. Y.

He and other scientists, speaking to an American Cancer Society seminar for science writers told of progress toward understanding the exquisitely simple yet tantalizingly complex process by which cells live, grow, reproduce, and form new life under genetic or hereditary controls.

New drugs often halt some cancers temporarily, then lose their punch as cancer cells become resistant.

Dr. Demerec said the drugs might well work better if two or more were used together. This might greatly reduce the chances that resistant cells would survive and keep growing.

Compromise With Soviet Bid Sought

Would Halt Smaller Tests If Policed Ban Put On Bigger Blasts

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—The United States and Britain accepted Tuesday the idea of a short-term ban on small underground nuclear tests — if the Soviet Union agrees first to a treaty providing cheat-proof inspection of bigger blasts.

President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan jointly unveiled the new proposal at the climax of a two-day strategy conference at Camp David in the Maryland mountains south of here.

An American spokesman said that if the Soviets are sincere it should be possible to sign such a historic inspection treaty within 90 days.

Eisenhower and Macmillan, in a windup statement, said they put forward their offer in a sincere effort to break the 17-month-old deadlock on how to ban nuclear weapons testing above and below ground.

Pending an answer from the Soviet Union, a spokesman for Eisenhower said he knew of no plans to stage underground nuclear tests in the United States.

Reply To Soviet Proposal

The Eisenhower-Macmillan offer came as a reply to a Soviet proposal 11 days ago calling for a halt to hard-to-detect underground blasts while East-West experts work out acceptable on-site inspection. The Soviets proposed that such a ban last four or five years.

The two Western leaders said they immediately would instruct nuclear ban negotiators, now meeting with Soviet representatives in Geneva, to introduce their offer formally into the talks.

In a move to speed progress, Eisenhower and Macmillan invited the Soviet government to join at once with the U. S. and British governments in a coordinated research program which they hope eventually will devise methods of detecting even tiny blasts.

In briefing newsmen afterward, the American spokesman said Macmillan and Eisenhower believe the ban on small underground tests should last about a year.

Senate Ratification Needed

The Senate would be called upon to ratify the formal treaty setting up the control system on other weapons tests. But the agreement stopping small blasts would be through an exchange of government declarations.

The Eisenhower-Macmillan conference, hastily arranged amid fears of widespread British-American differences, wound up in a burst of harmonious declarations.

British spokesmen said the two leaders had reforged a united stand of the nuclear disarmament front. Further, they said, they had reviewed East-West issues such as Berlin and Germany, and had discussed European economic rivalries.

Macmillan and Eisenhower stayed overnight at the heavily guarded Camp David retreat.

Macmillan planned to leave by plane for London Wednesday.

X15 Passes Unusual Tests

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The rocket ship X15 went through two unusual tests Tuesday — negative gravity and cold soak.

The negative gravity stress tests involve the force you feel when an elevator drops quickly from under you. A pilot feels it when a plane starts a power dive.

The cold soak came during prolonged exposure to subfreezing temperatures at high altitude.

Ace test pilot Scott Crossfield was at the controls during the nine-minute flight, the seventh with the No. 2 ship of the three X15s.

The tiny plane flew for 100 minutes mated to its mother B52 bomber, then under its own power swept from 45,000 feet up to 50,000 feet and a speed of 1,300 miles per hour.

The mated flight was to subject the two planes to the cold soak test, North American Aviation said. It tested the ability of their systems to operate after prolonged exposure to the 300-degrees below zero Fahrenheit temperature of liquid oxygen, a fuel ingredient.

The company called the tests successful.

U.S. Given Evidence That Plane Incident Arranged By Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. investigators held Tuesday a sworn statement that Castro officials conspired in an illegal plane flight which Cubans have blamed on the United States.

The statement came from William Schergales, one of the two U.S. fliers held by the Cubans since their small private craft came down in Matanzas, Cuba, on March 21.

Schergales was said to have plotted the incident with Dr. Juan Orta, a personal secretary in the office of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Washington authorities viewed the incident as a bungled attempt by the Castro regime to give Uncle Sam a propaganda black eye throughout Latin America and at the same time to get rid of one of Castro's Cuban enemies.

Some officials here considered referring the case to the Peace Committee of the Organization of American States, an inter-American body set up to ease Latin-American tension. They saw the flight as a violation of both U.S. and Cuban law, undertaken to inflame Cuban passions against Americans.

According to the original version of the incident put out by the Castro-controlled press, Schergales, 33, of West Hollywood, Fla., and Howard L. Rundquist, 35, of Miami, Fla., were forced down by gunfire when they flew in from Florida to pick up Lt. Col. Damasco Montesino, a police chief under Fulgencio Batista, ousted former Cuban president.

Cuban sources promptly pictured this as further evidence of what they claim are aggressive American designs against Cuba.

But the press stories soon died down. After a U.S. consul visited Schergales in jail, reports circulated that the flight was a Castro plot.

While further inquiry is under way, U.S. investigators so far have pieced together this picture of intrigue, double dealing and Cuban snafu:

Schergales went to Havana in February and spent several days in contact with Orta and with Capt. Alfredo Guerra, another aide in the Prime Minister's office, in working out the scheme.

Another Cuban official in on the plan was Maj. Abelardo Colome, chief of army intelligence in Cuba.

Schergales went back to Florida and enlisted Rundquist, a former U.S. Air Force pilot, for the flight. But Rundquist apparently did not know the trip was to be a put-up job. He thought the mission was simply to rescue Montesino.

When the plane arrived at the appointed rendezvous spot, Colome was waiting. He fired at it with a small pistol. Rundquist was hit in the foot, and the plane was damaged. Colome apologized, saying he had not meant to hit Rundquist.

Actors' Strike May End Today Or Tomorrow

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The four-week strike of actors against major movie studios is expected to end Wednesday or Thursday, with cameras rolling again next Monday.

This would give the industry something to cheer about at its Academy Awards show Monday night.

Both sides have reached general agreement on a formula for a new three-year contract, said sources close to the negotiations.

Hopes are high that such stars as Marilyn Monroe, Bing Crosby, Elizabeth Taylor and Alan Ladd will resume work next week in eight films suspended by the March 7 strike.

There appears to be no major issue to interfere with an official settlement. The actors have retreated from their original demand for a cut of any royalties of features made since 1948. The major producers, who have yet sold no post-1948 films to TV, said flatly they would not share profits with actors if they did.

Terms for a new three-year contract between the Screen Actors Guild and the Assn. of Motion Picture Producers were printed in Daily Variety Tuesday. A source close to the negotiations confirmed them. The formula:

1. The producers would pay three million dollars to a proposed SAG pension fund. This substitutes for the Guild's post-1948 features to TV demand.

2. On all films made since Feb. 1, 1960 and released to TV, actors will draw 6 per cent of the producers' net — total TV gross less 40 per cent for distribution. The payment will be the same whether a film was a hit or flop.

3. Producers will pay the equivalent of 5 per cent of all actors' salaries up to $100,000 — over and above the salaries — into a pension, health and welfare fund for actors.

4. Actors will seek no extra payment for features shown on pay TV, although they may when negotiating the next contract.

5. Salary increases: Daily actors from $90 to $100; weekly freelancers from $300 to $350; stuntmen from $90 to $100 per day.

Portable Atomic Reactor Unveiled

DUNKIRK, N.Y. (AP)—Nuclear engineers unveiled Tuesday a portable atomic reactor that may speed the advent of the atom as a major source of power in remote areas.

The 300-ton reactor will begin furnishing power and heat for an advanced scientific station on Greenland ice cap some time in August. The U. S. Army claims it will prove cheaper to operate than conventional diesel power plants.

The reactor, designed and built here by Alco Products, Inc., will be the first prepackaged nuclear generator ever set up at a remote outpost.

The nuclear unit will enable arctic researchers to man the Army's Camp Century in Greenland, 152 miles east of the big Thule Air Force Base.

West Rejects Soviet Nuclear Disarm Plan

GENEVA (AP) — The Western powers rejected Tuesday the Soviet approach to nuclear disarmament. They maintained the Kremlin's program was based on emotional slogans suitable for mass meetings but lacking any scientific reality.

French disarmament expert Jules Moch told the 10-nation disarmament conference that vague promises to surrender possession of nuclear weapons are meaningless unless accompanied by rigid controls.

In the present state of the world's scientific knowledge Moch said, it is impossible to tell how many atomic and hydrogen bombs are held in stock by the world's nuclear powers even with controls. Some stocks could always be hidden.

Moch said the problem should be attacked in a roundabout way since the control problem is so difficult. He suggested the powers agree on ways to control a cutoff in the production of fissionable materials for military purposes along with the conversion of known stockpiles to peaceful uses.

These two steps, the French delegate said, should be accompanied by the abolition of missiles and other delivery systems.

Rains Threaten More Flooding In Middle West

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Rains Tuesday brought threats of more flooding in parts of Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Iowa.

Dozens of streams already were overflowing from rapid melting of snow.

Helicopters rescued people marooned in several parts of Nebraska.

Rain fell in Nebraska as the snow melt continued. Flooding was worst in the eastern part of that state. Hundreds of persons left their homes.

A lake about eight miles wide was formed after a dike broke near Ashland, Neb., about 30 miles southwest of Omaha. The water isolated 35 farms. The dike broke on Ashland Creek after a drenching rain.

High water was blamed for three deaths in Missouri and two in Nebraska.

Thousands of acres of low farmland lay under water in the three states. Some of the land had been seeded, but no estimates of crop and other losses were available.

Scores of highways were closed by water, and Union Pacific Railroad tracks were covered about 50 miles northwest of Omaha. Trains were rerouted.

Five helicopters, each capable of carrying 16 persons, were sent to Nebraska from Ft. Riley, Kan. Nebraska National Guard helicopters also were busy airlifting.

In Kansas and Missouri the big burden of water from tributaries was still to come in the Kansas and Missouri rivers. Some smaller streams were dropping.

A severe thunderstorm forecast was issued for east central Kansas, west central, central and east central Missouri and west central Illinois. Some hail and windstorms also were forecast.

Navy Blimp Sets Endurance Mark

LAKEHURST, N.J., (UPI)—A Navy blimp with normal equipment established a new endurance record for sustained flight Tuesday by completing 95½ hours of anti-submarine patrol high over the Atlantic.

When it landed at Lakehurst Naval Air Station at 8:20 a.m., almost four days after takeoff, the blimp was running low on fuel and its 19 - member crew complained that they were out of cigarettes.

The craft, a ZPG-2, broke a record of 73.1 hours of sustained flight set by a sister ship 12 days ago.

Pair Must Die For Killing Four

GARDEN CITY, Kan. (AP) — Ex-convicts Richard Eugene Hickock, 28, and Perry Edward Smith, 31, were convicted Tuesday of first degree murder in the slaying last November of four members of the Herbert W. Clutter family. The jury sentenced them to die by hanging.

The jury deliberated less than two hours.

Hickock and Smith were convicted of using a knife and shotgun last Nov. 15 in the killing of Mr. and Mrs. Clutter, a daughter, Nancy, 16; and a son, Kenyon, 15.

The pair displayed no emotion at the verdict.

Statements made to police by the two men before the trial said they had killed the Clutters because they did not want any witnesses to a burglary of the Clutter's farm home near here.

They got a radio, a pair of binoculars, and less than $50 in cash.

House Boosts Money Bill, Then Passes It

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted Tuesday a 197½-million-dollar increase in health and education funds despite administration protests.

The money bill was passed after the House Appropriations Committee complained of administration budget policies in those fields.

The extra funds were in a $4,184,022,731 bill to finance the Labor Department, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and several small agencies for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The bill was sent to the Senate by roll call vote of 360-10.

Ground Test Of Mighty Saturn Engine Successful

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mighty Saturn rocket engine—this country's big hope for sending man to explore space—underwent a successful ground test, Dr. Wernher von Braun announced Tuesday.

Von Braun told the Senate Space Committee of the test as he forecast new money being applied to the program should speed up its operational date by about a year—from early 1965 to early 1964.

That engine, he said, should be powerful enough to hurl 25,000 pounds into orbit around the earth or lift 12,000 pounds to a landing on the moon.

The German-born rocket scientist, who heads the Saturn project, was asked the inevitable question: How is the United States doing in space, as compared with the Soviet Union?

His reply: U. S. space shots of the past year are yielding better scientific results than Soviet forays, but the Russians—with bigger rocket power—"still have the edge on us in the payload capacity."

It is this rocket deficiency that the 1½-million-pound thrust Saturn is intended to overcome.

Using colored motion pictures, Von Braun showed the committee how two of the Saturn booster's eight rocket clusters were tested Monday at the government's space flight center in Huntsville, Ala. It was a static, or tied-down, test.

Von Braun appeared in support of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's request for 915 million dollars in the bookkeeping year starting July 1.

Error In Body's Vast Cell Factory Triggers Cancer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Each day about 500 billion cells die in your body and 500 billion more are born.

In this vast factory of life lies a serious margin for error which can let cancer start, scientists said Tuesday. They're trying to understand the process, and errors, to devise better cancer controls.

With elegant precision, dying cells are almost always replaced by identical, healthy cells under genetic control.

But errors can creep in with something going awry to make a cell different, malignant, uncontrolled. Sometimes from outside—a virus or X rays perhaps —can toss in a monkey wrench to product oddities in the delicate life machinery of cells.

This estimate of 500 billion new cells daily — amounting to about one per cent of the total cells in the adult human body — was cited by Dr. M. Demerec, director of the Carnegie Institute Department of Genetics at Cold Springs Harbor, N. Y.

He and other scientists, speaking to an American Cancer Society seminar for science writers told of progress toward understanding the exquisitely simple yet tantalizingly complex process by which cells live, grow, reproduce, and form new life under genetic or hereditary controls.

New drugs often halt some cancers temporarily, then lose their punch as cancer cells become resistant.

Dr. Demerec said the drugs might well work better if two or more were used together. This might greatly reduce the chances that resistant cells would survive and keep growing.

X15 Passes Unusual Tests

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The rocket ship X15 went through two unusual tests Tuesday — negative gravity and cold soak.

The negative gravity stress tests involve the force you feel when an elevator drops quickly from under you. A pilot feels it when a plane starts a power dive.

The cold soak came during prolonged exposure to subfreezing temperatures at high altitude.

Ace test pilot Scott Crossfield was at the controls during the nine-minute flight, the seventh with the No. 2 ship of the three X15s.

The tiny plane flew for 100 minutes mated to its mother B52 bomber, then under its own power swept from 45,000 feet up to 50,000 feet and a speed of 1,300 miles per hour.

The mated flight was to subject the two planes to the cold soak test, North American Aviation said. It tested the ability of their systems to operate after prolonged exposure to the 300-degrees below zero Fahrenheit temperature of liquid oxygen, a fuel ingredient.

The company called the tests successful.

Pros And Cons Of Loan Firm Control Bill Aired

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes was told Tuesday that regulation of Maryland savings and loan associations is needed but the state should not "burn down the house to catch the rats."

J. Calvin Carney, Baltimore attorney representing non-insured, state-chartered associations, argued the measure would force many of these small, neighborhood associations out of business.

Some 400 persons attended a hearing on the bill in the House of Delegates chamber of the Statehouse. The majority stood in opposition to the measure when asked by Carney for a show of sentiment.

Del. Joseph Tydings (D-Harford), sponsor of the bill, argued it is designed merely to keep "fly-by-night operators" out of Maryland and to protect the public from losing their savings. He denied it would work hardships on the smaller associations.

Among othe things, it requires savings and loan firm directors to be residents of the state for two years, prohibits firms to use "insured" in their names to lure depositors, requires them to file and make public annual financial statements, and provides a penalty up to three years in prison or a $10,000 fine.

The bill is further aimed at limiting associations to mutual-type companies, in which all investors have a voice apart from stock companies in which holders of one type of stock have voting rights while holders of another do not have a voice.

Tawes said he was concerned about "the unfavorable light" in which the state has been put with the recent indictment of three savings and loan associations on charges of using the mails to defraud.

He noted that Maryland is the only state which does not regulate savings and loans associations, but added:

"The last thing I want to do is to run the legitimate neighborhood associations out of business."

Opponents of the bill asked Tawes to veto it and appoint a commission to study the problem and present a proposal to the next General Assembly.

Young Swastika Painters Break Promise, Jailed

FREDERICK (AP) — Before the judge stood four boys who had left a painted trail of swastikas around town.

"We just wanted to put Frederick on the map," 16-year-old John Dorsey had explained after their arrest last January.

Monday's trip before Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer was the second in recent weeks for Dorsey, Wayne Brewer, Robert Remsburg and Joseph Baer. Brewer and Remsburg are also 16 and Baer is 17.

At a Feb. 26 juvenile court hearing Schnauffer placed the boys on probation before verdict. They were accused of smearing swastikas Jan. 18 on the city water tank, the Beth Sholom synagogue and the wall of the Visitation Convent, a Catholic school.

The probation requirements:

Each must end his association with the others, stay out of a drug store where they dreamed up the swastika-painting spree, and write a 500-word essay about the Nazi symbol and religious freedom.

On the night before the 10-day deadline for submission of the essays, police found the four at a drinking party in Brewer's home.

His father, Charles Brewer, 58, was sentenced to two years in the Maryland Reformatory for Males on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Schnauffer recalled Monday that the boys had promised to reform and that he had promised —if they failed—to try them on criminal charges of defacing property by painting swastikas.

Lawyers for the youngsters pleaded for leniency. Probation officials had noted that the fathers of Remsburg and Dorsey had died when the boys were young and that Baer's parents were separated. The record included spotty school attendance, little religious training.

The boys had broken their promise, said Schnauffer, "but I intend to keep mine."

The boys pleaded guilty to the criminal charges.

Schnauffer sentenced young Brewer to three years, Dorsey and Baer to two years, and Remsberg to one year in the reformatory.

Khrush Concedes France Makes Best Champagne

EPERNAY, France (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has finally found something that France does better —champagne-making. He admitted it Tuesday.

Surrounded by thousands of bottles here in the heart of the champagne country, he said: "We make a wine in Russia and the fact that we call it champagne — well, that's homage to you."

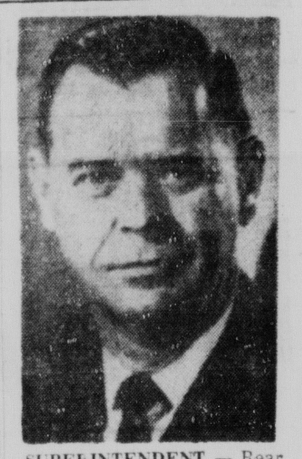

After World War II, the Soviets announced they had discovered an electrical method of making champagne.

Soviet engineers in 40 minutes could manufacture champagne as good as the best French brand, said Moscow.

The electric champagne made a brief appearance in Moscow stores in 1946 — and quickly disappeared. Wags said the taste was too shocking.

Khrushchev sipped a glass of the French variety, smiled broadly and admitted it was "the best."

"It's good," he added. "In fact it's very, very excellent."

Humphrey Again Raps Kennedy's Voting Record

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn), renewed Tuesday his attack on the voting record of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), his opponent in the April 5 Wisconsin presidential primary.

Kennedy, commenting on similar previous criticism, said he would not "indulge in a debate of that kind."

The presidential contenders headed into the final week of campaigning for Wisconsin's 31 votes at the National Democratic Convention. Both candidates will remain in the state until balloting is ended.

Lanphier Hits Ike Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thomas G. Lanphier Jr. said Tuesday that President Eisenhower "has led us incompetently to a point where we are in jeopardy of our national life."

Lanphier, a World War II flying ace, quit a $60,000-a-year job with an aircraft company so he could be free to criticize the administration's defense policies.

In a speech to the National Press Club, Lanphier said Eisenhower has done this by not recognizing that we were in World War III. Hence, he has put budget balancing above all and, as a result, 'business as usual' is the watchword in our land. And business is pretty good."

Lanphier, former vice president of the Convair Co., a key firm in the development of America's Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile, said it was "unfair of the President" to select former secretaries of defense Charles E. Wilson and Neil H. McElroy for the post.

He said "Wilson by his lack of recognition of the bursting power of science was a detriment to our defense effort," and McElroy was "simply lazy."

Night Club Tax Cut Bill Sent To Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate passed Tuesday night a reduction from 20 to 10 per cent in night club and cabaret taxes and sent the measure to President Eisenhower.

There was no debate and the measure was passed by voice vote. The House had approved it last Sept. 1.

Sabotage Suspected In Fire Fatal To 20

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—As the rubble of Scotland's most disastrous peacetime fire still smouldered, police began an investigation of possible sabotage.

Twenty firemen died Monday in the blazing ruins of a whisky warehouse on the Glasgow docks. They were trapped under tons of falling brick.

It was Glasgow's third major fire in five weeks. Each one started in a whisky warehouse, where raw spirit is left in barrels to mature.

Conference Told Youth Should Be Heard In School Integration

WASHINGTON (AP)—Everyone seems to have forgotten that the Supreme Court's 1945 school integration decision was all about the hearts and minds of children, a Southern race relations expert said Tuesday.

Harold C. Fleming of Atlanta, Ga., executive director of the Southern Regional Council, coupled the declaration with a plea that school integration be delivered "from the exclusive control of lawyers and politicians." He said the voices of children and youth — or those who specialize in their education — should be heard.

Fleming brought the matter before a forum session of the 1960 White House conference on children and youth.

Although he was ill and unable to attend, his speech was read by Whitney M. Young Jr., dean of the school of social work of Atlanta University.

Desegregation was discussed by several other forum speakers at the third session of the 50th anniversary conference which is devoted to problems of America's youngsters.

Kimball Wiles, professor of education at the University of Florida, said historians looking back over the 1950s probably "will place the fight for increased civil liberties of minority groups second in importance to our entering the space age."

Wiles questioned whether the millions of Southern children, white and Negro, growing up in the midst of this conflict can be expected to take seriously what is taught about citizenship, government and justice, or whether they can be expected to respect law and order or put faith in elected political leaders.

Corinne Calvet Granted Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) —Actress Corinne Calvet today obtained a divorce from actor Jess Stone after testifying his conduct damaged her health.

Miss Calvet told Superior Judge Orlando Rhodes that she married Stone in Morocco April 12, 1955, and they separated a year ago. She testified that whenever she would ask Stone about rumors of his conduct with other women he would scream at her.

"I was an emotional mess," she testified. "I was on tranquilizers."

"Even when he left me I didn't know he was going," she said. "Everybody in town knew it before I did."

Apartheid Doomed, Billy Graham Says

NEW YORK (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham, who skirted South Africa during a tour of the African continent, said Tuesday segregation is doomed there.

Back from a 2½-month missionary journey, Graham declared he plans no crusade in South Africa as long as apartheid, or segregation of the races, is the practice.

"In no period of history has apartheid worked," he added. "It has never worked. I think the people of South Africa have realized it."

Speaking of Africa in general, Graham said: "There is more good will toward the United States in Africa than in any other part of the world I have ever visited."

Pioneer Findings Strengthen Solar Winds Theory

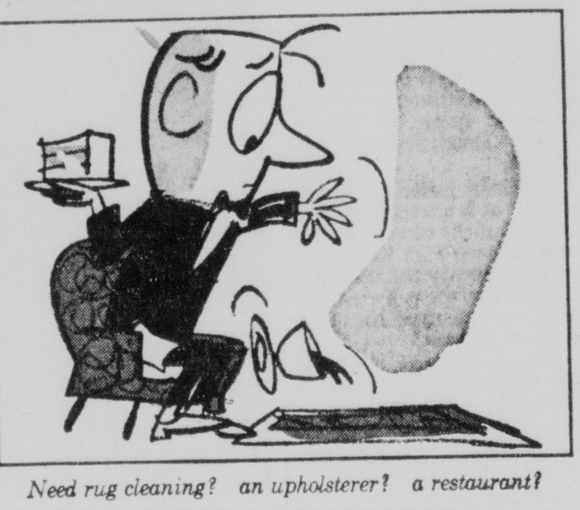

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pioneer V has detected new information strengthening a theory that an electrical solar wind can play hob with television, radio and other communications on earth.

This was reported Tuesday by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in disclosing the first major findings by the 94.8 pound space messenger which already has soared more than 2½ million miles on its long jaunt toward the sun.

NASA said Pioneer V has tentatively confirmed a finding by one of its predecessors, Pioneer I, that there is a distinct region of magnetic field between 20,000 and 16,000 miles above the surface of the earth.

Sabotage Suspected In Fire Fatal To 20

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—As the rubble of Scotland's most disastrous peacetime fire still smouldered, police began an investigation of possible sabotage.

Twenty firemen died Monday in the blazing ruins of a whisky warehouse on the Glasgow docks. They were trapped under tons of falling brick.

It was Glasgow's third major fire in five weeks. Each one started in a whisky warehouse, where raw spirit is left in barrels to mature.

WAITS AT HOME—Albert M. Herman, 33, relaxes at his Albany, N. Y., home by repairing a TV set while he hopes for the return of the girl he married a week ago. Khrush Concedes France Makes Best Champagne

EPERNAY, France (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has finally found something that France does better —champagne-making. He admitted it Tuesday.

Surrounded by thousands of bottles here in the heart of the champagne country, he said: "We make a wine in Russia and the fact that we call it champagne — well, that's homage to you."

After World War II, the Soviets announced they had discovered an electrical method of making champagne.

Soviet engineers in 40 minutes could manufacture champagne as good as the best French brand, said Moscow.

The electric champagne made a brief appearance in Moscow stores in 1946 — and quickly disappeared. Wags said the taste was too shocking.

Khrushchev sipped a glass of the French variety, smiled broadly and admitted it was "the best."

"It's good," he added. "In fact it's very, very excellent."

Conference Told Youth Should Be Heard In School Integration

WASHINGTON (AP)—Everyone seems to have forgotten that the Supreme Court's 1945 school integration decision was all about the hearts and minds of children, a Southern race relations expert said Tuesday.

Harold C. Fleming of Atlanta, Ga., executive director of the Southern Regional Council, coupled the declaration with a plea that school integration be delivered "from the exclusive control of lawyers and politicians." He said the voices of children and youth — or those who specialize in their education — should be heard.

Fleming brought the matter before a forum session of the 1960 White House conference on children and youth.

Although he was ill and unable to attend, his speech was read by Whitney M. Young Jr., dean of the school of social work of Atlanta University.

Desegregation was discussed by several other forum speakers at the third session of the 50th anniversary conference which is devoted to problems of America's youngsters.

Kimball Wiles, professor of education at the University of Florida, said historians looking back over the 1950s probably "will place the fight for increased civil liberties of minority groups second in importance to our entering the space age."

Wiles questioned whether the millions of Southern children, white and Negro, growing up in the midst of this conflict can be expected to take seriously what is taught about citizenship, government and justice, or whether they can be expected to respect law and order or put faith in elected political leaders.

Corinne Calvet Granted Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) —Actress Corinne Calvet today obtained a divorce from actor Jess Stone after testifying his conduct damaged her health.

Miss Calvet told Superior Judge Orlando Rhodes that she married Stone in Morocco April 12, 1955, and they separated a year ago. She testified that whenever she would ask Stone about rumors of his conduct with other women he would scream at her.

"I was an emotional mess," she testified. "I was on tranquilizers."

"Even when he left me I didn't know he was going," she said. "Everybody in town knew it before I did."

Apartheid Doomed, Billy Graham Says

NEW YORK (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham, who skirted South Africa during a tour of the African continent, said Tuesday segregation is doomed there.

Back from a 2½-month missionary journey, Graham declared he plans no crusade in South Africa as long as apartheid, or segregation of the races, is the practice.

"In no period of history has apartheid worked," he added. "It has never worked. I think the people of South Africa have realized it."

Speaking of Africa in general, Graham said: "There is more good will toward the United States in Africa than in any other part of the world I have ever visited."

Pioneer Findings Strengthen Solar Winds Theory

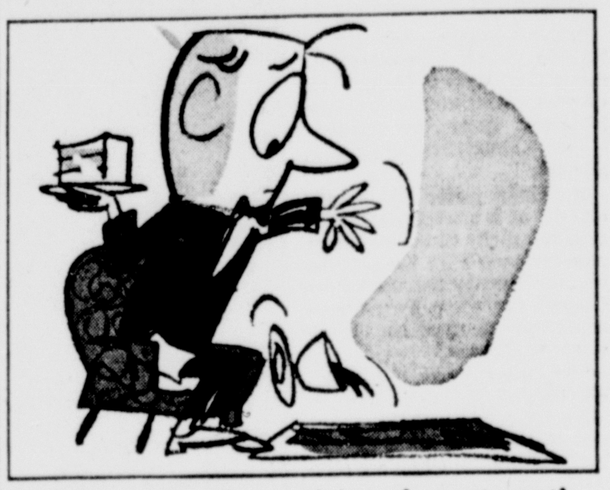

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pioneer V has detected new information strengthening a theory that an electrical solar wind can play hob with television, radio and other communications on earth.

This was reported Tuesday by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in disclosing the first major findings by the 94.8 pound space messenger which already has soared more than 2½ million miles on its long jaunt toward the sun.

NASA said Pioneer V has tentatively confirmed a finding by one of its predecessors, Pioneer I, that there is a distinct region of magnetic field between 20,000 and 16,000 miles above the surface of the earth.

DE Skipper Admits Responsibility For Avoiding Collision Under Rules

Tells Inquiry He Didn't Know "Crossing Situation" Existed

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Naval Reserve skipper of a destroyer escort conceded Tuesday that under the traffic rules of the sea it was his responsibility to avoid a collision with a merchant ship if he had been aware of its course.

But Cmdr. John Allen of Baltimore told a Coast Guard Board of Investigation he did not realize what is known as a "crossing situation" existed.

If he had, Allen said, "In all probability I would have given hard right rudder and back starboard engine."

Instead, after first stopping the USS Darby dead in the water, he ordered a left turn and all engines fully reversed. The Swedish merchant ship, the Soya-Atlantic, hit the right stern of the destroyer on the evening of March 19 off Cape Henry in Chesapeake Bay.

Two Maryland naval reservists were killed and several injured. The Darby was winding up a two-week training cruise for reservists at the time.

Allen, in civilian life an employe of a liquor distillery, testified he first spotted what he assumed to be the lights of a ferry about a mile away.

After some reflection, Allen said he ordered the engines stopped. In about a minute, he said he heard four whistle blasts — the danger signal — from the Soya.

Allen then ordered the hard left turn and reverse engines, responded with the danger signal "And the Soya turned with us and shifted farther back on our starboard bow," he said.

"I could see the Soya 200 to 300 feet on the bow passing us. It seemed we just stood there. She (Soya) came in. We were not moving.

"I ordered the rudder amidships and all engines ahead full and we struck."

Under questioning by Lt. Cmdr M. E. Meekins of the Coast Guard board and Hugh S. Meredith, attorney for the Soya-Atlantic owners, Allen said his radar men had not been tracking the merchant ship.

He also said he received no reports on it from lookouts or ever determined its range, bearing and course.

It was a very clear night, he said, and windows on the bridge from which he observed the other ship were open. He estimated the time of the collision at 7:45 p.m.

In answering a hypothetical question by Meredith, Allen said if he had known the course and speed of the Soya he should have turned right so as to pass astern of the approaching vessel.

Allen said the speed of the Darby had been increased from 15 to 19 knots about 2½ hours after the collision in order to return what he called "VIPs" to Little Creek, Va., as early as possible.

On board the vessel to watch an anti-submarine warfare exercise were Assistant Secretary of the Navy Richard Thompson, Rear Admiral Robert T. S. Keith, chief of Naval reserve training, Rep. James Van Zandt (R-Pa) and Capt. William T. Thomas, commodore of the Darby's division.

The Coast Guard hearing was shifted to Baltimore Tuesday because most of the reservists on board live here. Testimony from principals aboard the Soya-Atlantic was heard last week in Norfolk.

Eastern Stainless Shipments Soar

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Eastern Stainless Steel Corp. should end the first quarter of 1960 with shipments reaching the highest level for any three-month period in its history, the annual stockholders meeting was told Tuesday.

John M. Curley, chairman of the board, said "January shipments from our Baltimore mill exceeded those of any previous month."

"This," he said, "was as we expected following the settlement of the national steel strike, because of the accumulated backlog carried over from 1959. Shipments during February and March continued at this high level . . . "

"Following the current trend of the steel industry, however, we cannot look for the same record volume of business . . . during the second quarter," Curley reported.

The stockholders also were informed that operations at Industrial Stainless Steels, Eastern's subsidiary in Cambridge, Mass., also were brisk in the first quarter and may approach record levels.

TESTIMONY RESUMED—This was the scene at the Baltimore Customs House yesterday as the Coast Guard reconvened a board of inquiry to determine the cause of a collision between the U.S.S. Darby and the S. S. Soya Atlantic. Left to right are Cmdr. Manson Meekins; Cmdr. Torlav Berg; Cmdr. R. O. Foster; Hugh S. Meredith and Eugene Gilligan, counsel for the Soya Atlantic; Lt. George Schteufele, Darby deck officer; Capt. Carl Lundin, Navy legal department; Cmdr. John C. Allen, commander of the Darby, and Robert Kages, U. S. attorney.

Quartz Worker Charged With Murder

BALTIMORE (AP) — A South Baltimore man was charged Tuesday with the murder of a quartz plant worker whose death for a time was believed to have been due to natural causes or suicide.

Capt. George Klemmick of the Homicide Division filed the charge against Joseph George Karasek, 45, an engineer at the Philadelphia Quartz Co. plant, in the fatal shooting of William Wentworth, 51.

Wentworth, a furnace operator, was found dead outside the mixing room at the plant Friday night by Karasek, police reported.

It was at first thought Wentworth had suffered a heart attack. Twelve hours later, police started an investigation when Dr. William V. Lovitt Jr., assistant medical examiner, discovered that Wentworth had been shot in the head.

A small caliber bullet had entered the victim's head. There were powder burns as though the gun had been pressed against his head and fired. Dr. Lovitt reported. Police studied the suicide angle, but they could find no gun at the scene.

Police said Karasek then turned over a 32 caliber pistol which he said belonged to him and was kept in his plant locker. Officers were told that Wentworth knew where the gun was located.

Police reported that Karasek said he picked up the gun when he found the body and returned it to his locker so that Wentworth's death would appear to be due to natural causes. Karasek, police added, did this because he wanted to save the family the "embarrasment" of knowing he shot himself.

Karasek repeatedly denied the slaying, and at one point prepared to take lie detector test. He later refused on advice of his attorney.

12 To 19 Potomac Basin Reservoirs Are Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brig. Gen. Thomas H. Lipscomb, Army division engineer for the North Atlantic states, told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee Tuesday 12 to 19 reservoirs are contemplated in the Potomac River Basin for water supplies and pollution abatement.

Under questioning by Sen. Willis A. Robertson (D-Va), Lipscomb said the location of the dams and reservoirs had not been determined. But 1,780,000 acre feet of storage are needed, he said, to take care of water and pollution abatement in the District of Columbia and upstream communities.

Lipscomb said the headwaters dams would flood about 90 square miles. He said medium-sized reservoirs are planned principally for water and pollution control purposes, rather than power production which he said would be uneconomic. Recreational uses would be offshoot benefits, Lipscomb said.

Consideration is being given to a dam on the Shenandoah below Front Royal, Lipscomb said, as an alternate to the smaller dams. He said such a dam would flood an estimated 9,900 acres and part of U.S. 50. He said no communities would be involved.

Lipscomb said Staunton and Waynesboro both need water. He added water impoundments will be more urgently needed in the future for other Virginia communities.

He also said reservoir dams also are contemplated just west of Harrisonburg, Va. and possibly at River Bend, Va., which would flood approximately 6,000 acres in Loudon County.

Lipscomb said the engineers could supply District of Columbia needs with two or three good-sized dams, but they would not care for upstream communities.

Bethlehem To Expand Sparrows Point Plant

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The Sparrows Point plant of the Bethlehem Steel Company, already the nation's largest steelmaking facility, announced plans Tuesday to increase annual production capacity by almost 10 per cent within the next two years.

The plant currently is capable of producing 8,200,000 ingot tons a year and the new target is 9,000,000, according to General Manager C. T. Stott.

Stott declined to estimate the cost of the expansion, but he said it was included in the 197-million dollars which Bethlehem president A. B. Homer recently told stockholders had been authorized for the company's plant expansion and improvement program.

The key to the increased ingot capacity, Stott explained, is a plan to equip all seven, 375-ton furnaces in a new open hearth shop for the use of oxygen.

The tightly populated and fertile continent of Africa has more undeveloped potentialities than any other continent.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Eastern Stainless Steel Corp. should end the first quarter of 1960 with shipments reaching the highest level for any three-month period in its history, the annual stockholders meeting was told Tuesday.

John M. Curley, chairman of the board, said "January shipments from our Baltimore mill exceeded those of any previous month."

"This," he said, "was as we expected following the settlement of the national steel strike, because of the accumulated backlog carried over from 1959. Shipments during February and March continued at this high level . . . "

"Following the current trend of the steel industry, however, we cannot look for the same record volume of business . . . during the second quarter," Curley reported.

The stockholders also were informed that operations at Industrial Stainless Steels, Eastern's subsidiary in Cambridge, Mass., also were brisk in the first quarter and may approach record levels.

Quartz Worker Charged With Murder

BALTIMORE (AP) — A South Baltimore man was charged Tuesday with the murder of a quartz plant worker whose death for a time was believed to have been due to natural causes or suicide.

Capt. George Klemmick of the Homicide Division filed the charge against Joseph George Karasek, 45, an engineer at the Philadelphia Quartz Co. plant, in the fatal shooting of William Wentworth, 51.

Wentworth, a furnace operator, was found dead outside the mixing room at the plant Friday night by Karasek, police reported.

It was at first thought Wentworth had suffered a heart attack.

Twelve hours later, police started an investigation when Dr. William V. Lovitt Jr., assistant medical examiner, discovered that Wentworth had been shot in the head.

A small caliber bullet had entered the victim's head. There were powder burns as though the gun had been pressed against his head and fired, Dr. Lovitt reported. Police studied the suicide angle, but they could find no gun at the scene.

Police said Karasek then turned over a 32 caliber pistol which he said belonged to him and was kept in his plant locker. Officers were told that Wentworth knew where the gun was located.

Police reported that Karasek said he picked up the gun when he found the body and returned it to his locker so that Wentworth's death would appear to be due to natural causes. Karasek, police added, did this because he wanted to save the family the "embarrasment" of knowing he shot himself.

Karasek repeatedly denied the slaying, and at one point prepared to take lie detector test. He later refused on advice of his attorney.

12 To 19 Potomac Basin Reservoirs Are Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brig. Gen. Thomas H. Lipscomb, Army division engineer for the North Atlantic states, told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee Tuesday 12 to 19 reservoirs are contemplated in the Potomac River Basin for water supplies and pollution abatement.

Under questioning by Sen. Willis A. Robertson (D-Va), Lipscomb said the location of the dams and reservoirs had not been determined. But 1,780,000 acre feet of storage are needed, he said, to take care of water and pollution abatement in the District of Columbia and upstream communities.

Lipscomb said the headwaters dams would flood about 90 square miles. He said medium-sized reservoirs are planned principally for water and pollution control purposes, rather than power production which he said would be uneconomic. Recreational uses would be offshoot benefits, Lipscomb said.

Consideration is being given to a dam on the Shenandoah below Front Royal, Lipscomb said, as an alternate to the smaller dams. He said such a dam would flood an estimated 9,900 acres and part of U.S. 50. He said no communities would be involved.

Lipscomb said Staunton and Waynesboro both need water. He added water impoundments will be more urgently needed in the future for other Virginia communities.

He also said reservoir dams also are contemplated just west of Harrisonburg, Va. and possibly at River Bend, Va., which would flood approximately 6,000 acres in Loudon County.

Lipscomb said the engineers could supply District of Columbia needs with two or three good-sized dams, but they would not care for upstream communities.

Bethlehem To Expand Sparrows Point Plant

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The Sparrows Point plant of the Bethlehem Steel Company, already the nation's largest steelmaking facility, announced plans Tuesday to increase annual production capacity by almost 10 per cent within the next two years.

The plant currently is capable of producing 8,200,000 ingot tons a year and the new target is 9,000,000, according to General Manager C. T. Stott.

Stott declined to estimate the cost of the expansion, but he said it was included in the 197-million dollars which Bethlehem president A. B. Homer recently told stockholders had been authorized for the company's plant expansion and improvement program.

The key to the increased ingot capacity, Stott explained, is a plan to equip all seven, 375-ton furnaces in a new open hearth shop for the use of oxygen.

The tightly populated and fertile continent of Africa has more undeveloped potentialities than any other continent.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) Certain movie stars remind Hollywood designer Edith Head of certain animals.

"I just can't help associating certain stars with animals," the Academy-award- winning designer said in an interview. "Most of the female stars remind me of felines."

Everytime Miss Head sees Elizabeth Taylor, however, she thinks of a fawn. "She reminds me of a wooded animal that's always ready for flight."

Men remind Miss Head either of horses or dogs.

"Both have traits of the human male," she said. "They are less devious, more direct, more grateful and much more cooperative than the females.

"A man strides like a horse or dog. He is forthright. Women aren't and neither are felines."

"Maybe the animals aren't going to like this, but let me cite a few of my animal-human associations with Hollywood's top female stars."

—"Marilyn Monroe, with her big trusting eyes, is like a white, luxurious and relaxed kitten.

—"Kim Novak reminds me of a sleek Siamese. She has the same kind of haunting, know-it-all eyes.

—"Sophia Loren has the bearing and stature and courage of a lioness. There's a regality about her. When she walks into a room, you can almost see her tossing her mane.

—"Shirley MacLaine is a composite of every animal in the jungle. She can be a doe, a panther, a monkey or even a racehorse at the drop of a hat. She's the only woman since Carole Lombard to give me that impression.

—"Doris Day strikes me as the golden collie type. She has the collie's friendliness and out-going way.

—"Debbie Reynolds is like a leopard cub. She's small, cuddly, elegant."

Miss Head said her first-hand knowledge of animals started in childhood when she was raised in a mining camp.

She now lives in a Mexican farmhouse. Inside are dogs and cats.

Outside are snakes, red foxes and spiders.

Law-Abiding 'Vegas' Has Outstanding Police Chief

By JOHN F. CAHLAN
Managing Editor,
Las Vegas Review-Journal

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — When Las Vegas is mentioned in the United States, and in most foreign countries, there are visions of crap tables and roulette wheels spinning and clicking, surrounded by a bunch of mud huts and dirt streets.

Most of the nation, because of the stories which pour out from the desert spa, has the belief that the residents of the community haunt the casinos and dump all of their cash on the tables hoping to "break the bank" and leave the community for greener fields.

They don't realize that the citizens live much the same type of life as do those of Paducah, Ky., of Des Moines, Iowa. The only difference is that when the citizens desire entertainment, they can find the most glamorous shows in the world only a few blocks away from home.

Most Las Vegans are proud of their home town. That is why they were so impressed when their chief of police, Ray Sheffer, recently was nominated for one of the 10 outstanding young men of the nation by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. Sheffer was among the finalists and missed out only during the last go-round.

Sheffer polices one of the few "24 hour" towns in America. The bars and the gambling casinos never close. His job is made doubly tough by the fact gambling attracts all sorts of hangers-on.

But the Las Vegas chief is well able to take care of any type character who might think the community is open territory for crime. He stands well over six feet tall, weighs about 200 pounds and looks like an All - American tackle.

He is the youngest chief of police in any major city in the United States — just nearing 36.

One of Sheffer's trademarks is his eyes. They are sort of hazel, but the pupils are as black as night and look like the muzzles of .22 caliber revolvers as they peer out from under bushy eyebrows. He appears to be looking right through you, even when he is in a light mood and off duty. Many criminals have broken under the stares of those eyes.

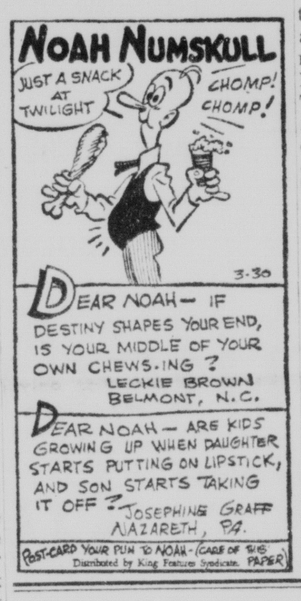

The chief came up through the ranks, so he knows what his men have to and can do. He is the type who leads his police department rather than driving the members. He never calls upon them to do something he would not do or has not done himself. That is why morale is high in the department.

Sheffer has been in the forefront of battles to curb narcotics, juvenile delinquency and to make better officers of the members of his department.

Titan Seen Operational By June, 1961

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force has predicted that its first Titan long-range missile squadron will become operational June 1, 1961.

The forecast was made by Maj. Gen. Osmond J. Ritland, commander of the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division, in closed - door testimony published Tuesday by the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee.

Ritland said the Titan has met its test objectives "extremely successfully." Six out of its first nine flights have been successful, he said.

He said the program is behind its original target date but this was due to a decision in the spring of 1958 to "harden" ballistic missile launching sites and protect them with thick layers of concrete.

Singer Pat Suzuki Weds Photographer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pat Suzuki, pert star of the Broadway musical hit, "Flower Drum Song," was married quietly in Baltimore Monday to New York fashion photographer Mark Shaw, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Sol A. Jacobson, press agent for the show, said the couple slipped away to Baltimore and were married Tuesday afternoon at the First Unitarian Church there. They returned here immediately so the pretty Nisei Japanese singer could appear in the show Monday night.

All inhabitants of the Philippine islands who profess the Mohammedan faith are known as Morros.

It took Leonardo da Vinci about two years to paint The Last Supper.

From 60 to 80 per cent of the traffic fatalities in American cities are to pedestrians.

Kopp Assumes Duties On Civil Service Board

The Allegany County Civil Service Board met Monday at the Court House at which time Charles L. Kopp assumed his duties on the board.

Kopp was named several weeks ago when William L. Wilson submitted his resignation to become a member of the Allegany County Board of Education.

The Civil Service unit discussed pending examinations and also the request of the County Board of Commissioners concerning the inclusion of employes of the tax office at the Court House under the system.

Doctor's Combination of Ingredients Stops Stomach Gas Before It Starts

Buffalo, N.Y. (Special)—Thousands of people who suffered for years from gassy stomach, heartburn, belching after meals and other symptoms of acid indigestion now report wonderful relief, thanks to a remarkable formula developed by a prominent doctor and known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Containing not just one or two, but a special combination of 7 ingredients, this famous medicine is designed to stop stomach gas before it even starts.

Instead of upsetting the delicate acid-balance of the stomach, as too frequent use of soda and alkalizers often does, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery actually promotes more normal stomach activity.

Taken regularly, it tones up your digestive system and helps you avoid gas pains, heartburn and sour stomach. Once your stomach is working properly, you can eat what you like without fear of distress.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has helped so many people that over 38 million bottles have been sold. Get it at your druggist's today in liquid or tablets. Your money back if not entirely satisfied.

Cancer Grant Is Made To Hospital In Baltimore

A cancer research grant of $5,000 has been made to University Hospital (University of Maryland), Baltimore, by the Health Research & Services Foundation of County United Fund, Dr. W. Royce Hodges, chairman of the research committee of the foundation announced yesterday.

The grant was made at the request of Dr. Fernando G. Bloedorn, head of the hospital's Division of Radiotherapy and associate professor of Radiology.

It will be applied, according to Dr. Bloedorn, to the Betatron project of the hospital and will be "specially assigned to the development of the research: Electron beam at very high energy levels in human tissues:

"1. Effect of electron beam irradiation in normal and tumor tissues.

"2. Development of techniques of treatment of cancer by very high energy of electron beams.

"3. Basic research in total body irradiation (tolerance and effect) and others related to protection in atomic warfare."

In addition to Dr. Hodges, members of the foundation research committee are Dr. James P. Hallinan, William A. Hersh, Dr. Robert W. McCoy, Jr., Robert E. Moore, Roy T. Satzer and John G. Thomas. In applying for the $5,000 grant, Dr. Bloedorn told the committee:

"During the past four years the Division of Radiotherapy has developed into a center where most of the cancer patients of Maryland are treated.

"An average of seventy patients are treated daily, and the results of treatment compare favorably with the best results obtained in the world.

"It is the only center in the state where supervoltage therapy (Cobalt teletherapy unit) is available for the treatment of malignant tumors."

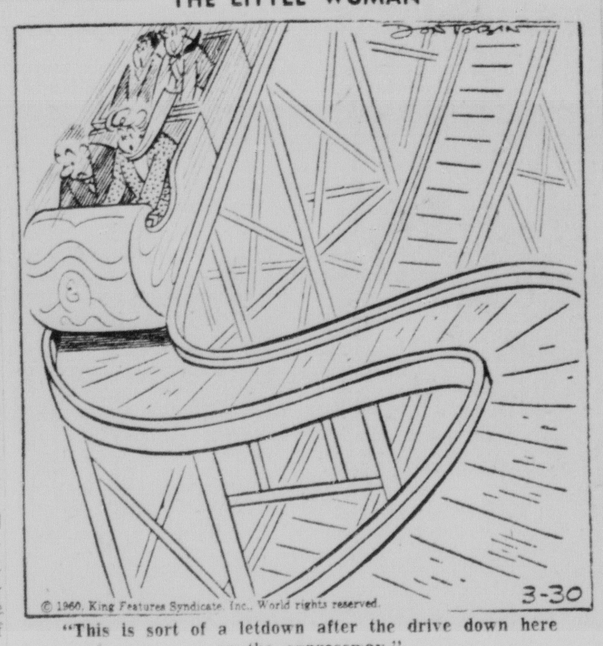

The Betatron, Dr. Bloedorn told the committee, is the most powerful piece of X-ray equipment presently available for the treatment of cancer, and is capable of producing rays at an energy of 40 million volts.

Flood Units To Meet

The flood emergency committees of Ridgeley will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in the Ridgeley Fire Hall, Mayor Charles Fryer announced.

Saudi Arabia's chief source of revenue, prior to the development of its oil industry, was the tax on pilgrims traveling to the holy cities of Mecca and Medina.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"This is sort of a letdown after the drive down here on the expressway."

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister-in-law who was always a pretty fast number gave birth to a baby boy last week. Both this sister-in-law and her husband have dark eyes; in fact their eyes are almost black. The baby has blue eyes. There's not a single person on either side of the family who has blue eyes. What does this sound like to you?

—MISS INQUISITIVE

DEAR MISS INQUISITIVE: Write to me again in two months. Almost all babies eyes appear to be blue for the first six weeks.

DEAR ANN: My husband has gone gooty over sports cars. I'm just about ready to tell him to go to sleep in the garage if he puts the cars before his own family.

He has a good business, and we don't want for anything but it's the time I resent. He spends hours monkeying with the cars —(he has two now). He reads everything on sports cars that he can lay his hands on.

He'll go half way across the state to see a sports-car race. He can't take the kids along because only two can get in the car with him, and the other two would have to stay home.

The other evening the dog was sick and my husband couldn't even drive him to the vet's because both cars were torn down.

He doesn't have any big faults like smoking, drinking or swearing but this car business is getting my goat. What is your opinion? — GLADYS

DEAR GLADYS: You ought to be happy your husband has a four-wheeled pastime instead of a two-legged one. Sports cars are a wonderful hobby, and many women are just as interested in them as men.

There are more plusses to your marriage than minuses. Count your blessings and don't be a flat tire.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Much has been said and written about cheating in academic circles. In our school the angle-shooters don't bother to cheat. They do just as well buttering up the teachers.

It's a well known fact the students don't take the subjects, they take the teachers. Certain male teachers are known to be duck-soup for pretty girls. I don't mean to imply anything immoral, it's just common knowledge that they are easy on the cuties.

And then there's one woman teacher who favors the good-looking, athletic meat-heads who are slightly stupid but do fine because they call her "Mom."

The battle-cry from the faculty is "Don't worry so much about grades — it's ATTITUDE and getting along with people that counts!" So they encourage kids to apple-polish instead of study. Do you think this is fair? — NO SIGNATURE (I Want To Graduate)

DEAR NO SIGNATURE WHO WANTS TO GRADUATE: You sound like a kid who can't make it either way.

Most people know that a little banana oil is an effective lubricant for the machinery of human relations. But there's no substitute for a mixture of midnight oil and perspiration.

A pleasing personality and a winning way is an asset not only in school but everywhere. But personality alone won't work if you can't deliver the goods. If you aren't doing very well, Bub, I suggest you smile a little more —both at the teachers and the text books.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Hearing Set Tomorrow In B&O Crossing Case

Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt will decide a case against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in Police Court Thursday morning.

The case developed on March 10 when a warrant was issued against R. J. Cannon, division superintendent, after a train allegedly blocked the Baltimore Street crossing for 25 minutes.

League Offers Speech Therapy In Program

Speech therapy is another service offered by the Allegany County League For Crippled Children which employes a full-time therapist for the program.

Scope of this phase of the League program can be shown by the fact that records note 1,015 speech treatments in the period March to July. It is directed by Miss Carolyn Findlay, therapist, and corrective steps are taken in cases which involve stuttering, cerebral palsy, delayed speech, function articulation and cleft palate.

A clinic is conducted in Frostburg and most of those here seeking therapy are seen once a week on a regular schedule. During the summer, Miss Findlay conducts clinics in Frostburg, Westernport and Lonaconing.

Services of speech therapy provided by the League have been offered to parochial schools and many children have availed themselves of the service as a result. Most of the children the speech therapist sees, however, are of the pre-school age.

George A. Schwarzenbach, chairman of the 1960 Easter Seal Sale, said this service and many others of the league have been of benefit to hundreds of children throughout Allegany County.

These benefits will continue because of the generosity of friends who buy and use Easter Seals, he said, in urging those who received Seal packets to return contributions as soon as possible.

Returns to date have been gratifying, he said, adding that the drive will end Easter Sunday, April 17.

PE Workers Set Safety Record

Employes of the Potomac Edison System chalked up the safest year in PE history last year, according to Raymond E. Beard, safety supervisor.

With 11 lost-time accidents suffered last year, employes recorded a 42 per cent reduction in lost-time accidents over 1958, and an 83 per cent reduction over 1950.

Five of the system's 11 major operating districts completed the year without a lost-time accident. Winchester, Waynesboro, Martinsburg, Romney and Luray districts recorded a clean slate in 1959.

PE's Substation and Communications Department, with divisions at Frederick, Hagerstown, Cumberland and Front Royal, again came through the year without a lost-time accident, and once again captured PE's interdepartment safety trophy.

Tension Wire Causes Fire

Firemen from West Side were called at 11:15 p.m. Monday when a high tension wire snapped off at the corner of Fayette and Allegany streets.

The line caught fire and burned for more than 15 minutes. Firemen remained on the scene 32 minutes until repairs could be made by the Potomac Edison Company.

The 4,000 volt line sent sparks high into the air and attracted a large crowd. An oddity of the blaze was that power remained on in the immediate area, however was knocked out for some time on Greene Street near the Dingle Circle.

City Police re-routed traffic until the line was repaired.

Chemical Society To Hear Researcher

A staff member of the Johns Hopkins University Operations Research Office will speak before the Western Maryland Section of the American Chemical Society Thursday at 8 p. m. in the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

W. R. Tomlinson Jr. will talk on "The Chemical Industry-A Nuclear Future?", with emphasis on energetics and the use of radioisotopes.

Tomlinson is a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he received a bachelor of science degree in physical chemistry.

He has had varied industrial experience with Hercules Powder Company and American Cyanamid. During World War II, he participated in the inspection and evaluation of German research and development facilities.

He is studying military applications of nuclear energy and has published recent articles on the nuclear future of the chemical industry in the periodical, Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

The section meeting will be preceded by a dinner at 6:30 p. m.

Medical Mirror WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT: Better Health Through Knowledge

Why Can't Johnny Read?

● Vitamins

Q. Our 7-year-old son has been very slow in learning to read. Does this mean that he is mentally below par?

A. No. Slow reading is not necessarily an indication of retarded intelligence. In fact, many children with reading difficulties have superior intelligence. At age 6, when most children enter the first grade, many are just not ready to read. In our educational system, where all children must conform to a set pattern, "reading readiness" is very much in the picture. The unready child rapidly develops feelings of inferiority. Soon emotional factors set in and something that should be simple becomes very hard. To discover the cause of reading difficulties requires professional services. The child should first have tests to establish the level of intelligence. The next step may be an eye examination to see if glasses are needed. The hearing should be checked. If everything is in order the child may be given special training in word recognition and phonetics. Parents faced with this problem can get some good tips from certain books, a list of which will be sent to interested readers upon request.

Q. Please advise me in your column if it is necessary for a man of 65 to take vitamin tablets. Someone told me vitamin tablets were poisonous. Is this true?

A. Let's try to put some light on this subject. Vitamins are essential food factors. If vitamins were poisonous we would all be gone by now because we consume — and need — vitamins three times a day. All food factors necessary to health are supplied by an adequate diet. There are times, however, when the vitamin intake needs a boost. For example, the need for taking a vitamin product may arise during periods of illness or at any time when a person gets "off his feed." It is true that the taking of very large doses of certain vitamins, such as A and D, over a long period of time may cause trouble. However, the use of multi-vitamin preparations of moderate potency and in the recommended dosage is not at all likely to cause poisoning.

Note: The next time you are in our store raise the question of vitamins. We will be glad to discuss this subject in detail.

Questions directed to Science Editors, P.O. Box 396, Madison Sq. Sta., N. Y. 10, N. Y. will be incorporated in these columns when possible.

Ban On Liquor Sale To Natives Major Cause Of Africa Friction

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) —Senior South African police officers are reported to be pleading for an end to prohibition of liquor sales to Africans.

They are arguing that the 22-year-old liquor law embitters relations between Negro and white and exposes the police to constant threats of violence.

The Jan. 24 massacre in Durban's Cato Manor slum area, where an African mob murdered nine policemen, has strengthened police arguments that enforcing prohibition among Africans puts an intolerable burden on the nation's 18,000 police force. The massacre followed a liquor raid on African homes.

Police recently were forced to have armored cars stand by while liquor raiding parties moved into African locations near the eastern cape city of Port Elizabeth.

South African law prohibits consumption of "European" beer, wine and hard liquor by Africans. Exemptions are granted a number of urban Africans with a high standard of living.

In the Johannesburg area 7,000 such exemptions were granted after police investigations, entitling the holder to one bottle of brandy and some twelve bottles of beer per month.

The only alcoholic drink generally available to Africans is "kaffir beer," a weak, allegedly nutritious brew which municipalities make available in "beer halls." The profits are used to finance native welfare institutions and transport services.

In addition, permits are granted African families to homebrew their own kaffir beer which must be consumed in the home and by members of the family only.

These restrictions have not prevented one third of South Africa's annual "European" liquor production from finding its way to the African consumer, according to latest estimates.

Liquor-running into the African townships, mainly by Europeans, flourishes as a full-time trade, while a variety of homebrewed and often harmful concoctions, bearing such names as "skokie-an," "barberton" and "kill-me-quick," are served in hundreds of illegal township speakeasies.

To enforce the law, police parties regularly move into African areas, searching homes for liquor caches and stills.

An African complaint frequently heard is that these raids are often carried out in the small hours of the morning so that "we never know whether we'll have an uninterrupted night's sleep."

"Often, the police simply break down doors, tip our clothes out and turn over our furniture," one African said.

Liberal Party Chairman Peter Brown said: "It is doubtful if any single thing causes more friction between African people and authority than liquor raids."

Visitor To Symington-For-President HQ Discovers Beehive Of Activity

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The national Democratic convention is three months off, but from the flurry in the Symington-for-President headquarters you might think the great decision is only moments away and that every second counts.

Important looking men hustle in on secretive appearing missions; bustle: whispers: an air of continuous excitement.

Most of you are now familiar with the hardships a man will put up with in an effort to get the presidential nomination. Well, the behind-the-scenes effort is just as intent.

So let's saunter into the old brick four-story building that's dedicated to the proposition that Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) is the only logical choice for president.

The building is appropriately only a couple of blocks from that elusive goal, the White House.

From each of the building's windows stares a large picture of Symington with this legend: "For president, a leader of proven ability in business and government."

With its high ceilings and large fireplaces, this must have been a fashionable town house.

Now plyboard covers the fireplaces. Old desks are strewn about. If you ignore the hum and concentrate on the furnishings, the place looks as cheerless as a warden's office.

The usual political paraphernalia is everywhere—stacks of newspapers, a well-used list of California delegates to the national convention, a box of labels that say, "I'm for Stu, how about you?" and a cowbell which bears this command, "Ring for Symington."

At one desk a man is explaining on the phone: "Well, we have highlights of his life. That's about all we have, though, in the way of a biography."

At another a girl who is trying to place a call to Mississippi complains: "That's bad. They don't even know how to pronounce his name down there. They say, 'Stuart Simmington.'"

One thing about Symington—he's not superstitious.

Until the bubble burst, this old house was the Washington campaign headquarters for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

Stainless steel's growing popularity is attested by the fact that more than half of the table flatware now sold is made of this metal.

Wall Street Views

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Many stocks probably have seen their low point for 1960, a financial analyst said Monday.

He based his view on the stronger performance of the market last week and on the history of market action in presidential election years.

Roger E. Spear, president of the investment advisory firm, Spear & Staff, Inc., dug into the records and came up with these statistics:

During all but five of the past 22 presidential election years stocks have sold higher in August than the low for June. In every election year since 1884 stocks have sold higher in November or December than the low in October regardless of election results.

"This historical note combines with last week's market action to make us believe that a great many stocks have now passed their low point for 1960," Spear said.

"Although some caution is advisable pending stronger evidence of a major reversal, we believe that the market is showing a new tendency to disregard bad news and react favorably to good developments."

The Fitch Survey feels that the stalemate in which the market was bogged since reaching the 1960 low on the Dow Jones industrial average has apparently been broken.

Ban On Liquor Sale To Natives Major Cause Of Africa Friction

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) —Senior South African police officers are reported to be pleading for an end to prohibition of liquor sales to Africans.

They are arguing that the 22-year-old liquor law embitters relations between Negro and white and exposes the police to constant threats of violence.

The Jan. 24 massacre in Durban's Cato Manor slum area, where an African mob murdered nine policemen, has strengthened police arguments that enforcing prohibition among Africans puts an intolerable burden on the nation's 18,000 police force. The massacre followed a liquor raid on African homes.

Police recently were forced to have armored cars stand by while liquor raiding parties moved into African locations near the eastern cape city of Port Elizabeth.

South African law prohibits consumption of "European" beer, wine and hard liquor by Africans. Exemptions are granted a number of urban Africans with a high standard of living.

In the Johannesburg area 7,000 such exemptions were granted after police investigations, entitling the holder to one bottle of brandy and some twelve bottles of beer per month.

The only alcoholic drink generally available to Africans is "kaffir beer," a weak, allegedly nutritious brew which municipalities make available in "beer halls." The profits are used to finance native welfare institutions and transport services.

In addition, permits are granted African families to homebrew their own kaffir beer which must be consumed in the home and by members of the family only.

These restrictions have not prevented one third of South Africa's annual "European" liquor production from finding its way to the African consumer, according to latest estimates.

Liquor-running into the African townships, mainly by Europeans, flourishes as a full-time trade, while a variety of homebrewed and often harmful concoctions, bearing such names as "skokiean," "barberton" and "kill-me-quick," are served in hundreds of illegal township speakeasies.

To enforce the law, police parties regularly move into African areas, searching homes for liquor caches and stills.

An African complaint frequently heard is that these raids are often carried out in the small hours of the morning so that "we never know whether we'll have an uninterrupted night's sleep."

"Often, the police simply break down doors, tip our clothes out and turn over our furniture," one African said.

Liberal Party Chairman Peter Brown said: "It is doubtful if any single thing causes more friction between African people and authority than liquor raids."

Visitor To Symington-For-President HQ Discovers Beehive Of Activity

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The national Democratic convention is three months off, but from the flurry in the Symington-for-President headquarters you might think the great decision is only moments away and that every second counts.

Important looking men hustle in on secretive appearing missions; bustle; whispers; an air of continuous excitement.

Most of you are now familiar with the hardships a man will put up with in an effort to get the presidential nomination. Well, the behind-the-scenes effort is just as intent.

So let's saunter into the old brick four-story building that's dedicated to the proposition that Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) is the only logical choice for president.

The building is appropriately only a couple of blocks from that elusive goal, the White House.

From each of the building's windows stares a large picture of Symington with this legend: "For president, a leader of proven ability in business and government."

With its high ceilings and large fireplaces, this must have been a fashionable town house.

Now plyboard covers the fireplaces. Old desks are strewn about. If you ignore the hum and concentrate on the furnishings, the place looks as cheerless as a warden's office.

The usual political paraphernalia is everywhere—stacks of newspapers, a well-used list of California delegates to the national convention, a box of labels that say, "I'm for Stu, how about you?" and a cowbell which bears this command, "Ring for Symington."

At one desk a man is explaining on the phone: "Well, we have highlights of his life. That's about all we have, though, in the way of a biography."

At another a girl who is trying to place a call to Mississippi complains: "That's bad. They don't even know how to pronounce his name down there. They say, 'Stuart Simmington.'"

One thing about Symington—he's not superstitious.

Until the bubble burst, this old house was the Washington campaign headquarters for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

Stainless steel's growing popularity is attested by the fact that more than half of the table flatware now sold is made of this metal.

NEW YORK (AP)—Many stocks probably have seen their low point for 1960, a financial analyst said Monday.

He based his view on the stronger performance of the market last week and on the history of market action in presidential election years.

Roger E. Spear, president of the investment advisory firm, Spear & Staff, Inc., dug into the records and came up with these statistics:

During all but five of the past 22 presidential election years stocks have sold higher in August than the low for June. In every election year since 1884 stocks have sold higher in November or December than the low in October regardless of election results.

"This historical note combines with last week's market action to make us believe that a great many stocks have now passed their low point for 1960," Spear said.

"Although some caution is advisable pending stronger evidence of a major reversal, we believe that the market is showing a new tendency to disregard bad news and react favorably to good developments."

The Fitch Survey feels that the stalemate in which the market was bogged since reaching the 1960 low on the Dow Jones industrial average has apparently been broken.

STRATEGIC AIR COMMAND CENTER

Airview of Strategic Air Command's headquarters at Offutt Air Force Base near Omaha.

Radio station connects SAC headquarters with major sub-commands (numbered air forces in the States and major installations overseas) and all command aircraft wherever they may be flying.

Famous "Red Telephone" in hand, Maj. D. S. Henshaw, an SAC senior controller, demonstrates how he can put entire command on the alert by simply taking phone off hook and speaking the order.

The Strategic Air Command headquarters command post is probably the world's most publicized basement.

In the three levels underground at Offutt Air Force Base near Omaha there is a complex of telephone, teletype and radio facilities which permit commanders to keep tabs on a bomber and missile force scattered across the globe.

In the event of nuclear attack, the SAC command can retreat to its cellar, guarded by heavy steel doors against explosive shock and radiation. There, food and bedding are stockpiled, and a power plant stands ready to furnish enough emergency power to maintain a city of 8,000.

About one-third of the SAC force is always on the alert for action, ready to be airborne within 15 minutes. So commanders in Omaha need to know continuously the status of aircraft, weather conditions and political developments around the world. Twice daily they are briefed by closed-circuit television from the information which pours in via the communications net.

The heart of the underground operation is a great, two-story room lined with light-flooded maps and charts on one side and glass-fronted rooms on the other. Behind the glass of a balcony is a long desk for Gen. Thomas S. Power, the SAC chief and his staff. In a larger room beneath are banks of television monitors, tape recorders and technicians at audio and TV consoles. In a corner is the senior SAC controller, the Red Telephone at his fingertips. He need only lift the instrument and give an order to put the command on instant alert. His voice will be heard on loudspeakers throughout the command.

Directed by voice of controller filtering through his earphones, a sergeant posts new information on one of command's "reflex" operations on map panel in control room.

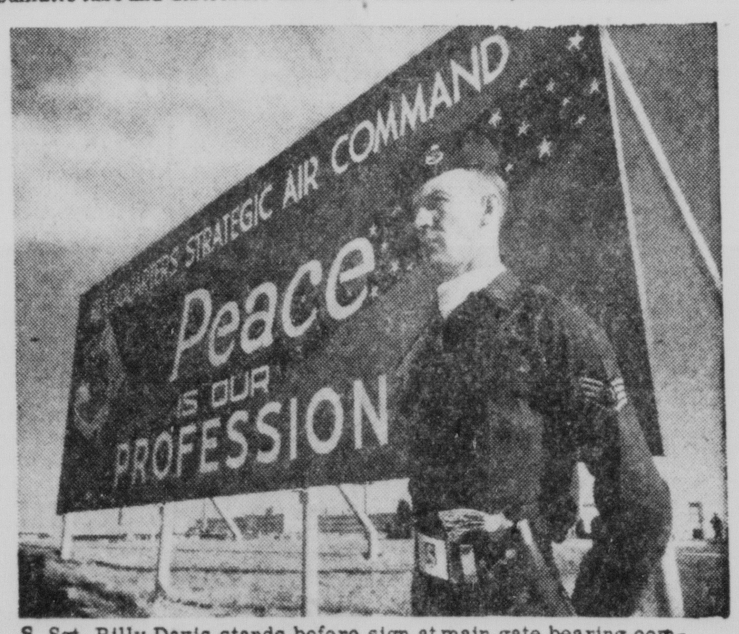

Gen. Thomas S. Power, SAC commander, at controls of his KC135 jet tanker, on recent flight to Vandenberg Air Force Base.

Message center where clerks take messages coming in from all parts of headquarters by pneumatic tube and distribute them for transmission, and vice versa.

One of the twice daily briefing sessions which are televised on a closed circuit in the headquarters. An SAC intelligence officer studies map on wall.

S. Sgt. Billy Davis stands before sign at main gate bearing command's motto. SAC men prefer to interpret destructive potential of SAC as Free World's instrument for preserving the peace.

SRC Holds Bituminous Conference

The State Roads Commission conducted a bituminous paving conference for District VI project engineers and construction inspectors in the district office building on Braddock Road Monday and yesterday. Personnel of the bituminous concrete producers, contractors, and materials suppliers performing work in District VI were also invited. Over 60 persons attended the two-day meeting.

The purpose of the conference was to provide additional information and training in all phases of bituminous paving for personnel responsible for highway inspection and construction in District VI which includes Allegany, Garrett, and Washington Counties. Similar conferences are being held in all seven SRC districts.

Elliott P. Owings, SRC bituminous engineer, conducted the meeting. Leo Haslbeck and William Caulfield, Owings assistants in the bituminous section, helped with the program which included lectures, slides, diagrams, discussions, and motion pictures on all phases of bituminous paving construction.

John D. Bushby, district engineer, handled all arrangements and assisted in the presentation. Warren B. Duckett, construction engineer, gave technical and practical information concerning the broad field of highway construction. William B. Greene, SRC soils engineer spoke on materials and tests relative to subgrades, subbases, and base courses. George Geary, assistant district engineer assisted with the discussions.

A. M. Tinder, Jr., asphalt institute district engineer showed slides and spoke on the proper methods of placing and compacting bituminous concrete.

Joseph E. Laird, executive director of the Maryland Asphalt Association, presented technical data regarding bituminous pavement construction. Films depicting sound highway construction practices and techniques were shown.

Frostburg Official Thanks City For Good Neighbor Act

A Frostburg city official has extended warm thanks to Street Commissioner John J. Long for being a good neighbor during a recent snowstorm.

T. William Preston, street commissioner, wrote Mr. Long for the citizens of Frostburg, expressing "heartfelt thanks and deep appreciation for your splendid cooperation in lending us a snow plow blade when our needs were greatest."

He said the "act of neighborliness" was a fine example of the cooperation which should exist between municipalities as well as people.

The appeal for the use of the snow plow blade was made early last week when streets of Frostburg were drifting shut.

Frostburg sent one of its trucks to the city warehouse here, where a mechanic helped the driver mount the blade. The blade was returned here the next day after the emergency ended.

Do you step out of your car in a charming manner?

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

"Step Out With Charm"

In this nation on wheels caught in the "racy" spirit of the sports-car trend, fashion is really on the go. The interest in American and foreign sportscars has grown by leaps and bounds. Women have taken to the open road in clothes that are especially suitable and put them in the best-dressed outdoor list.

Complete and colorful outfits and accessories have been made so women can match their cars. Snug scarfs and hoods to keep the hair from blowing; large handbags called "car totes"; umbrellas; jewelry; slim, tapered trousers; short jackets for easy sliding in and out of cars, scarves with various car and signal motifs are in the line-up. There's no limit to the fashions this sportscar age inspires.

But, with all this perfection and fuss . . . one important factor may have been overlooked. How many women have given any thought to how they look getting in and out of a low-slung car?

To achieve grace and ease on leaving a car, slide over to the end of the seat. Reach out sidewise with a foot nearest the door until it touches the ground. Then give a little push with the foot that remains in the car and use the momentum gathered to lift your body up and out of the car in sidewise position (this has to be done with a confident grace that only practice can make perfect). You let your head and shoulders lead . . . trusting the hips to follow. Last, but not least . . . bring the feet together on the ground and do a quick, graceful right - about - face. You're grounded . . . and charmingly!

Gas Rate Hearing May 18 In W.Va.

The West Virginia Public Service Commission has set May 18 for a hearing on a petition of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company for rate increases for its 16,400 West Virginia customers.

The application was filed April 18 in Charleston and affects residents of Mineral, Grant, Tucker and Randolph counties.

The company said the increase would average seven cents a day for the average customer not using gas for heating and to about $5.30 monthly for users of gas for heating purposes.

The company has a similar petition on file affecting its 21,000 Maryland customers, but the Maryland Public Service Commission has not set a hearing date.

County Makes Final Plans To Survey Workers

Plans for a classification survey of all employes of Allegany County were completed at the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners yesterday.

George Widman, job study analyst with the State Department of Employment Security, came here to discuss the project with the commissioners. He was accompanied by Francis A. Kenney, local manager of the Employment Security office, who made the arrangements for the state agency to do the work.

Widman and the commissioners agreed upon the scope of the survey and each employe of the county will be requested to fill out a job questionnaire. These forms will be sent to Widman and he will go over the entire set-up on a departmental basis.

Widman said he hoped to complete the survey in a short time. The questionnaires will be sent to Widman in batches until the 275 county employes have completed them.

In connection with the survey program, a request of a committee of four men representing the County Roads Department for a meeting with the board to discuss a wage increase was ordered delayed until after the classification is completed.

Commissioner John J. Rowan, president of the board, said nothing can be decided until the classification is completed and at that time the board will be able to decide on pay increases.

It had been announced at various times by the board members that a pay increase for county employes was being considered in view of the low income of many county employes.

Favors Library Plan

A letter was received yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners from the board of managers of the United Church Women of Cumberland stating the organization was supporting the proposed county library program.

Although forests are cooler than plains, they usually are warmer at night because the trees retard the escape of heat.

County Plans Meeting To Discuss Road Projects

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday set Friday, April 8, for a meeting with the county's legislators and a State Roads Commission official or the proposed secondary road projects for the county.

John B. Funk, chairman of the SRC and director of the highways, requested the list of proposed projects within the next 30 days so that they may be coordinated and programmed.

The previous day the County Planning Commission will spend the day with the Frederick County Zoning Commission, going over their progress.

The board had a look at the plans for the alteration of part of the first floor of the Court House for the tax office.

The plans have not been completed, so bids were not advertised.

SRC Holds Bituminous Conference

The State Roads Commission conducted a bituminous paving conference for District VI project engineers and construction inspectors in the district office building on Braddock Road Monday and yesterday. Personnel of the bituminous concrete producers, contractors, and materials suppliers performing work in District VI were also invited. Over 60 persons attended the two-day meeting.

The purpose of the conference was to provide additional information and training in all phases of bituminous paving for personnel responsible for highway inspection and construction in District VI which includes Allegany, Garrett, and Washington Counties. Similar conferences are being held in all seven SRC districts.

Elliott P. Owings, SRC bituminous engineer, conducted the meeting. Leo Haslbeck and William Caulfield, Owings assistants in the bituminous section, helped with the program which included lectures, slides, diagrams, discussions, and motion pictures on all phases of bituminous paving construction.

John D. Bushby, district engineer, handled all arrangements and assisted in the presentation. Warren B. Duckett, construction engineer, gave technical and practical information concerning the broad field of highway construction. William B. Greene, SRC soils engineer spoke on materials and tests relative to subgrades, subbases, and base courses. George Geary, assistant district engineer assisted with the discussions.

A. M. Tinder, Jr., asphalt institute district engineer showed slides and spoke on the proper methods of placing and compacting bituminous concrete.

Joseph E. Laird, executive director of the Maryland Asphalt Association, presented technical data regarding bituminous pavement construction. Films depicting sound highway construction practices and techniques were shown.

Frostburg Official Thanks City For Good Neighbor Act

A Frostburg city official has extended warm thanks to Street Commissioner John J. Long for being a good neighbor during a recent snowstorm.

T. William Preston, street commissioner, wrote Mr. Long for the citizens of Frostburg, expressing "heartfelt thanks and deep appreciation for your splendid cooperation in lending us a snow plow blade when our needs were greatest."

He said the "act of neighborliness" was a fine example of the cooperation which should exist between municipalities as well as people.

The appeal for the use of the snow plow blade was made early last week when streets of Frostburg were drifting shut.

Frostburg sent one of its trucks to the city warehouse here, where a mechanic helped the driver mount the blade. The blade was returned here the next day after the emergency ended.

Do you step out of your car in a charming manner?

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

"Step Out With Charm"

In this nation on wheels caught in the "racy" spirit of the sports-car trend, fashion is really on the go. The interest in American and foreign sportscars has grown by leaps and bounds. Women have taken to the open road in clothes that are especially suitable and put them in the best-dressed outdoor list.

Complete and colorful outfits and accessories have been made so women can match their cars. Snug scarfs and hoods to keep the hair from blowing; large handbags called "car totes"; umbrellas; jewelry; slim, tapered trousers; short jackets for easy sliding in and out of cars, scarves with various car and signal motifs are in the line-up. There's no limit to the fashions this sportscar age inspires.

But, with all this perfection and fuss . . . one important factor may have been overlooked. How many women have given any thought to how they look getting in and out of a low-slung car?

To achieve grace and ease on leaving a car, slide over to the end of the seat. Reach out sidewise with a foot nearest the door until it touches the ground. Then give a little push with the foot that remains in the car and use the momentum gathered to lift your body up and out of the car in sidewise position (this has to be done with a confident grace that only practice can make perfect). You let your head and shoulders lead . . . trusting the hips to follow. Last, but not least . . . bring the feet together on the ground and do a quick, graceful right - about - face. You're grounded . . . and charmingly!

Gas Rate Hearing May 18 In W.Va.

The West Virginia Public Service Commission has set May 18 for a hearing on a petition of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company for rate increases for its 16,400 West Virginia customers.

The application was filed April 18 in Charleston and affects residents of Mineral, Grant, Tucker and Randolph counties.

The company said the increase would average seven cents a day for the average customer not using gas for heating and to about $5.30 monthly for users of gas for heating purposes.

The company has a similar petition on file affecting its 21,000 Maryland customers, but the Maryland Public Service Commission has not set a hearing date.

County Makes Final Plans To Survey Workers

Plans for a classification survey of all employes of Allegany County were completed at the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners yesterday.

George Widman, job study analyst with the State Department of Employment Security, came here to discuss the project with the commissioners. He was accompanied by Francis A. Kenney, local manager of the Employment Security office, who made the arrangements for the state agency to do the work.

Widman and the commissioners agreed upon the scope of the survey and each employe of the county will be requested to fill out a job questionnaire. These forms will be sent to Widman and he will go over the entire set-up on a departmental basis.

Widman said he hoped to complete the survey in a short time. The questionnaires will be sent to Widman in batches until the 275 county employes have completed them.

In connection with the survey program, a request of a committee of four men representing the County Roads Department for a meeting with the board to discuss a wage increase was ordered delayed until after the classification is completed.

Commissioner John J. Rowan, president of the board, said nothing can be decided until the classification is completed and at that time the board will be able to decide on pay increases.

It had been announced at various times by the board members that a pay increase for county employes was being considered in view of the low income of many county employes.

County Plans Meeting To Discuss Road Projects

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday set Friday, April 8, for a meeting with the county's legislators and a State Roads Commission official or the proposed secondary road projects for the county.

John B. Funk, chairman of the SRC and director of the highways, requested the list of proposed projects within the next 30 days so that they may be coordinated and programmed.

The previous day the County Planning Commission will spend the day with the Frederick County Zoning Commission, going over their progress.

The board had a look at the plans for the alteration of part of the first floor of the Court House for the tax office.

The plans have not been completed, so bids were not advertised.

Highway Bond Resolution Is Adopted

A resolution to enable Allegany County to obtain $140,000 from the County Highway Construction Bonds, Seventh Series, for use in county road construction in the fiscal year starting July 1 was adopted unanimously yesterday by the Board of County Commissioners.

This resolution was adopted in compliance with Section 211 of Article 89B, 1957 Annotated Code of Maryland. It states that the county commissioners here desire to participate in the issue to be issued by the State Roads Commission in the fiscal year starting July 1.

The resolution requests the State Roads Commission to allocate $140,000 of the proceeds to Allegany County. By participating in this program, the county will have the necessary matching funds to obtain $101,925 in Federal aid secondary road money.

A $4,900 item has been included in the County Roads Department budget for the new fiscal year to pay the interest, estimated at three-and-one-half per cent, for the first year of the issue. With that interest the county will have $241,925 in local and Federal money for road construction in the new fiscal year.

Only once before has Allegany County borrowed money from the State Roads Commission through the County Highway Construction Bonds. That was $150,000 obtained from the first series issued about six or seven years ago. The county still owes 104,651.17 of that amount.

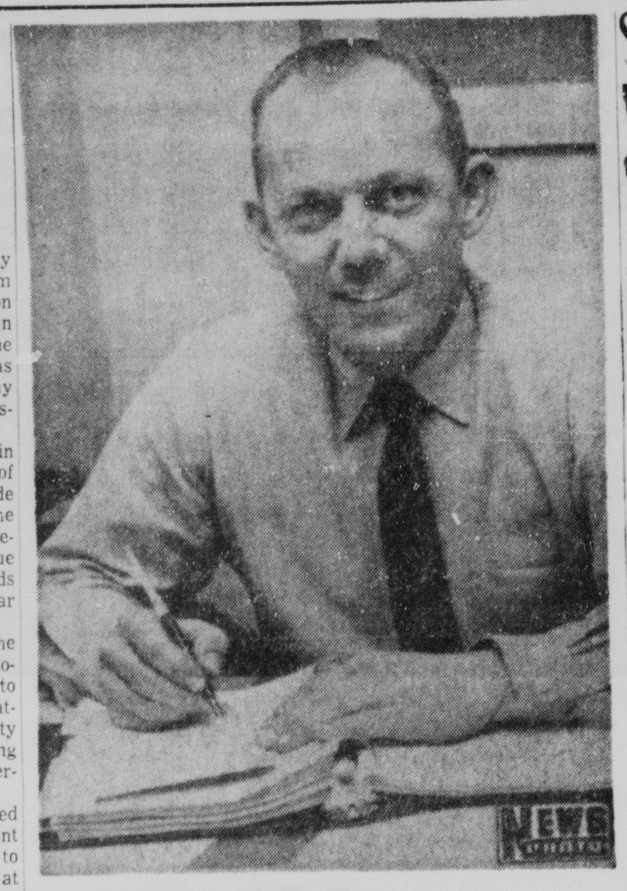

Youth Posts Bond

Leo Kennell, 20, of 233 Williams Street, yesterday posted $100 in Trial Magistrate Court to await a hearing on a charge of assaulting a local youth.

Kennell was charged with the assault of Larry Wagner, 18, of 510 Baltimore Street, who is still a patient in Memorial Hospital with injuries he sustained in a fight Sunday night on a local street.

The assault hearing will be held when Wagner is released from the hospital. Kennell had been held in the City Jail until he posted bond yesterday before Magistrate Paul W. Barnett.

Nolan Named Constable For Frostburg

Joseph A. Nolan was appointed constable-at-large to serve the Trial Magistrates' Court of Frostburg for an annual salary of $600 a year, effective April 1, on a party-line split of the three members of the Board of County Commissioners.

Commissioners John T. Mason and John J. Rowan, both Democrats, voted for Mr. Nolan and Commissioner William A. Wilson, Republican, voted in the negative.

The first action of the commissioners, on the same 2-1 split, was to remove David J. Wilson, Republican, as Frostburg constable, effective March 31.

Mr. Nolan is the third Democrat to be appointed constable by the present county commissioners. Others were James P. Russell, Mt. Savage, and William E. Mayles, Westernport. Two holdover Republican constables, both serving out of the Trial Magistrates' Court in Cumberland, are Robert W. Turnbull and Earl J. Heavner.

Police Investigate Apartment Entry

City Police are investigating the reported theft of more than $35 from an apartment at 125 Bedford Street.

Police said they were told entrance was gained from a second floor porch through a kitchen window. Approximately $10 in change and some bills were taken from a small glass piggy bank, and another $25 was reported missing from an envelope in the bedroom.

Several dresser drawers also were reported ransacked, but nothing else is believed missing. Police said they received the report of the breaking and entering at 9:33 p. m. Monday.

Sports CARnival Decorator Is Selected Here

A representative of the Keystone Flag and Decorating Company, official decorators for Cumberland Sports Carnival, will begin calling this week on merchants and building owners to decorate their store fronts and buildings for the celebration May 9-15.

In selecting the Keystone Flag and Decorating Company as the official Sports Carnival decorators, the committee obtained one of the leading flag and decorating companies in the East. They were the official decorators for celebrations in Somerset, Pa., Charleston, W. Va., Grafton, W. Va., and Niagara Falls, Canada.

Their prices, quality and insurance responsibilities have been passed on and approved by the executive committee of the celebration, according to Francis A. Kenney, chairman.

The decorating program is only one of the features of the week-long celebration which will begin May 9 and end with the Eighth Annual running of the Sports Car Races.

Previously, the county was divided into three tax collection districts and each district collector hired his own employes. The Civil Service Commission has recommended that they be included.

Dillon Orchards Property Sold

HANCOCK, Md. (AP) — The 5,538-acre Dillon Orchards property, which produces about one million bushels of fruit annually, has been sold to California interests for a reported two million dollars.

American National Growers Corp. purchased the property from R. Samuel Dillon, who has been in the orchard business for about 50 years.

The sale was announced Tuesday by R. Samuel Dillon Jr., who will continue as general manager.

The property includes 60 tenant houses, two large cold storage warehouses with a capacity of 160,000 bushels each, and four packing houses.

In the orchards are 77,000 apple trees, 29,000 peach trees and 4,300 cherry, plum and pear trees.

The Los Angeles owners of American National are M. Phillip Davis, the board chairman; his brother, W. Thomas Davis, Tom Eadington and Don Collins.

The new owners said they hope to increase production to about 1,200,000 bushels by 1969.

County Seeks Infirmary Fund For Indigent

Allegany County's three commissioners yesterday signed a letter addressed to Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, as another step to enable the county to obtain up to $65 a month in federal money in public assistance for indigent persons who are confined to the County Infirmary.

The letter outlined the procedure which will be followed in the admission of patients to the County Infirmary. Judge Waxter told the county commissioners at a meeting here January 18 that the federal government requires that the administrative agency give a "means" test before admitting patients. That simply means that those who are able to pay should pay according to their ability.

Under the proposal outlined in the letter, top priority will be given to indigent county residents without any personal or family means of support. Next in line will be self supporting pensioners and low income groups who can provide for only a part of the infirmary cost. Third priority will be given to other meritorious cases in which the total cost can be borne by the patient or his sponsors.

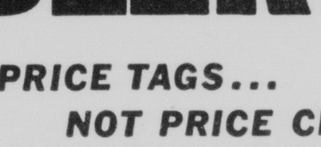

Before admission, patients must be recommended by a medical doctor, approved by the county physician, investigated by the County Welfare Board, approved by the county commissioners and then assigned a priority number.

When Judge Waxter addressed a meeting January 18 at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, he said that he had urged Governor J. Millard Tawes to place in his budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 sufficient funds to provide up to $65 a month for the care of indigent persons in hospital-type institutions operated only by Allegany and Frederick counties and Baltimore city.

This actually is costing the state nothing for the funds are provided by the federal government and then are passed on to the counties and city by the state.

Anniversary Of Civil War Near

Anniversaries of momentous events in history have always been observed with much pomp and celebration by the peoples of lands in which the historic episodes occurred. Embarrassing anniversaries may not be recalled, but the glories of battle, invention, discovery and founding are sufficient to keep them in public remembrance centuries later.

Seldom has there been a national centennial celebration which attracted wide attention from all regions of the land. One of the few is now approaching. Preliminary observances are already being held in conjunction with the Civil War centennial officially to begin next year.

Months of preparation by thousands of persons have insured the success of what is to be the grandest national celebration of historic event since the days when the fledgling Republic had less population than some large states have today.

No participants of the numerous skirmishes live to connect this generation with the Blue and Gray and there are few survivors of the postwar era to recount events of the times first hand. But the Civil War continues to attract the imagination of the public, and historians and novelists have found it a practically unlimited bonanza.

The imagination of Americans is being stirred to a new pitch as government agencies, historical societies and many patriotic and private organizations begin preparation for the resurrection of the era of Lincoln, Davis, Lee and Grant and their millions of compatriots who wrote one of the most colorful and tragic chapters in American history.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Ford Foundation, which is perpetuating the memory of an outstandingly patriotic American by spending his money on education, cultural activities and such matters, has, on the recommendation of the Metropolitan Opera, commissioned Marc Blitzstein to prepare both a libretto and a score on the Sacco-Vanzetti Case. In fact, the working title of the piece is "Sacco and Vanzetti."

One would imagine that if the Ford Foundation and the Metropolitan Opera desired an opera on an historic episode in American life, they might have done something on the conspiracy of Aaron Burr or the life of John Brown or the heroism of Robert E. Lee or dozens of subjects that could touch the heart-strings of an American. Instead they seek to have a Rigoletto in a shoe factory worker and a fish peddler who were found guilty in a payroll holdup and executed in 1927 after due process of the law. Why not do an opera on the life of Al Capone or Gyp the Blood or Lefty Louie to say nothing of Jesse James? Perhaps Gamble Benedict would be interesting.

Now, let us see who is the man selected for this master-work. Marc Blitzstein has been a member of a number of Communist fronts cited by the Attorney General. These are some of them:

League of American Writers, Schappes Defense Committee, American Council on Soviet Relations, National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Jefferson School of Social Science, Peoples Radio Foundation, American Committee for Protection of Foreign Born, Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Commitee, and the Committee for the Negro in the Arts.

In March 1941, Marc Blitzstein signed a statement urging the President and Congress to defend the rights of the Communist Party; he supported in 1946, the Communist May Day Parade.

In 1940 and 1941, Blitzstein was identified as closely associated with the Communist Party and that despite the Hitler-Stalin Alliance. He was an outstanding intellectual loyal to the Communist Party and collecting funds for it and its fronts. In 1954, Gwen Anderson, a self-admitted Communist Party member, testified that she had known Blitzstein as a Communist Party member in New York from the fall of 1946 until early in 1947.

Blitzstein testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities on May 8, 1958. He admitted that he had been a member of the Communist Party from approximately the spring of 1938 to late 1949. He admitted activity in various Communist Party fronts although he denied knowing specifically of their Communist Party connections. Blitzstein said that he dropped out of the Communist Party because he disagreed with many Communist Party policies and particularly with attempts to interfere with his individual freedom of thought. However, he declined to be communicative concerning specific activities of the treasonable party of which he had long been a member.

Marc Blitzstein has written a number of operas, "The Cradle Will Rock," "No For an Answer," "Regina" based on Lillian Hellman's "Little Foxes," and he transplanted and adapted Brecht's libretto of Kurt Weill's "Three Penny Opera." During World War II, Blitzstein wrote music for propaganda films and his own "Airborne Symphony."

This is the story of the effort of the Ford Foundation and the Metropolitan Opera to encourage opera in the United States. And this great effort to produce a national opera, an inspiration for the country is to be about a pair of anarchists, written by one who at a telling period in the history of his country was a Communist which means that he had submitted to the discipline of the Kremlin—a government which since 1917 was an enemy of his country.

I am not, in this article, criticizing Blitzstein. He has done as he chooses; he must assume all the risks which accompany conduct. He was given several opportunities to assist the agencies of his country in safeguarding it from the enemy. He has not done more than he was absolutely required to do by the law. That is his will and his right.

Criticism should indeed be levelled at the Ford Foundation for selecting so poor a theme, so obnoxious and depressing a subject for a subsidized American opera. The Metropolitan Opera release makes the point that the Sacco-Vanzetti trial "was sharply criticized by the Wickersham Committee on legal procedure." The Wickersham Committee was not a court of law. Its opinion was obiter dicta.

Poisoning The Pipeline

U.S. Chief Delegate On Disarmament Raises Some Diplomatic Eyebrows

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Prime Minister Macmillan is too diplomatic to mention it to Ike, but some of his British Empire colleagues have expressed themselves quite frankly about the man Ike picked to head the U.S. disarmament delegation in Geneva.

He is Frederick McCurdy Eaton, a Wall Street lawyer completely untrained in diplomacy, who has to stand up against such an experienced operator as Valerin Zorin, the Deputy Foreign Minister of Russia.

Eaton has held a few minor government jobs such as counsel of the War Production Board and a member of the Combined Raw Materials Board. However, he has nowhere near the experience of Zorin or Jules Moch of France or Gaetano Martino of Italy.

In addition, there's another little-known chapter in Eaton's background which may raise some questions on Capitol Hill when it becomes known. Eaton is attorney for and a director of Monsanto Chemical which is a contractor under the Atomic Energy Commission for the operation of the AEC Mound Laboratory at Miamisburg, Ohio. Monsanto is also reported to be a defense contractor for the AEC, though these contracts are classified.

Monsanto Chemical has done well for Eaton. If you take the trouble to look up Monsanto's record with the Securities and Exchange Commission and in Moody's—both of which are open to the Russians—you will find that, as of December 31, 1959, Eaton owned a total of 1,621 shares of Monsanto stock, worth about $80,000, all of it a gift from the company. He got 500 shares as a gift in 1952, another 1,000 shares in a stock split in 1955, and smaller amounts every year thereafter.

You will also find that this stock began zooming in value after the Eisenhower administration assumed office. Net sales during Truman's last year, 1952, were $77,904,787. Net sales in 1955, the third year of the Eisenhower administration, totaled $525,679,000. And at the close of 1958, Monsanto had an earned surplus of $178,172,197.

With this background, and with Monsanto in a position to suffer from drastic disarmament cutbacks, Eaton's position as head of the American disarmament delegation is raising diplomatic eyebrows.

Remarked one Canadian: "I wonder if the United States really wants to negotiate seriously for disarmament."

Formula For Youth

Konrad Adenauer, 84-year-old Chancellor of Germany, called on Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas the other day, looking spry and vigorous.

"How do you keep looking so young?" asked the Senate majority leader.

"I never get angry," replied Adenauer. "I keep busy and I like what I am doing."

Family Bankruptcies

Greatest cause of bankruptcies in the USA is installment buying, according to Harold Rosner, president of Robert Hall Clothes, in testimony before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee. Senators were studying a bill introduced by Sen. Paul Douglas (D., Ill.) to require all articles sold on credit to bear a price tag showing how much interest was being charged.

Senator Douglas claims that finance companies are hiking the interest rates on installment buying so high that the buyer sometimes pays for the article twice-over.

"I am in favor of anything that will stop the increase in family bankruptcies," testified Rosner, who runs the biggest family clothing chain in the USA and on a cash basis. "In 1950 family bankruptcies accounted for 75 per cent of all bankruptcies. Last year the percentage had risen to 88. The American Bankers Association has shown that millions of families are spending up to 40 per cent of their income on installment payments. Even when 20 per cent of a man's take-home pay is spent on installment payments, it's a threat to the economic stability of the family."

Rosner proposed that merchandise carry a two-price ticket. One price would be the cash price, the other the credit price.

"Take the Textile Labeling Act," he explained. "Every garment must be labeled so as to show what materials the garment contains. That's a considerable job, but it's done."

"What credit terms are common in the clothing business?" asked Senator Douglas.

"They vary considerably," replied Rosner. "They range from no money down to weekly payments."

"What is the markup over the regular normal sale price?" asked Douglas.

"That's hard to tie down. It could run up to 100 per cent," said Rosner.

"Do you know of such cases?"

"Yes," said Rosner. "In the markup. There's much sugar-coating. A full disclosure of the dollars and the interest would level out the prices, and I believe prices would come down."

Disarmament And Secretary Herter's Role

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON.

Unless appearances deceive, it is unfortunate that Prime Minister Macmillan has come to Washington to talk with President Eisenhower about the negotiations for a ban on nuclear tests.

It is unfortunate simply because the President decided, on his own hook and before the Prime Minister got here, to do just about what Macmillan wants him to do. Hence Macmillan's intervention will mainly tend to make an independent decision look as though it has not been independent. Thus another needless complication will be added to a painfully complicated business.

The decision the President has reportedly taken is to accept, at least in principle, the latest Soviet proposal for a comprehensive ban on nuclear tests. Agreements must also be reached with the Soviets on several other hotly disputed points. But the Eisenhower decision at least resolves the seemingly irreconcilable conflict over underground tests too weak to be detected by an inspection system.

If all goes well, detectable tests will now be banned by a formal treaty, providing a full inspection system. And undetectable tests will also be banned by a simple agreement to continue the existing test-moratorium for at least another year, while the scientists tinker with their detection methods.

The pros-and-cons of this intricate device of a treaty-plus-an-agreement were hotly debated before a decision was reached. Prime Minister Macmillan in fact invited himself to Washington, because, at one moment, it looked as though the victory would go to those who wished to reject the Soviet proposals out of hand. The debate produced the opposite result after Macmillan had packed his bags, so to say, and before he arrived in America.

The pattern of the debate is still worth study, because of the strong light it sheds on the recent evolution of the Eisenhower administration. To begin with, even the opposition struck a new note. Former Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, Admiral Lewis Strauss, literally opposed any kind of ban on nuclear tests.

The new Chairman, the able John McCone, favors a ban that can be inspected and enforced. But McCone fought the agreement to continue the test moratorium, because such an agreement will cover tests which cannot be detected by the inspection system.

Then too, a crucial role was played by the new civilian leaders of the Pentagon, Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates and Deputy Secretary James Douglas. The Pentagon used to feel as much distaste as the AEC for any ban on nuclear tests. But Gates and Douglas now cast favorable votes. This is one of several recent and important indications that these two men are quietly bringing a new light into the Eisenhower administration's self-created caves of darkness and winds.

Finally, the President's decision was a major victory, in a very personal sense, for Secretary of State Christian R. Herter. Herter led the fight for the affirmative, constructive approach. He was the spearhead of his side in the argument. And even after the argument seemed to be going pretty badly, as Macmillan's hasty journey proved, Herter got his way in the end.

This was all the more noteworthy, because it was a repeat performance. In the long period of humiliating indecision about this country's policy on general disarmament, Herter played exactly the same role.

When the Coolidge Commission turned in its report, in effect recommending that the United States could not support any kind of disarmament except fake-disarmament, it was Herter who secured the report's rejection. He then fought for an affirmative, constructive approach through week after week of inter-departmental committee meetings. And although the final decision took an unconscionable time to reach, Herter got his way in the end.

Herter's recurring advocacy of sensibility and affirmativeness in dealing with the Soviets by no means implies a lack of firmness. When the Soviets played their tricks with the passes of the Western Military liaison group at Potsdam, the Secretary of State was the first to insist on a firm response.

Again, when the Pentagon said that high altitude flights to Berlin were "an operational necessity," the Secretary of State took the lead in securing the allied agreement that high altitude flights would be ordered. The flights were not ordered, solely because the civilian leaders of the Pentagon took another look at the operational facts, and saw that the alleged necessity did not exist.

In short, what can only be called a Herter style of policy-making is beginning to be fairly clearly discernible. It is a pretty impressive style, too.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

GO SLUMMING — Go slumming! that is the latest suggestion for the public from the Democratic Advisory Committee, the political group made up of former President Harry S. Truman, Adlai Stevenson, Dean Acheson and others.

Problems of big-city housing, business redevelopment and industrial blight, and related problems of crime, delinquency and unemployment are much greater than most people think, in the committee's estimation.

It believes that if more Americans looked at the situation with seeing eyes the liberal Democratic position favoring federal action to remedy the situations would be better understood and supported. In this belief, the committee has issued a pamphlet calling for action. It says:

"There is no substitute for what the senses can observe — the sight and sound, and above all, the smell of the slums. . . . If we look into the heart of the slum (usually only a five-or-ten-minute walk from the city's center), at the crowded streets, the debris-littered back yards and inside, up the stinking stairways into the overcrowded rooms, we can see for ourselves how far short we are falling in providing a decent home and suitable living enviornment for every American family."

The pamphlet is, of course, a political document aimed at Republican administration policies concerning public housing, urban redevlopment and so-called community facilities legislation, some of it recently vetoed by President Eisenhower.

It is a direct assault on the GOP emphasis on a balanced budget. It won't change things this session of Congress; isn't designed to. However, most big cities vote Democratic. The pamphlet is designed to let these people know the Democratic party has not stopped thinking about them.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Last year I decided to add a few feet onto my office in the back of the house. The architect said it would cost $5,000. Too much. So I built a living room instead. This came to $20,000, and now my daughter takes baloney skin sandwiches to school. She says she's too weak to carry them, but that's a surly exaggeration.

It's a nice room. It sits 15 feet in from the Shrewsbury River and has big picture windows where I sit and brood. From the main house, there is a door from the dining room leading back to a balcony. Then there are six steps down into the living room. It measures about 30 feet by 28 and is done in black and white with a little plum to relieve the severity.

A fine violinist named Arthur Brower was the architect. The builders are Allen Brothers, who spent the whole winter putting it together and taking me apart. When they were through with the outside ($13,250), I got Joe Vincent to build the inside ($4,000), and bought the furniture ($4,000). Some of the chairs were already on hand ($0).

The interior decoration was all mine. We put up 8-inch pine boards on the walls, and painted two of them flat black, two flat white, two flat black, and so on. This gives an effect of broad verticle stripes. The draperies are solid plum.

The overhead beams were painted flat white; the interstices between are black. The fireplace is pure white, with a 400-pound slab of slate serving as a mantel. Around the fireplace is a 14-foot curving black couch, built to fit.

Near the picture window are two white wing chairs, and a glass coffee table with black legs. At the other end of the room is a deep plum-colored bar with white leatherette stools. There is a glass-enclosed back bar, a color television set mounted high in the wall, a white leather couch against the wall near the bar, and a game table.

The game table is interesting. It is done in heavy walnut, with white leather inset in the top, and chairs to match. The top of the table opens upward, and inside are cards, chessmen, checkers, dominoes, a roulette wheel, backgammon, cribbage board — everything except a mathematical table showing how to pay for it.

The floor of the room is cork. This is in case the tide rises too high. The final fillip is a collection of five original paintings, which I haggled for in Greenwich Village. They were done by different painters, but all have something in common: each is a Paris street scene, each represents the turn of the century.

The lighting is weird. One lamp is like a black pogo stick with bulbs sprouting from the sides. One, on a window table, has tiny star bulbs under the lampshade. Another, with six lamps on three brass branches, looks as though it had been stolen from Chou En-lai's home. Two lights, over the bar, are hidden.

The whole thing was finished last week, so I invited some close friends in for a wing-ding. Just before they arrived, my Gayle left with a boyfriend, muttering: "It looks like Bishop's swinging funeral parlor." The housekeeper drew up some roasts and salads and baked beans for the restless natives, and Chief and I put some extra booze in the bar so that the room would look good after the third round.

Buzz Connors did the bartending and the guests began to arrive at sundown. Ralph Walter sent a beautiful potted plant and Rocky got a rap on the tail for studying it too intently. By 8 p. m. the joint was jumping. Al Kenny played the piano and May Thurston sang English ditties which, I assume, were not taught to her by mother.

Betty Stone danced a hula with Bill Scanlon. Someone fell over a floor plug and the pogo light went out. Al Kenny lifted a highball and a woman sitting next to him jabbed him with her elbow and the drink went down his tie onto his trousers. Some baked beans slid off a plate and almost matched the cork floor.

Emil Herman fell asleep in the dining room. Someone told a joke and a lady laughed so hard her foot kicked the front of the bar and two chunks of plum paint fell out. Jim Sullivan went home and forgot to take his girl. Somebody else wanted to see the new puppies, and brought them up out of the cellar. I now have the only polkadot cork floor in America.

Over in a corner sat a beautiful bouquet. On the card, it said: "Daddyo: For the new pad. Gayle"...

Causes Of Nosebleeds And What They Mean

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

What is the most common cause of nose-bleed? Injury from blowing or picking off crusts that develop when the membranes are dry. Trauma tears the inner-lining and opens the small vessels in this area.

Crusting is avoided by keeping the nostrils soft with a small amount of petroleum jelly or mineral oil. A humidifier moistens the air in the room and reduces the tendency toward dryness. Those bothered along this line should handle the old proboscis gently when blowing or rubbing it.

Nosebleed also is common in victims of high blood pressure or hardening of the arteries. It may prove to be a blessing in disguise because it is better to have a ruptured vessel in the nose than in the brain. In this respect, nosebleed is a safety valve.

Children develop nosebleed at the drop of a hat. Injury is a frequent cause, especially when congestion exists because of a head cold. More serious origins, such as rheumatic fever and leukemia, are suspected when bleeding is spontaneous and the child is not well.

Bleeding diseases, such as purpura and vitamin C or K deficiency, seldom are responsible but when they are present, bleeding is not confined to the nose. It occurs also in the mouth, stomach, intestines, and other organs. Black and blue marks are indicative of hemorrhaging under the skin.

Any blood vessel in the nose can rupture but those in the center partition near the tip break more often than others do.

Oozing can be stopped in most instances by inserting a piece of cotton into the affected nostril and pinching the end of the nose with the fingers. Bleeding from the back of the nose tends to be more profuse because the vessels in this area are larger.

A prolonged or severe nosebleed is best treated by a physician. He can examine the nose to see the exact bleeding site and cauterize the point with silver nitrate, trichloracetic acid, or electricity. The nose is packed so that pressure is applied where most needed.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on nosebleed if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

HEREDITY AND HARELIP

A. D. L. writes: Is harelip hereditary?

REPLY

Some cases seem to have a hereditary basis but the majority probably represent a developmental defect.

STROKE FROM ANGER

H. H. writes: I don't get angry very often but when I do my hands shake and my head aches. Do you think this means I'm likely to have a stroke some time when I get mad?

REPLY

Your guess is as good as mine. A stroke is unusual when the arteries of the brain are normal. These blood vessels are damaged by high blood pressure and their walls deteriorate with age. Your chances of having a stroke will increase if you develop hypertension or hardening of the arteries. By that time I hope you will have mellowed and learned to control your temper.

EXTRA BLANKETS

E. S. writes: Is it a sign of poor health to require more covers than other people do at night?

REPLY

Some persons who are always cold have a thyroid deficiency; others are underweight, under par, or anemic. Many healthy individuals appear to have a lower thermostat than others and always complain of the room being cold and the need for warmer clothes. Electric or wool blankets and heavy night clothes are made to order for such individuals.

INFLAMMATION

M. B. writes: Why is alcohol prohibited in cystitis?

REPLY

Because it irritates the bladder and aggravates the infection. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on cystitis.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Robert Q. Lewis is responsible for the story of the woman who marched into a poultry shop to complain, "That chicken you sold me yesterday had no wishbone." The poultryman was equal to the occasion.

"Madam," he declared, "the chickens I sell are so happy, they have nothing to wish for."

Lorrain D'Essen owns a beautiful white llama named Llinda. Llinda is not only housebroken, but is convinced she is a human being. She has the run of Miss D'Essen's house in lower Manhattan, and makes the most of it. Llinda was lording it over one gathering there, resplendent in a jeweled neckpiece, when one of the testy human guests took umbrage.

"We all know Llinda's beauty," he sneered, "but does she have to walk around as though she holds the mortgage on the house?"

In March 1941, Marc Blitzstein signed a statement urging the President and Congress to defend the rights of the Communist Party; he supported in 1946, the Communist May Day Parade.

In 1940 and 1941, Blitzstein was identified as closely associated with the Communist Party and that despite the Hitler-Stalin Alliance. He was an outstanding intellectual loyal to the Communist Party and collecting funds for it and its fronts. In 1954, Gwen Anderson, a self-admitted Communist Party member, testified that she had known Blitzstein as a Communist Party member in New York from the fall of 1946 until early in 1947.

Blitzstein testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities on May 8, 1958. He admitted that he had been a member of the Communist Party from approximately the spring of 1938 to late 1949. He admitted activity in various Communist Party fronts although he denied knowing specifically of their Communist Party connections. Blitzstein said that he dropped out of the Communist Party because he disagreed with many Communist Party policies and particularly with attempts to interfere with his individual freedom of thought. However, he declined to be communicative concerning specific activities of the treasonable party of which he had long been a member.

Marc Blitzstein has written a number of operas, "The Cradle Will Rock," "No For an Answer," "Regina" based on Lillian Hellman's "Little Foxes," and he transplanted and adapted Brecht's libretto of Kurt Weill's "Three Penny Opera." During World War II, Blitzstein wrote music for propaganda films and his own "Airborne Symphony."

This is the story of the effort of the Ford Foundation and the Metropolitan Opera to encourage opera in the United States. And this great effort to produce a national opera, an inspiration for the country is to be about a pair of anarchists, written by one who at a telling period in the history of his country was a Communist which means that he had submitted to the discipline of the Kremlin—a government which since 1917 was an enemy of his country.

I am not, in this article, criticizing Blitzstein. He has done as he chooses; he must assume all the risks which accompany conduct. He was given several opportunities to assist the agencies of his country in safeguarding it from the enemy. He has not done more than he was absolutely required to do by the law. That is his will and his right.

Criticism should indeed be levelled at the Ford Foundation for selecting so poor a theme, so obnoxious and depressing a subject for a subsidized American opera. The Metropolitan Opera release makes the point that the Sacco-Vanzetti trial "was sharply criticized by the Wickersham Committee on legal procedure." The Wickersham Committee was not a court of law. Its opinion was obiter dicta.

Poisoning The Pipeline

U.S. Chief Delegate On Disarmament Raises Some Diplomatic Eyebrows

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Prime Minister Macmillan is too diplomatic to mention it to Ike, but some of his British Empire colleagues have expressed themselves quite frankly about the man Ike picked to head the U.S. disarmament delegation in Geneva.

He is Frederick McCurdy Eaton, a Wall Street lawyer completely untrained in diplomacy, who has to stand up against such an experienced operator as Valerin Zorin, the Deputy Foreign Minister of Russia.

Eaton has held a few minor government jobs such as counsel of the War Production Board and a member of the Combined Raw Materials Board. However, he has nowhere near the experience of Zorin or Jules Moch of France or Gaetano Martino of Italy.

In addition, there's another little-known chapter in Eaton's background which may raise some questions on Capitol Hill when it becomes known. Eaton is attorney for and a director of Monsanto Chemical which is a contractor under the Atomic Energy Commission for the operation of the AEC Mound Laboratory at Miamisburg, Ohio. Monsanto is also reported to be a defense contractor for the AEC, though these contracts are classified.

Monsanto Chemical has done well for Eaton. If you take the trouble to look up Monsanto's record with the Securities and Exchange Commission and in Moody's—both of which are open to the Russians—you will find that, as of December 31, 1959, Eaton owned a total of 1,621 shares of Monsanto stock, worth about $80,000, all of it a gift from the company. He got 500 shares as a gift in 1952, another 1,000 shares in a stock split in 1955, and smaller amounts every year thereafter.

You will also find that this stock began zooming in value after the Eisenhower administration assumed office. Net sales during Truman's last year, 1952, were $77,904,787. Net sales in 1955, the third year of the Eisenhower administration, totaled $525,679,000. And at the close of 1958, Monsanto had an earned surplus of $178,172,197.

With this background, and with Monsanto in a position to suffer from drastic disarmament cutbacks, Eaton's position as head of the American disarmament delegation is raising diplomatic eyebrows.

Remarked one Canadian: "I wonder if the United States really wants to negotiate seriously for disarmament."

Formula For Youth

Konrad Adenauer, 84-year-old Chancellor of Germany, called on Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas the other day, looking spry and vigorous.

"How do you keep looking so young?" asked the Senate majority leader.

"I never get angry," replied Adenauer. "I keep busy and I like what I am doing."

Family Bankruptcies

Greatest cause of bankruptcies in the USA is installment buying, according to Harold Rosner, president of Robert Hall Clothes, in testimony before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee. Senators were studying a bill introduced by Sen. Paul Douglas (D., Ill.) to require all articles sold on credit to bear a price tag showing how much interest was being charged.

Senator Douglas claims that finance companies are hiking the interest rates on installment buying so high that the buyer sometimes pays for the article twice-over.

"I am in favor of anything that will stop the increase in family bankruptcies," testified Rosner, who runs the biggest family clothing chain in the USA and on a cash basis. "In 1950 family bankruptcies accounted for 75 per cent of all bankruptcies. Last year the percentage had risen to 88. The American Bankers Association has shown that millions of families are spending up to 40 per cent of their income on installment payments. Even when 20 per cent of a man's take-home pay is spent on installment payments, it's a threat to the economic stability of the family."

Rosner proposed that merchandise carry a two-price ticket. One price would be the cash price, the other the credit price.

"Take the Textile Labeling Act," he explained. "Every garment must be labeled so as to show what materials the garment contains. That's a considerable job, but it's done."

"What credit terms are common in the clothing business?" asked Senator Douglas.

"They vary considerably," replied Rosner. "They range from no money down to weekly payments."

"What is the markup over the regular normal sale price?" asked Douglas.

"That's hard to tie down. It could run up to 100 per cent," said Rosner.

"Do you know of such cases?"

"Yes," said Rosner. "In the markup. There's much sugar-coating. A full disclosure of the dollars and the interest would level out the prices, and I believe prices would come down."

Disarmament And Secretary Herter's Role

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON.

Unless appearances deceive, it is unfortunate that Prime Minister Macmillan has come to Washington to talk with President Eisenhower about the negotiations for a ban on nuclear tests.

It is unfortunate simply because the President decided, on his own hook and before the Prime Minister got here, to do just about what Macmillan wants him to do. Hence Macmillan's intervention will mainly tend to make an independent decision look as though it has not been independent. Thus another needless complication will be added to a painfully complicated business.

The decision the President has reportedly taken is to accept, at least in principle, the latest Soviet proposal for a comprehensive ban on nuclear tests. Agreements must also be reached with the Soviets on several other hotly disputed points. But the Eisenhower decision at least resolves the seemingly irreconcilable conflict over underground tests too weak to be detected by an inspection system.

If all goes well, detectable tests will now be banned by a formal treaty, providing a full inspection system. And undetectable tests will also be banned by a simple agreement to continue the existing test-moratorium for at least another year, while the scientists tinker with their detection methods.

The pros-and-cons of this intricate device of a treaty-plus-an-agreement were hotly debated before a decision was reached. Prime Minister Macmillan in fact invited himself to Washington, because, at one moment, it looked as though the victory would go to those who wished to reject the Soviet proposals out of hand. The debate produced the opposite result after Macmillan had packed his bags, so to say, and before he arrived in America.

The pattern of the debate is still worth study, because of the strong light it sheds on the recent evolution of the Eisenhower administration. To begin with, even the opposition struck a new note. Former Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, Admiral Lewis Strauss, literally opposed any kind of ban on nuclear tests.

The new Chairman, the able John McCone, favors a ban that can be inspected and enforced. But McCone fought the agreement to continue the test moratorium, because such an agreement will cover tests which cannot be detected by the inspection system.

Then too, a crucial role was played by the new civilian leaders of the Pentagon, Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates and Deputy Secretary James Douglas. The Pentagon used to feel as much distaste as the AEC for any ban on nuclear tests. But Gates and Douglas now cast favorable votes. This is one of several recent and important indications that these two men are quietly bringing a new light into the Eisenhower administration's self-created caves of darkness and winds.

Finally, the President's decision was a major victory, in a very personal sense, for Secretary of State Christian R. Herter. Herter led the fight for the affirmative, constructive approach. He was the spearhead of his side in the argument. And even after the argument seemed to be going pretty badly, as Macmillan's hasty journey proved, Herter got his way in the end.

This was all the more noteworthy, because it was a repeat performance. In the long period of humiliating indecision about this country's policy on general disarmament, Herter played exactly the same role.

When the Coolidge Commission turned in its report, in effect recommending that the United States could not support any kind of disarmament except fake-disarmament, it was Herter who secured the report's rejection. He then fought for an affirmative, constructive approach through week after week of interdepartmental committee meetings. And although the final decision took an unconscionable time to reach, Herter got his way in the end.

Herter's recurring advocacy of sensibility and affirmativeness in dealing with the Soviets by no means implies a lack of firmness. When the Soviets played their tricks with the passes of the Western Military liaison group at Potsdam, the Secretary of State was the first to insist on a firm response.

Again, when the Pentagon said that high altitude flights to Berlin were "an operational necessity," the Secretary of State took the lead in securing the allied agreement that high altitude flights would be ordered. The flights were not ordered, solely because the civilian leaders of the Pentagon took another look at the operational facts, and saw that the alleged necessity did not exist.

In short, what can only be called a Herter style of policy-making is beginning to be fairly clearly discernible. It is a pretty impressive style, too.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

GO SLUMMING — Go slumming! that is the latest suggestion for the public from the Democratic Advisory Committee, the political group made up of former President Harry S. Truman, Adlai Stevenson, Dean Acheson and others.

Problems of big-city housing, business redevelopment and industrial blight, and related problems of crime, delinquency and unemployment are much greater than most people think, in the committee's estimation.

It believes that if more Americans looked at the situation with seeing eyes the liberal Democratic position favoring federal action to remedy the situations would be better understood and supported. In this belief, the committee has issued a pamphlet calling for action. It says:

"There is no substitute for what the senses can observe — the sight and sound, and above all, the smell of the slums. . . . If we look into the heart of the slum (usually only a five-or-ten-minute walk from the city's center), at the crowded streets, the debris-littered back yards and inside, up the stinking stairways into the overcrowded rooms, we can see for ourselves how far short we are falling in providing a decent home and suitable living environment for every American family."

The pamphlet is, of course, a political document aimed at Republican administration policies concerning public housing, urban redevlopment and so-called community facilities legislation, some of it recently vetoed by President Eisenhower.

It is a direct assault on the GOP emphasis on a balanced budget. It won't change things this session of Congress; isn't designed to. However, most big cities vote Democratic. The pamphlet is designed to let these people know the Democratic party has not stopped thinking about them.

Causes Of Nosebleeds And What They Mean

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

What is the most common cause of nose-bleed? Injury from blowing or picking off crusts that develop when the membranes are dry. Trauma tears the inner-lining and opens the small vessels in this area.

Crusting is avoided by keeping the nostrils soft with a small amount of petroleum jelly or mineral oil. A humidifier moistens the air in the room and reduces the tendency toward dryness. Those bothered along this line should handle the old proboscis gently when blowing or rubbing it.

Nosebleed also is common in victims of high blood pressure or hardening of the arteries. It may prove to be a blessing in disguise because it is better to have a ruptured vessel in the nose than in the brain. In this respect, nosebleed is a safety valve.

Children develop nosebleed at the drop of a hat. Injury is a frequent cause, especially when congestion exists because of a head cold. More serious origins, such as rheumatic fever and leukemia, are suspected when bleeding is spontaneous and the child is not well.

Bleeding diseases, such as purpura and vitamin C or K deficiency, seldom are responsible but when they are present, bleeding is not confined to the nose. It occurs also in the mouth, stomach, intestines, and other organs. Black and blue marks are indicative of hemorrhaging under the skin.

Any blood vessel in the nose can rupture but those in the center partition near the tip break more often than others do.

Oozing can be stopped in most instances by inserting a piece of cotton into the affected nostril and pinching the end of the nose with the fingers. Bleeding from the back of the nose tends to be more profuse because the vessels in this area are larger.

A prolonged or severe nosebleed is best treated by a physician. He can examine the nose to see the exact bleeding site and cauterize the point with silver nitrate, trichloracetic acid, or electricity. The nose is packed so that pressure is applied where most needed.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on nosebleed if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

HEREDITY AND HARELIP

A. D. L. writes: Is harelip hereditary?

REPLY

Some cases seem to have a hereditary basis but the majority probably represent a developmental defect.

STROKE FROM ANGER

H. H. writes: I don't get angry very often but when I do my hands shake and my head aches. Do you think this means I'm likely to have a stroke some time when I get mad?

REPLY

Your guess is as good as mine. A stroke is unusual when the arteries of the brain are normal. These blood vessels are damaged by high blood pressure and their walls deteriorate with age. Your chances of having a stroke will increase if you develop hypertension or hardening of the arteries. By that time I hope you will have mellowed and learned to control your temper.

EXTRA BLANKETS

E. S. writes: Is it a sign of poor health to require more covers than other people do at night?

REPLY

Some persons who are always cold have a thyroid deficiency; others are underweight, under par, or anemic. Many healthy individuals appear to have a lower thermostat than others and always complain of the room being cold and the need for warmer clothes. Electric or wool blankets and heavy night clothes are made to order for such individuals.

INFLAMMATION

M. B. writes: Why is alcohol prohibited in cystitis?

REPLY

Because it irritates the bladder and aggravates the infection. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on cystitis.

In the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Robert Q. Lewis is responsible for the story of the woman who marched into a poultry shop to complain, "That chicken you sold me yesterday had no wishbone." The poultryman was equal to the occasion.

"Madam," he declared, "the chickens I sell are so happy, they have nothing to wish for."

Lorrain D'Essen owns a beautiful white llama named Llinda. Llinda is not only housebroken, but is convinced she is a human being. She has the run of Miss D'Essen's house in lower Manhattan, and makes the most of it. Llinda was lording it over one gathering there, resplendent in a jeweled neckpiece, when one of the testy human guests took umbrage.

"We all know Llinda's beauty," he sneered, "but does she have to walk around as though she holds the mortgage on the house?"

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Last year I decided to add a few feet onto my office in the back of the house. The architect said it would cost $5,000. Too much. So I built a living room instead. This came to $20,000, and now my daughter takes baloney skin sandwiches to school. She says she's too weak to carry them, but that's a surly exaggeration.

It's a nice room. It sits 15 feet in from the Shrewsbury River and has big picture windows where I sit and brood. From the main house, there is a door from the dining room leading back to a balcony. Then there are six steps down into the living room. It measures about 30 feet by 28 and is done in black and white with a little plum to relieve the severity.

A fine violinist named Arthur Brower was the architect. The builders are Allen Brothers, who spent the whole winter putting it together and taking me apart. When they were through with the outside ($13,250), I got Joe Vincent to build the inside ($4,000), and bought the furniture ($4,000). Some of the chairs were already on hand ($0).

The interior decoration was all mine. We put up 8-inch pine boards on the walls, and painted two of them flat black, two flat white, two flat black, and so on. This gives an effect of broad verticle stripes. The draperies are solid plum.

The overhead beams were painted flat white; the interstices between are black. The fireplace is pure white, with a 400-pound slab of slate serving as a mantel. Around the fireplace is a 14-foot curving black couch, built to fit.

Near the picture window are two white wing chairs, and a glass coffee table with black legs. At the other end of the room is a deep plum-colored bar with white leatherette stools. There is a glass-enclosed back bar, a color television set mounted high in the wall, a white leather couch against the wall near the bar, and a game table.

The game table is interesting. It is done in heavy walnut, with white leather inset in the top, and chairs to match. The top of the table opens upward, and inside are cards, chessmen, checkers, dominoes, a roulette wheel, backgammon, cribbage board — everything except a mathematical table showing how to pay for it.

The floor of the room is cork. This is in case the tide rises too high. The final fillip is a collection of five original paintings, which I haggled for in Greenwich Village. They were done by different painters, but all have something in common: each is a Paris street scene, each represents the turn of the century.

The lighting is weird. One lamp is like a black pogo stick with bulbs sprouting from the sides. One, on a window table, has tiny star bulbs under the lampshade. Another, with six lamps on three brass branches, looks as though it had been stolen from Chou En-lai's home. Two lights, over the bar, are hidden.

The whole thing was finished last week, so I invited some close friends in for a wing-ding. Just before they arrived, my Gayle left with a boyfriend, muttering: "It looks like Bishop's swinging funeral parlor." The housekeeper drew up some roasts and salads and baked beans for the restless natives, and Chief and I put some extra booze in the bar so that the room would look good after the third round.

Buzz Connors did the bartending and the guests began to arrive at sundown. Ralph Walter sent a beautiful potted plant and Rocky got a rap on the tail for studying it too intently. By 8 p. m. the joint was jumping. Al Kenny played the piano and May Thurston sang English ditties which, I assume, were not taught to her by mother.

Betty Stone danced a hula with Bill Scanlon. Someone fell over a floor plug and the pogo light went out. Al Kenny lifted a highball and a woman sitting next to him jabbed him with her elbow and the drink went down his tie onto his trousers. Some baked beans slid off a plate and almost matched the cork floor.

Emil Herman fell asleep in the dining room. Someone told a joke and a lady laughed so hard her foot kicked the front of the bar and two chunks of plum paint fell out. Jim Sullivan went home and forgot to take his girl. Somebody else wanted to see the new puppies, and brought them up out of the cellar. I now have the only polkadot cork floor in America.

Over in a corner sat a beautiful bouquet. On the card, it said: "Daddyo: For the new pad. Gayle"...

Sen. Humphrey Picks Campaign Heads In W.Va.

Opposes Kennedy In May Primary

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—U. S. Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) Tuesday named attorneys William A. Jacobs of Parkersburg and Marshall G. West of Oceana as co-chairmen of his Democratic presidential campaign in West Virginia.

Humphrey also announced that Roy Lee Harmon, Beckley newspaperman and state poet laurate, would serve as director of public relations during the campaign.

Humphrey will oppose Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass.) in West Virginia's primary election May 10.

Humphrey's headquarters here said the senator would be in southern West Virginia next month. On April 8 a caravan of buses will take Humphrey up the Kanawha Valley from Charleston to Fayetteville and Oak Hill and Beckley.

On April 9 the caravan will move to Hinton and Princeton and back to Madison for a rally that night. Humphrey will spend April 10 in Charleston.

The headquarters announced other appointments. Charles A. Myer, owner of a Charleston electronics firm, will be campaign treasurer and Harry Drenner, Charleston, district director of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union will be head of the campaign's labor committee.

Jacobs and West both are candidates for the state House of Delegates. West presently is a member, having been elected in 1958. Jacobs will be seeking his first term.

Child, 3, Killed In Fayette County

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The death of a three-year-old Fayette County child has raised to 57 the number of persons killed this year on West Virginia highways.

Carl David Eagel was struck and killed by a car Monday on W. Va. 31 near East Rainelle. Walter H. Fox, Detroit, also died Monday in an accident near Madison on U. S. 119.

W.Va. Governor Candidates To Attend Dinner

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—The West Virginia Broadcasters Assn. spring meeting April 22 at Morgantown will have as special guests all six of the men seeking the gubernatorial nominations in the May primary.

C. Lselie Golliday of Martinsburg, president of the association, said each primary candidate, four Democrats and two Republicans, will be given 10 minutes in which to present his platform and any other comment he may care to make.

The six are Democrats W. W. Barron, Harry R. Pauley, Orel J. Skeen and Hulett C. Smith, and Republicans Chapman Revercomb and Harold E. Neely.

Bus Owners Seek Aid Of Legislators

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Bus Assn. asked the Legislature's two main interim committees here to take steps to alleviate the problem of declining bus revenues in the state.

The request was in a memorandum presented by Gov. Cecil H. Underwood's office to the Joint Committee on Government and Finance and the Commission on Interstate Cooperation.

The association noted that nine companies which licensed 20 or more buses collected 29 per cent less revenues in 1958 than in 1947 and reported 74 per cent less net income.

The association said that several states have recognized the problem of the bus operator by eliminating fuel taxes in whole or in part, refunding or eliminating various business taxes and relaxing laws governing the operation of bus lines.

The nine companies which licensed a total of 632 buses in 1948 but only 392 in 1959 were listed as Charleston Transit; City Lines of Clarksburg, Parkersburg and Fairmont; Cooperative Transit, Wheeling; Ohio Valley Bus, Huntington; Pittsburgh - Weirton Bus Co., Weirton; Reynolds Transportation Co., Buckhannon; Tri-City Traction Co., Bluefield-Princeton; Wheeling Public Service Co. and Osgood Bus Lines, Morgantown.

FAA Urged To Move Center

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Agency has been urged to move the Washington Air Route Traffic Control Center to West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd (D-W. Va.) said Tuesday he had written E. R. Quesada, administrator of the federal agency, proposing serious consideration of such a move.

Byrd said possible locations for the center were Charles Town and Martinsburg.

The senators said he had written the letter because he understood the agency was considering moving the center "outside the bomb-damage area of which the nation's capitol would be the center."

County Farm Poses Problem

W.Va. Reports 28 New Spring Forest Fires

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Assistant State Forester Asher W. Kelly said 28 new forest fires had been reported in West Virginia.

Kelly said this brought to 46 the number reported to the Conservation since last Saturday. He said many were started by persons burning trash.

"All of these fires are pretty much concentrated in southwestern West Virginia and in the Ohio Valley," Kelly said. "There still is considerable snow in the mountains except on the southern slopes and they are not bad right now."

However, Kelly said the recent warm, windy weather has created a "very hazardous situation."

"Apparently, a lot of people have been held up in their spring cleaning by the bad weather and are taking advantage of the fine weather we've been having to do it," Kelly said. "Still, we must insist that trash burning be kept to a minimum and within the limits prescribed."

The spring fire season opened March 1 and extends for 90 days. During that period, persons burning between 5 a.m. and 5 p.m. must have permits from the conservation commission.

Kelly said Mingo County had six new fires Monday, Logan County 5; Wayne and Kanawha 4 each; Mercer 3, Lincoln, Cabell and Boone 2 each.

Sen. Humphrey Picks Campaign Heads In W.Va.

Opposes Kennedy In May Primary

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—U. S. Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) Tuesday named attorneys William A. Jacobs of Parkersburg and Marshall G. West of Oceana as co-chairmen of his Democratic presidential campaign in West Virginia.

Humphrey also announced that Roy Lee Harmon, Beckley newspaperman and state poet laurate, would serve as director of public relations during the campaign.

Humphrey will oppose Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass.) in West Virginia's primary election May 10.

Humphrey's headquarters here said the senator would be in southern West Virginia next month. On April 8 a caravan of buses will take Humphrey up the Kanawha Valley from Charleston to Fayetteville and Oak Hill and Beckley.

On April 9 the caravan will move to Hinton and Princeton and back to Madison for a rally that night. Humphrey will spend April 10 in Charleston.

The headquarters announced other appointments. Charles A. Myer, owner of a Charleston electronics firm, will be campaign treasurer and Harry Drenner, Charleston, district director of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union will be head of the campaign's labor committee.

Jacobs and West both are candidates for the state House of Delegates. West presently is a member, having been elected in 1958. Jacobs will be seeking his first term.

Child, 3, Killed In Fayette County

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The death of a three-year-old Fayette County child has raised to 57 the number of persons killed this year on West Virginia highways.

Carl David Eagel was struck and killed by a car Monday on W. Va. 31 near East Rainelle. Walter H. Fox, Detroit, also died Monday in an accident near Madison on U. S. 119.

Clark To Appear

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (UPI)—National Junior Chamber of Commerce President Robert H. Clark, Des Moines, Ia., will make two appearances in West Virginia Wednesday. He will address a luncheon meeting of Fairmont Jaycees and a dinner meeting of Charleston Jaycees.

W.Va. Governor Candidates To Attend Dinner

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — The West Virginia Broadcasters Assn. spring meeting April 22 at Morgantown will have as special guests all six of the men seeking the gubernatorial nominations in the May primary.

C. Lselie Golliday of Martinsburg, president of the association, said each primary candidate, four Democrats and two Republicans, will be given 10 minutes in which to present his platform and any other comment he may care to make.

The six are Democrats W. W. Barron, Harry R. Pauley, Orel J. Skeen and Hulett C. Smith, and Republicans Chapman Revercomb and Harold E. Neely.

Bus Owners Seek Aid Of Legislators

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Bus Assn. asked the Legislature's two main interim committees here to take steps to alleviate the problem of declining bus revenues in the state.

The request was in a memorandum presented by Gov. Cecil H. Underwood's office to the Joint Committee on Government and Finance and the Commission on Interstate Cooperation.

The association noted that nine companies which licensed 20 or more buses collected 29 per cent less revenues in 1958 than in 1947 and reported 74 per cent less net income.

The association said that several states have recognized the problem of the bus operator by eliminating fuel taxes in whole or in part, refunding or eliminating various business taxes and relaxing laws governing the operation of bus lines.

The nine companies which licensed a total of 632 buses in 1948 but only 392 in 1959 were listed as Charleston Transit; City Lines of Clarksburg, Parkersburg and Fairmont; Cooperative Transit, Wheeling; Ohio Valley Bus, Huntington; Pittsburgh - Weirton Bus Co., Weirton; Reynolds Transportation Co., Buckhannon; Tri-City Traction Co., Bluefield-Princeton; Wheeling Public Service Co. and Osgood Bus Lines, Morgantown.

FAA Urged To Move Center

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Agency has been urged to move the Washington Air Route Traffic Control Center to West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd (D-W. Va.) said Tuesday he had written E. R. Quesada, administrator of the federal agency, proposing serious consideration of such a move.

Byrd said possible locations for the center were Charles Town and Martinsburg.

The senators said he had written the letter because he understood the agency was considering moving the center "outside the bomb-damage area of which the nation's capitol would be the center."

The three act play will follow Johnny's life from his cider mill in Pittsburgh, Pa., through his travels into the wilderness where he planted thousands of apple trees, to the end of his days in Fort Wayne, Ind.

All grades are participating and their parts include the rhythm band, playing the overture; first grade: the animals, second grade: the apple blossoms, birds and bees, third and fourth grade girls; indians and settlers, third and fourth grade boys; and the pioneers, fifth and sixth grades.

The operetta will show the results of an interest in Johnny Appleseed which developed during literature lessons early in the year. All phases of the school program have been used in the presentation of the play. After the completion of the program, an evaluation will be held and the project will be written as a research activity by the whole school.

Manheim Plant Purchased By J. Wesley Ruby

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Harley O. Staggers (D-W. Va.) said that he has been informed that a Manheim, W. Va. cement plant has been sold to a Morgantown, W. Va. businessman, J. Wesley Ruby.

He said in a statement that the development would be a boon to the Preston County, W. Va., economy and that the plant could create from 125 to 175 jobs.

The Alpha-Portland Cement Co. ceased operations at the plant last year. Staggers said that Ruby previously told him that if he acquired the plant, he hoped "to utilize it and get it into operation just as soon as possible."

The Democratic congressman said the Navy Department recently looked over the plant as a possible storage site.

He said the sale to private industry is "more advantageous, as this would afford much more in local employment and mean so much to the economy of Preston County and the surrounding areas."

Kifer's vs. Old G's? Top Athlete Is Girl

Corle Likes Bowie Want 16-Game Limit

By C. V. BURNS

THE OLD GERMANS make their first start in the Senior Unlimited Division of the YMCA-Jaycee Basketball Tournament tonight and if Don Moran and Dave Marple see action this team is expected to battle it out with Kifer's Bowlmor Center of Barton for the title Friday night.

A year ago the Old G's, headed by Moran, won the senior title and it marked the third straight year that a team composed of players from the Tri-Towns went all the way. The Devon Club won in 1958 and the Tri-Towns Collegians copped the championship in 1957.

Kifer's team is headed by Jerry Bechtle, Paul Jelus and Bruce Keller, members of this year's University of Maryland team and if the Old Germans are at full strength this game should be a fitting climax to the tournament.

In 1952, a University of Maryland team representing the George Construction Company won the tournament by beating Yoder's Plumbers, 85-66. Gene Shue, voted the outstanding player in the tourney, is now one of the standout players in the National Basketball Association. Other members of the George quint included Don Moran, Charley Lattimer, Tom McLuckie and Lynn Beightol.

Marple, incidentally, holds the distinction of being voted the tourney's outstanding player three times—1955, 1957 and 1958. Moran was chosen last year. Jim Clevenger of Keyser was a two-times winner.

Moran and Marple played with the past three tourney winners. Last year the Old Germans beat Fairmont State College, 71-63, in 1958 the Devon Club topped the Cumberland Moose, 85-54, and in 1957, the Tri-Towns Collegians downed the Fort Ashby V.F.W., 76-60.

Other past winners in the senior division were:

1956—Poling's Market. 1955—Raupach's Collegians. 1954—Yoder's Plumbers. 1953—Cumberland Legion. 1952—George Construction Company. 1951—Parker A. C. 1950—Club Dukes. 1949—Cumberland Amvets. 1948—Cumberland Amvets. 1947—"Sonny" Geatz's Cafe. 1946—Lacy's Delicatets.

TOMMY RICHARDS of Carlos is now in spring training at Hollywood, Fla.

A product of Beall High School and the property of the Chicago White Sox, Richards expects to be with Indianapolis when the American Association season gets under way.

THREE Preston County high schools—Tunnelton, Fellowsville and Newburg — have joined the Little Mountain Conference which already includes Bayard, Belington, Beverly, Coalton, Harman, Mountaineer of Thomas and Pickens.

Jerry Tephabock of Bayard and Dick Uchic of Mountaineer High were among eight players named on the all-conference basketball team and will receive medals.

A MARYLAND GIRL — Miss Carole Douglas, 21-year-old senior of Chevy Chase—has been selected as the athlete of the year at Davis & Elkins College.

Miss Douglas, the only woman athlete at D. & E. ever to win a varsity letter, will captain the tennis team this year.

A two-foot high permanent trophy was presented to Miss Douglas at last week's annual awards banquet in Elkins.

BOWIE must be Bobby Corle's lucky track.

A year ago the Bedford county (Pa.) jockey posted a 31-31-19 record at the Maryland miler and finished second to Howard Grant.

At the meeting which ended yesterday the former Bedford High School wrestler wound up the campaign in second place with a 21-17-17 record.

ACCORDING to Charles Smith, Hyndman High School's basketball publicist, the Hornets had to battle huge snowdrifts during their journey to Farrell, Pa., last week for the state Class C regional final.

The team arrived at Farrell at 7 p.m., an hour before game time. After a rugged trip homeward the Hornets did not arrive in Hyndman until 6:30 a. m. and the players were excused from attending classes for the day.

POTOMAC STATE College's basketball team improved from a 14-15 record in 1959 to a 25-6 mark this year. Bruce High went from 6-15 to 13-7 and Moorefield's Yellowjackets wound up with 14-9 this season compared to 9-14 a year ago.

JOE LANGAN, one of the best sand lot catchers in the area in recent years, is slated to manage the Frostburg Merchants, new entry in the Pen-Mar League this season.

AT THE SPRING meeting of the Virginia High School League's legislative council a 16-game regular season limit on basketball games was recommended, effective with the 1961-62 season, and a long standing opposition to all-star games was reiterated.

The Purple Heart Club advanced to the playoff finals in the National Division of the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League by defeating the Fort Ashby V.F.W. by the margin of nine points in six games, 127-118.

"Hoppy" Crabtree led the winners with 15 points last night while B. Kenrey and V. Alt led Fort Ashby with 14 tallies each.

In Monday's late match, Bill Golladay paced the Purple Heart Club with 19 points and Don Bennett's 19 was best for Fort Ashby.

Ints President Denies Transfer Of Havana Club

SANFORD, Fla. (UPI)—Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, Tuesday night denied a report that minor leagues head George Trautman had urged the transfer of the Havana franchise to New Jersey as "completely untrue."

"There is no truth in that story at all," said Shaugnessy. "We are going to open in Havana as planned on April 20."

Bud Shrake, sports writer of the Dallas, Tex., Times-Herald, reported Tuesday that the Havana franchise would be moved because of Cuba's strained relations with the United States. Shrake's story from Pompano Beach, Fla., said Trautman had urged the league to make the switch and that Shaugnessy had informed Havana Club President Bobby Maduro "to move his franchise or lose it."

"That report is completely untrue," said Shaughnessy.

Tribe Noses Out Boston Sox, 7-6

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—The Boston Red Sox were nosed out 7-6 by the Cleveland Indians Tuesday.

Ex-Red Soxer Jim Piersall played a key role with two singles in two trips. He prevented his ex-teammates from tying the game in the ninth inning by making a great recovery and throw of Don Buddin's long double. The play prevented Don Gile, on first as the result of a pinch single, from scoring.

Cards Inform NFL Of Franchise Move

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Cardinals Tuesday informed the National Football League that their franchise would be moved to St. Louis for the 1960 season.

Managing Director Walter Wolfner confirmed the shift to the meeting of league club owners after they had officially approved the language of a resolution in which the league will pay the club $500,000 for moving.

The move originally was announced at the league's recent meeting in Los Angeles, but Wolfner had until April 2 to make a final decision. Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the delay was granted to permit him to arrange a lease on a playing field and arrange other details.

Giants Rally Falls Short, Cubs Win, 7-6

PHOENIX, Ariz., (UPI)—Lanky Chicago righthander Bob Anderson Tuesday came within two outs of becoming the first Cactus League pitcher to go nine innings as the Cubs outlasted the San Francisco Giants, 7-6.

Anderson threw a home run pitch to Felipe Alou in the first inning and then blanked the Giants until the ninth inning, when his favorite patsies stormed for five runs. The big fellow was lifted after Willie Kirkland hit a two-run single following a single by Willie McCovey and a double by Orlando Cepeda.

Sam Jones didn't give the Cubs a hit the first three innings, but back-to-back doubles by rookies Sam Drake and Lou Johnson broke the spell in the top of the fourth.

Detroit Evens Hockey Series

Red Wings Nose Out Leafs, 2-1

DETROIT (AP) — Rookie Jerry Melnyk cashed in a rebound shot at 1:54 of the first overtime period and gave the Detroit Red Wings a 2-1 triumph over the Toronto Maple Leafs Tuesday night. The goal squared its best-of-seven semifinal Stanley Cup hockey series at 2-2.

Melnyk scored on a high 10-footer after Leaf goalie Johnny Bower fell to the ice to stop Val Fonteyne's shot. The Wings had a man advantage when they scored the winner. Maple Leaf Ron Stewart was in the penalty box at the time.

The Wings were swarming around the Toronto cage when Fonteyne, also a rookie, let fly. Bower went down and stopped the shot. But the puck rolled right out to Melnyk who fired and Bower didn't have a chance.

The teams battled without a score after Carl Brewer gave the Leafs a 1-1 tie at 10:29 of the second period.

Detroit's victory made a sixth game necessary. It will be played at Detroit Sunday after a fifth game in Toronto Saturday.

Papermakers Spill Moose In YMCA Tournament, 41-32

Keyser Thetas Score, 79-41, Reach Finals

Broome Scores 34; Sensabaugh's And Griffith's Scores

A unheralded and unsung Papermakers quint provided a surprise last night by knocking off the Loyal Order of Moose quint of the City League in a quarter-final round battle of the Senior Unlimited Class in the 15th annual YMCA-Jaycee Basketball Tournament at the Central Y. M. C. A. The score was 41-32.

The Papermakers, a Tri-Towns outfit, skippered by Joe Thompson, trailed at halftime, 16-15, but took a 30-24 lead in the third period and outscored the Moose in the final stanza, 11 to 8.

Advancing to the semi-final round, the Papermakers will play the winner of tonight's Old Gunther-Old Germans game on Thursday.

Niland, Wilson Set Pace

Bob Niland and Bob Wilson slammed in 15 points each for the Papermakers while George McGregor paced the Moose with 14 tallies.

The Moose were outscored 13 to 12 from the field and 15 to 8 at the charity stripe.

Seventeen teams remain in the tourney which draws to a close Friday night. There are four survivors in the 115 pound class, three in the 135 pound class, five junior unlimited teams and five senior unlimited quints.

Thetas Reach Finals

The Thetas of Keyser became the first finalists in the tourney when they defeated Bob's Bombers by the decisive score of 79-41 in a 135-pound class contest which opened last night's program.

Winner of Thursday night's games between Stratton's Cafe and Lovers Leap will oppose the Thetas in the championship contest Friday night at 7 o'clock.

Broome's Total Is 93

Jim Broome, Potomac State College player, racked up a total of 34 points for the Thetas on 16 field goals and 2-3 fouls and increased his output to 93 tallies in three tournament games.

Kenny Miers, also a member of the Catamounts' varsity squad, garnered 15 points while Ralph Wimer had 13 to his credit.

The Thetas jumped off to a 17-8 lead in the first period and never were headed.

Ronald Dunn and Jack Borland accounted for 30 of the 41 points scored by Manager Bob Goldsworthy's quint. Dunn had 16 and Borland 14.

Sensabaugh's Advances

Orrie Sensabaugh's quint moved into the semi-final bracket in the junior unlimited class by disposing of Grneee Street Esso by the score of 41-33.

In another junior unlimited game, Griffith's Five ushered out the Sweet Nothin's, 38-37.

Griffith's must play St. Patrick's tonight at 7 and the winner tackles Sensabaugh's in the semi-final round Thursday at 8:30.

Jim Talley was the "big gun" for Sensabaugh's with 16 points to his credit. Bob Wharton and Drake Gibbs collected 13 tallies each for Greene Street.

The Esso quint trailed 20-19 at intermission and dropped nine points back at the end of the third period, 31-22.

The Griffith-Sweet Nothins game was close and interesting throughout. The score was knotted at 7-7 at the quarter, the Sweet Nothins led at the half, 14-11, and trailed at the close of the third stanza, 25-24.

Hansel Rings Up 21

Griffith's, a Frostburg quint, was paced by Jim Hansel who slammed in a total of 21 points, which included ten field goals. Hudson and Washington collected 13 and 10 points, respectively, for the losers.

Canadiens Win, 4-0

CHICAGO (AP) — Montreal's world champion Canadiens — getting their scoring punch from the spare-part line of Bill Hicke, Ralph Backstrom and Don Marshall—all but doomed Chicago's Stanley Cup hopes with a 4-0 victory Tuesday night.

The triumph gave the Canadiens a 3-0 lead in the semifinals of cup competition. The series could well end in Chicago Stadium Thursday night.

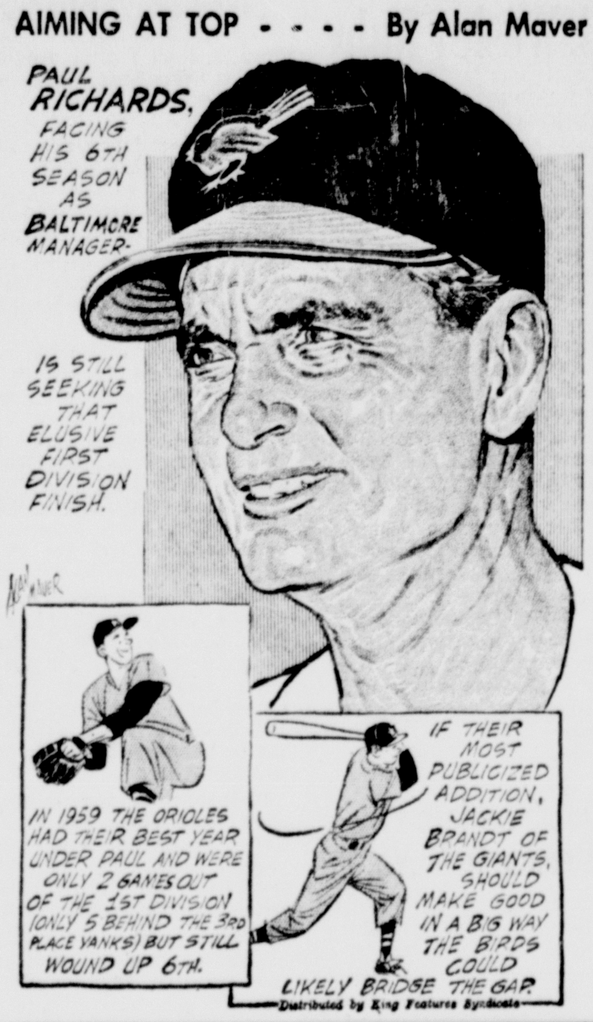

A Tennis Bargain

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —The Masters Invitational Tournament at the St. Petersburg Tennis Club got a real bargain in the appearance of Australian Neale Fraser, world's top ranked tennis player. He competed here for $100, plus a $199 share of his transportation expenses on the Florida - Caribbean circuit. He probably could have earned $2,000 for a one-night professional stand but the 26-year-old bachelor prefers to remain an amateur.

Kifer's vs. Old G's? Top Athlete Is Girl

By C. V. BURNS

THE OLD GERMANS make their first start in the Senior Unlimited Division of the YMCA-Jaycee Basketball Tournament tonight and if Don Moran and Dave Marple see action this team is expected to battle it out with Kifer's Bowlmor Center of Barton for the title Friday night.

A year ago the Old G's, headed by Moran, won the senior title and it marked the third straight year that a team composed of players from the Tri-Towns went all the way. The Devon Club won in 1958 and the Tri-Towns Collegians copped the championship in 1957.

Kifer's team is headed by Jerry Bechtle, Paul Jelus and Bruce Keller, members of this year's University of Maryland team and if the Old Germans are at full strength this game should be a fitting climax to the tournament.

In 1952, a University of Maryland team representing the George Construction Company won the tournament by beating Yoder's Plumbers, 85-66. Gene Shue, voted the outstanding player in the tourney, is now one of the standout players in the National Basketball Association. Other members of the George quint included Don Moran, Charley Lattimer, Tom McLuckie and Lynn Beightol.

Marple, incidentally, holds the distinction of being voted the tourney's outstanding player three times—1955, 1957 and 1958. Moran was chosen last year. Jim Clevenger of Keyser was a two-times winner.

Moran and Marple played with the past three tourney winners. Last year the Old Germans beat Fairmont State College, 71-63, in 1958 the Devon Club topped the Cumberland Moose, 85-54, and in 1957, the Tri-Towns Collegians downed the Fort Ashby V.F.W., 76-60.

Other past winners in the senior division were:

1956—Poling's Market. 1955—Raupach's Collegians. 1954—Yoder's Plumbers. 1953—Cumberland Legion. 1952—George Construction Company. 1951—Parker A. C. 1950—Club Dukes. 1949—Cumberland Amvets. 1948—Cumberland Amvets. 1947—"Sonny" Geatz's Cafe. 1946—Lacy's Delicatets.

TOMMY RICHARDS of Carlos is now in spring training at Hollywood, Fla.

A product of Beall High School and the property of the Chicago White Sox, Richards expects to be with Indianapolis when the American Association season gets under way.

THREE Preston County high schools—Tunnelton, Fellowsville and Newburg — have joined the Little Mountain Conference which already includes Bayard, Belington, Beverly, Coalton, Harman, Mountaineer of Thomas and Pickens.

Jerry Tephabock of Bayard and Dick Uchic of Mountaineer High were among eight players named on the all-conference basketball team and will receive medals.

A MARYLAND GIRL — Miss Carole Douglas, 21-year-old senior of Chevy Chase—has been selected as the athlete of the year at Davis & Elkins College.

Miss Douglas, the only woman athlete at D. & E. ever to win a varsity letter, will captain the tennis team this year.

A two-foot high permanent trophy was presented to Miss Douglas at last week's annual awards banquet in Elkins.

BOWIE must be Bobby Corle's lucky track.

A year ago the Bedford county (Pa.) jockey posted a 31-31-19 record at the Maryland miler and finished second to Howard Grant.

At the meeting which ended yesterday the former Bedford High School wrestler wound up the campaign in second place with a 21-17-17 record.

ACCORDING to Charles Smith, Hyndman High School's basketball publicist, the Hornets had to battle huge snowdrifts during their journey to Farrell, Pa., last week for the state Class C regional final.

The team arrived at Farrell at 7 p.m., an hour before game time. After a rugged trip homeward the Hornets did not arrive in Hyndman until 6:30 a. m. and the players were excused from attending classes for the day.

POTOMAC STATE College's basketball team improved from a 14-15 record in 1959 to a 25-6 mark this year. Bruce High went from 6-15 to 13-7 and Moorefield's Yellowjackets wound up with 14-9 this season compared to 9-14 a year ago.

JOE LANGAN, one of the best sand lot catchers in the area in recent years, is slated to manage the Frostburg Merchants, new entry in the Pen-Mar League this season.

AT THE SPRING meeting of the Virginia High School League's legislative council a 16-game regular season limit on basketball games was recommended, effective with the 1961-62 season, and a long standing opposition to all-star games was reiterated.

The Purple Heart Club advanced to the playoff finals in the National Division of the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League by defeating the Fort Ashby V.F.W. by the margin of nine points in six games, 127-118.

"Hoppy" Crabtree led the winners with 15 points last night while B. Kenney and V. Alt led Fort Ashby with 14 tallies each.

In Monday's late match, Bill Golladay paced the Purple Heart Club with 19 points and Don Bennett's 19 was best for Fort Ashby.

Ints President Denies Transfer Of Havana Club

SANFORD, Fla. (UPI)—Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, Tuesday night denied a report that minor leagues head George Trautman had urged the transfer of the Havana franchise to New Jersey as "completely untrue."

"There is no truth in that story at all," said Shaugnessy. "We are going to open in Havana as planned on April 20."

Bud Shrake, sports writer of the Dallas, Tex., Times-Herald, reported Tuesday that the Havana franchise would be moved because of Cuba's strained relations with the United States. Shrake's story from Pompano Beach, Fla., said Trautman had urged the league to make the switch and that Shaugnessy had informed Havana Club President Bobby Maduro "to move his franchise or lose it."

"That report is completely untrue," said Shaughnessy.

Tribe Noses Out Boston Sox, 7-6

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—The Boston Red Sox were nosed out 7-6 by the Cleveland Indians Tuesday.

Ex-Red Soxer Jim Piersall played a key role with two singles in two trips. He prevented his ex-teammates from tying the game in the ninth inning by making a great recovery and throw of Don Buddin's long double. The play prevented Don Gile, on first as the result of a pinch single, from scoring.

Cards Inform NFL Of Franchise Move

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Cardinals Tuesday informed the National Football League that their franchise would be moved to St. Louis for the 1960 season.

Managing Director Walter Wolfner confirmed the shift to the meeting of league club owners after they had officially approved the language of a resolution in which the league will pay the club $500,000 for moving.

The move originally was announced at the league's recent meeting in Los Angeles, but Wolfner had until April 2 to make a final decision. Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the delay was granted to permit him to arrange a lease on a playing field and arrange other details.

Giants Rally Falls Short, Cubs Win, 7-6

PHOENIX, Ariz., (UPI)—Lanky Chicago righthander Bob Anderson Tuesday came within two outs of becoming the first Cactus League pitcher to go nine innings as the Cubs outlasted the San Francisco Giants, 7-6.

Anderson threw a home run pitch to Felipe Alou in the first inning and then blanked the Giants until the ninth inning, when his favorite patsies stormed for five runs. The big fellow was lifted after Willie Kirkland hit a two-run single following a single by Willie McCovey and a double by Orlando Cepeda.

Sam Jones didn't give the Cubs a hit the first three innings, but back-to-back doubles by rookies Sam Drake and Lou Johnson broke the spell in the top of the fourth.

Detroit Evens Hockey Series

Red Wings Nose Out Leafs, 2-1

DETROIT (AP) — Rookie Jerry Melnyk cashed in a rebound shot at 1:54 of the first overtime period and gave the Detroit Red Wings a 2-1 triumph over the Toronto Maple Leafs Tuesday night. The goal squared its best-of-seven semifinal Stanley Cup hockey series at 2-2.

Melnyk scored on a high 10-footer after Leaf goalie Johnny Bower fell to the ice to stop Val Fonteyne's shot. The Wings had a man advantage when they scored the winner. Maple Leaf Ron Stewart was in the penalty box at the time.

The Wings were swarming around the Toronto cage when Fonteyne, also a rookie, let fly. Bower went down and stopped the shot. But the puck rolled right out to Melnyk who fired and Bower didn't have a chance.

The teams battled without a score after Carl Brewer gave the Leafs a 1-1 tie at 10:29 of the second period.

Detroit's victory made a sixth game necessary. It will be played at Detroit Sunday after a fifth game in Toronto Saturday.

Fort Hill Trackmen Enter Bellaire, Ohio, Relays

Buckeye Test Is Scheduled For April 30

Sentinels To Skip Handley Meet 1st Time In 14 Years

Fort Hill High School will compete in the Bellaire (Ohio) Relays this year but will skip the Handley High School Invitational Meet at Winchester, Va., for the first time in 14 years, according to Paul L. Flick, who succeeds William P. Hahn as track and field mentor of the Sentinels.

Flick stated that Fort Hill has accepted an invitation to vie in the Ohio meet which will be held on Saturday, April 30. It will mark the first appearance of a Fort Hill team in an athletic contest in Ohio. East Palestine (Ohio) High School has participated in the Fort Hill Invitational Meet in past years.

Fort Hill will miss the Handley Invitational because the Virginia school has drawn the color line, according to Flick.

"We have negroes on our squad and if they are not welcome in Virginia we don't compete there," he declared.

This will be the twenty-first year for the Handley Invitational. Fort Hill has participated in 13 consecutive meets at Winchester and won in 1948 and 1952.

There are fifty on the Fort Hill track and field squad at the present time, Flick said.

The Sentinels will compete in nine meets, as follows:

April 5—Dual Meet with West Va. Deaf School at Romney.
April 8—Triangular Meet with South Hagerstown and Martinsburg at Hagerstown.
April 22—Dual Meet with Allegany High.
April 28—Dual Meet with Beall at Frostburg.
April 30—Bellaire, Ohio, Relays.
May 7—Fort Hill Invitations Meet.
May 13—County Meet at Fort Hill.
May 21—CVAL Meet at Frederick.
May 28—State Meet at Catonsville.

SENTINELS' NEW COACH—Paul L. Flick, above, former coach at Martinsburg, Front Royal and South Hagerstown, is the new track and field mentor at Fort Hill High School where he succeeds William P. Hahn, now at Wheaton (Md.) High School. Fort Hill's thinclads will launch their campaign on April 5 in a dual meet with the West Virginia School for the Deaf at Romney. The Sentinels will engage in nine meets.

Noops Scores Upset On Last Day At Bowie

Winner Pays $34.20 As 32-Day Meet Ends

BOWIE, Md., March 29 (AP)—Southfield Farm's Noops provided a $34.20 upset in winning the $10,000-added Prince George's Stakes today.

Opposing nine Maryland-Bred 3-year-olds in the six-furlong test, Noops closed fast along the rail to nip the favored Tuscan by a neck. It was a length and a half back to Creswood Dottie, the third-place finisher.

The stewards, noting Creswood Dottie and Lady's Maid bumping in late stretch, put up the inquiry sign, but films showed Lady's Maid, who finished fifth, to be at fault.

Noops was ridden by Frank Northcutt and gained the first stakes victory of her career. She was timed over the fast track on this mild afternoon in 1:12.

The 3-year-old daughter of the Pincher and Connie Morse earned $7,326.25 from a gross purse of $11,425.

Tuscan, ridden by Joe Culmone, may have suffered from overconfident handling. The gelding appeared to be going easily on the lead in midstretch when Noops launched her rally. Culmone appeared unaware until too late of the winner's rail-running bid.

Noops is owned by H. W. Spoon, Jack Beckwith and D. Bourdas who operate the Southfield Farm. They purchased Noops from H. B. Marcus for $5,000.

It was the end of racing for this year at Bowie and although snow cancelled eight of its scheduled 40 days, the average betting held up well. It was $1,015,951 compared to $1,019,454 last year. The total wagering for the 32 days was $32,510,437.

He and catcher Sammy White were traded to Cleveland for catcher Russ Nixon. White retired and the deal was cancelled.

Bob Pettit Gets 35 Points As St. Louis Wins, 113-103

Hawks Even Series With Boston; Third Tilt Set Saturday

By BOB SALMON

BOSTON (UPI)—Big Bob Pettit scored 35 points to lead the St. Louis Hawks to a 113 - 103 win over the Boston Celtics Tuesday night and even their National Basketball Association championship playoffs at one game each.

The Hawks, 11-point underdogs in the second game of the best-of-seven series, battled back from a 7-point halftime deficit before a sellout crowd of 13,909 at the Garden. They grabbed the lead for good in the final period when Si Green and Cliff Hagan dropped in baskets to bust up an 85 - all deadlock.

The defending champion Celtics faded after that and were unable to rally as St. Louis opened a 10-point gap with four minutes left and held about that margin to the final buzzer.

Sharing scoring honors with Pettit were Clyde Lovellette with 21 points and Hagan with 16. Green got all of his 13 points in the second half.

Bill Sharman had a brilliant night for Boston, totaling 30 points on 13 field goals in 30 attempts and four for four at the foul line. Bill Russell broke his own playoff record for rebounds in the game as he hauled in 40, 26 of them in the first half. Russell also had 21 points.

Boston Leads 11 To 3

The Celtics, who bowled the Hawks over here Sunday in the opener, jumped off to an 11-3 lead in the first four minutes of the game but St. Louis ran nine points shortly thereafter and seven points before the quarter was up to lead, 25-21.

With the 33-year-old Sharman connecting on six of his eight attempts, the Celts rebounded for a 56-49 lead at halftime. Pettit and Lovellette sparked the Hawk third-period rally, with the lead being exchanged a dozen times. Jack McCarthy and Larry Foust closed out the quarter with baskets to give St. Louis a four-point margin heading into the final, 83-79.

Play On Saturday

The teams now move to St. Louis for televised games Saturday and Sunday afternoons. They will return here Tuesday night for the fifth game.

Roberts yielded 11 scattered hits in the seven innings he pitched, but Farrell, who has been brilliant in his last two outings, retired the final six batters in a row.

Pedro Ramos worked the first seven innings for the Senators and got the victory. Frank Baumann, who took over for Ray Moore in the sixth, was the loser.

Rookie right - hander Johnny James was even more effective for the Yanks. He faced only six Kansas City batters in the final two frames.

The A's got their run off Ditmar in the opening inning on a walk, a double by ex - Yankee Hank Bauer and an infield out. Then Ditmar settled down and gave up only two singles the rest of the way.

Hawks Even Series With Boston; Third Tilt Set Saturday

By BOB SALMON

BOSTON (UPI)—Big Bob Pettit scored 35 points to lead the St. Louis Hawks to a 113 - 103 win over the Boston Celtics Tuesday night and even their National Basketball Association championship playoffs at one game each.

The Hawks, 11-point underdogs in the second game of the best-of-seven series, battled back from a 7-point halftime deficit before a sellout crowd of 13,909 at the Garden. They grabbed the lead for good in the final period when Si Green and Cliff Hagan dropped in baskets to bust up an 85 - all deadlock.

The defending champion Celtics faded after that and were unable to rally as St. Louis opened a 10-point gap with four minutes left and held about that margin to the final buzzer.

Sharing scoring honors with Pettit were Clyde Lovellette with 21 points and Hagan with 16. Green got all of his 13 points in the second half.

Bill Sharman had a brilliant night for Boston, totaling 30 points on 13 field goals in 30 attempts and four for four at the foul line. Bill Russell broke his own playoff record for rebounds in the game as he hauled in 40, 26 of them in the first half. Russell also had 21 points.

Boston Leads 11 To 3

The Celtics, who bowled the Hawks over here Sunday in the opener, jumped off to an 11-3 lead in the first four minutes of the game but St. Louis ran nine points shortly thereafter and seven points before the quarter was up to lead, 25-21.

With the 33-year-old Sharman connecting on six of his eight attempts, the Celts rebounded for a 56-49 lead at halftime. Pettit and Lovellette sparked the Hawk third-period rally, with the lead being exchanged a dozen times. Jack McCarthy and Larry Foust closed out the quarter with baskets to give St. Louis a four-point margin heading into the final, 83-79.

Play On Saturday

The teams now move to St. Louis for televised games Saturday and Sunday afternoons. They will return here Tuesday night for the fifth game.

Cubs' Sam Taylor Suffers Lame Arm

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — Catcher Sammy Taylor of the Chicago Cubs has been ordered to refrain from all throwing for a week to 10 days and not to throw hard for several additional days.

Examination of his lame arm by a Los Angeles specialist revealed both a strain of the posterior shoulder muscles and a muscle tear with accompanying hemorrhage in the elbow and shoulder.

He was given a shot of hydrocortisone and told to rest the arm until all swelling and discoloration disappears.

Friend Shuts Out Dodgers "B" Team

FT. MYERS, Fla. (UPI)—Bob Friend became the first Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher to go the route Tuesday when he shut out a Los Angeles Dodgers "B" team, 5-0, on six hits.

The Pirates won by scoring all their runs in the seventh inning. Friend started the big round with a two-run single against loser Roger Craig. Craig, who pitched seven innings, gave up the eight hits.

Friend struck out seven and walked one batter. Bob Clemente led the Pirate attack with three hits in four trips.

Noops Scores Upset On Last Day At Bowie

Winner Pays $34.20 As 32-Day Meet Ends

BOWIE, Md., March 29 (AP)—Southfield Farm's Noops provided a $34.20 upset in winning the $10,000-added Prince George's Stakes today.

Opposing nine Maryland-Bred 3-year-olds in the six-furlong test, Noops closed fast along the rail to nip the favored Tuscan by a neck. It was a length and a half back to Creswood Dottie, the third-place finisher.

The stewards, noting Creswood Dottie and Lady's Maid bumping in late stretch, put up the inquiry sign, but films showed Lady's Maid, who finished fifth, to be at fault.

Noops was ridden by Frank Northcutt and gained the first stakes victory of her career. She was timed over the fast track on this mild afternoon in 1:12.

The 3-year-old daughter of the Pincher and Connie Morse earned $7,326.25 from a gross purse of $11,425.

Tuscan, ridden by Joe Culmone, may have suffered from overconfident handling. The gelding appeared to be going easily on the lead in midstretch when Noops launched her rally. Culmone appeared unaware until too late of the winner's rail-running bid.

Noops is owned by H. W. Spoon, Jack Beckwith and D. Bourdas who operate the Southfield Farm. They purchased Noops from H. B. Marcus for $5,000.

It was the end of racing for this year at Bowie and although snow cancelled eight of its scheduled 40 days, the average betting held up well. It was $1,015,951 compared to $1,019,454 last year. The total wagering for the 32 days was $32,510,437.

Ted's Brother Dies

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Daniel Arthur Williams, brother of Boston Red Sox outfielder Ted Williams, died Monday night at Mercy Hospital. He was 39.

Williams, a painter and decorator, had been ill for more than two years. Hospital officials said death was the result of malignancy of the bone marrow.

Phillies Break Pirates 11-Game Winning Streak

Del Greco Poles Two-Run Homer In 7 To 2 Triumph

CLEARWATER, Fla., (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies ended the Pittsburgh Pirates' 11-game Grapefruit League winning streak Tuesday with an easy 7-2 victory behind the pitching of Robin Roberts and Dick Farrell.

Bobby Del Greco put the Phils in front to stay at 2 - 1 in the fourth with a two-run homer over the left field wall of left-hander Joe Gibbon, who pitched the first five innings. A four-run rally in the fifth sealed the verdict and George Witt was tagged for a final run in the sixth.

Roberts yielded 11 scattered hits in the seven innings he pitched, but Farrell, who has been brilliant in his last two outings, retired the final six batters in a row.

Braves Outlast Detroit, 7-6

BRADENTON, Fla., (UPI) — The Milwaukee Braves overcame the wildness of their own pitchers to outlast the Detroit Tigers Tuesday, 7-6.

After building up a 7-0 lead at the expense of left hander Pete Burnside in the first three innings, the Braves had to struggle to stay ahead. Juan Pizarro, Don Nottebart and Don McMahon, who shared the Milwaukee pitching, walked 11 batters between them.

Tom Morgan and Bob Bruce shut out the Braves in the last six innings. The outcome ended the Braves' three game losing streak and gave the Tigers one of similar length.

Sievers Hits Pair As Senators Win

ORLANDO, Fla., (UPI) — Roy Sievers, reportedly being offered to the White Sox by the Senators in a pending trade, wallopd two homers Tuesday as Washington defeated Chicago, 5-4.

However, it was a two - run double in the seventh by Rookie Dan Dobbek which actually beat the Sox. Harmon Killebrew also homered for Washington, his third of the exhibition season.

Pedro Ramos worked the first seven innings for the Senators and got the victory. Frank Baumann, who took over for Ray Moore in the sixth, was the loser.

Chicago A	000 101 200	—4 9 1

Art Ditmar Hurls Yanks To Victory

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Art Ditmar survived a shaky start Tuesday, then settled down to limit the Kansas City Athletics to three hits over the first seven innings and lead the New York Yankees to a 4-1 exhibition victory.

Rookie right - hander Johnny James was even more effective for the Yanks. He faced only six Kansas City batters in the final two frames.

The A's got their run off Ditmar in the opening inning on a walk, a double by ex - Yankee Hank Bauer and an infield out. Then Ditmar settled down and gave up only two singles the rest of the way.

Giants, Boston Trade Players

Marshall Swapped For Worthington

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants traded pitcher Al Worthington Tuesday for some much needed bench strength.

The Giants obtained left handed hitter Jim Marshall from the Boston Red Sox in a straight player trade. Marshall was returned to the Red Sox after being with Cleveland a short time.

He and catcher Sammy White were traded to Cleveland for catcher Russ Nixon. White retired and the deal was cancelled.

Marshall is an outfielder - first baseman, who hit .252 last year. Worthington won two and lost three for the Giants in 1959 and had an earned run average of 3.70.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — We may be seeing Yul Brynner and his bride-to-be, Doris Kleiner, in Hollywood very soon. By the time they get here, however, she'll probably be Mrs. Yul Brynner. From Mexico City comes word they'll be married in the next two weeks.

Yul will discuss "Peter and Catherine" with Universal-International.

Negotiations have been started, but not completed. It's rumored that Yul has called off his plan to make "The Gladiators" in Spain, for the reason that it too closely resembles U-I's "Spartacus." Considering that he had already started preparations on this picture in Madrid, if this is true it's a very nice concession on Yul's part.

He's now in Mexico shooting "Magnificent Seven." He told me when I talked to him there a few weeks ago that he hadn't yet been able to achieve a settlement with his wife Virginia Gilmore. But according to his representative in Mexico this is now all signed and settled.

Here's another one — a Civil War story I mean: Jack M. Warner (son of Jack L. Warner) happened to be lunching with Bantam Books Vice President Saul David while former Los Angeles newspaperman John Copeland was outlining his book which Bantam will publish, "In My Uniform of Blue." By the time Copeland had completed his tale he had not only sold it for publication but young Warner bought it for his first independent movie.

It's the story of a Union soldier on the staff of Gen. Sherman and the star young Warner wants for it is Tony Perkins. Henry King is the director in mind.

If you think these ambitious dictators (and I include Khrushchev) aren't dangerous to the safety of the world, you should have seen "The Secret Life of Hitler" on TV. I have seldom been more fascinated with a TV show. It shows the Fuehrer in his early days and brings in many things that were never made public. Some of the people associated with him told of their experiences at Berchtesgarden, and how he came into power.

I was in Germany in 1932 when Hindenburg was president. Even then the shadow of Hitler was falling on the country. We went to the opening of Lillian Harvey's picture and as we stepped out of the theater, a crowd of young men being trained by Hitler, almost knocked us off the sidewalk.

Hindenburg was old and no match for the ambitious maniac. I hope that this special TV show will be released again. It's one all Americans should see.

A new and interesting side to Jim ("Gun Smoke") Arness was told to me by some members of the Toyan Bay Club. Jim has taken up boating with a vengeance and has bought a forty-foot sloop, the Sea Smoke, which he sails every day, and he's got a very good record.

Sailing with him is Peggy Slater, who, someone laughingly said, hasn't lost a boat race since she was fifteen. It was through her he bought the boat.

This is the season when Jim isn't working on "Gun Smoke," so he takes off on a holiday and when he comes back he'll head straight for Toyan Bay.

I just must take time out to write Joanne Woodward who lets me hear from her and expects an answer in return. She writes that she, Paul (Newman) and their little daughter Nell, are staying at the Zion Hotel, in Haifa, Israel.

"We were very surprised at the excitement about Paul and the picture 'Exodus.' Instead of a quiet time, there are hundreds of people standing outside the hotel every day," she says. "We are followed wherever we go, but everyone is completely absorbed and interested in this picture which makes the whole thing very pleasant

This is a 6 cylinder with straight shift and will be very economical to operate. The 2 tone finish of red and white makes this a beautiful car. The interior is spotless and shows the excellent care the former owner gave it. The equipment includes radio, heater, defroster, signal lights, side mirrors, foam rubber seats, white wall tires with winter tread on rear plus all the small accessories. This car has been checked through the garage and we know it will be trouble free. This is one of those cars that everyone wants a chance to buy at ONLY

England Is Tiny Island Of Many Characteristics

By MARIS ROSS

LONDON (UPI) — There'll always be an England — and don't go telling any Englishman there won't.

But don't make the mistake, either, of thinking England is a tidy little country where everyone speaks with the same broad "A" or has the same likes and dislikes.

Northerners and southerners, for instance. They both like cricket and beer, but if there's anything else they have in common (beyond love of country) they don't wave flags about it. In fact, they scarcely speak the same language.

Develop Characteristics

The 40 counties of England have developed such individual characteristics that in the 50,000 square miles of England, there are really 40 different empires.

First of all they each speak the English language with variations. So much so, that it can take a lot of patience to talk with someone who lives in the next county.

The origin of these different accents dates back to the so-called "Dark Ages" following the Roman de-occupation of Britain.

Waves of Europeans settled in Britain, bringing a variety of languages. Traces of their accents remained in different areas as the present-day English language emerged from the hodge-podge.

People Look Different

The people even look different in some part of the country. In northeast Northumberland and Durham, the inhabitants retain a Danish appearance from the Danish invaders who settled there hundreds of years ago.

Even food isn't uniform all over the country. In the agricultural South, fresh food is rated higher than in the more industrial North where puddings are more favored.

Northerners like to have "high tea" instead of a mid-afternoon snack and an evening meal. High tea combines the two. The usual enormous teapot is accompanied by a main dish — often of kippers, which few people eat in the South.

'Jumbo' Today Is Luxury For Maharaja

By R. C. PANDE

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Time was when the wealth of any maharaja was at least partially reckoned by the number of elephants he owned.

At festive occasions, elephants sported howdahs of gold and silver and proudly paraded with painted trunks and tusks.

At other times, maharajas amused their guests by feeding the royal pachyderms a crude country liquor and then loosing them on the bewildered keepers. The keepers, armed with only small spears and tin swords, were understandably less amused.

Nonetheless it was jolly good fun to see the wobbly elephants make their ponderous passes. It was, of course, a trifle un-British.

Jumbos Are A Luxury

Alas, today, jumbo is just another day laborer.

The advent of Indian independence cut into the wealth of most maharajas and elephants became a luxury few could afford.

About the only time jumbo regains his former splendor is during India's Republic Day celebrations in New Delhi. The Republic Day parade in January always features a number of well draped elephants.

Good Swampers

However, in India the poor and obsolete animal still plays an important part in jungles where human access is almost impossible. In certain swampy areas of northern India the government is experimenting with "elephant plows."

Mighty mountains of muscle and bone as they are, elephants are peculiarly lacking in powers of resistance to shock and disease. Many have been known to lie down and die of a broken heart when they had to carry a great burden.

Also, they succumb to anthrax in a very few hours after the bacillus finds an entry into the bloodstream.

Saddlemakers Still Work At Their Craft

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — In a few small shops, where the pungent aroma of fine leather hangs heavy in the air, a handful of western craftsmen continue to work at an art that will endure as long as man prizes fine horseflesh.

They are the saddlemakers—a dwindling clan, even in this city with the title: "Where The West Begins."

Three Fort Worth firms specialize in fine, handmade saddles. They are Leddy Bros., L. White Boot and Saddle Shop, and Nobby Harness Co., Inc.

Most of the saddles made by these firms are to special order for customers who may choose from a wide variety of sizes, types and shapes to suit themselves and their horse.

Design "Easy Chairs"

After the design is selected, the saddlemakers go to work tooling, shaping and tacking the leather to saddletrees. Their end product: An "easy chair" for horseback riders.

Frank Leddy, who established his company 29 years ago, has devised several innovations that are exclusive with his firm.

One is called "So-Fa-Ride." It features a ball bearing mounting that permits a free-swinging forward action in the saddle.

Leddy's firm is believed to have the largest volume of any handmade saddlemaker in the country. His 12 craftsmen produce an estimated 1,300 saddles annually.

Make Trophy Saddles

At the L. White shop, two saddlemakers turn out about 300 saddles each year, including the famed trophy saddles awarded annually at the World Championship Rodeo in Madison Square Garden.

The oldest of the three shops is Nobby Harness, founded 70 years ago by the late J. H. Clary, who named his company for his favorite trotter, Nobby May.

The Nobby shop has produced probably the most unique saddle of the three.

More than 50 years ago, J.C. Miller of the 101 Wild West Show had Nobby build a saddle that contained 166 diamonds, 120 sapphires, 17 rubies, four garnets and 15 pounds of sterling silver and gold.

Hold Secret Talks

MADRID (UPI)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco has slipped secretly out of Madrid for a meeting Tuesday with the pretender to the Spanish throne, well informed sources said.

Franco left late Monday night or early Tuesday morning for the conference with Don Juan, Count of Barcelona and heir to Spain's now vacant throne, the sources said.

Normally strict security measures surrounding Franco's activities were intensified—apparently because unwanted publicity forced him to cancel a meeting with Don Juan earlier this month.

Addiction To Drugs Lessening

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Drug addiction in the United States is declining, according to Narcotics Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger.

But progress is least where the problem is greatest, he acknowledged.

The nation has 45,391 known addicts.

Anslinger credits the tough penalties of a 1956 federal law with helping his agents and state and local police knock holes in narcotics traffic networks.

Figures compiled by the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics show a dip last year in the total number of addicts, a drop in the number of new addicts for the third year in a row and a sharp fall off in addiction among teen-agers.

Large City Problem

More than half the nation's dope addicts are in New York City, Los Angeles and Chicago. Some states have only a handful of addicts.

In New York and Illinois in 1959, the total number of addicts edged up although the number of new addicts in these states reported by authorities fell.

Anslinger says the smallest inroads on dope supplies and addiction have been made in those cities and areas where the problem is most severe, especially New York and Los Angeles.

The bureau's official nationwide tabulation showed 45,391 addicts as of last Dec. 31, a drop of 875 from a year earlier. But public health authorities tend to agree with the rounded estimate of 60,000 Anslinger gave Congress in January. The bureau's count is the only national roundup there is.

Lose Supplies

Anslinger told United Press International a drop in new addicts reported last year stemmed from a loss of foreign dope supplies. He has no figures to prove less dope is getting into this country, but infers it from:

The decline in new addicts from 7,626 in 1958 to 5,690 in 1959. In 1955, when the bureau began a detailed reporting system, the total was 9,113.

—Agents' reports that heroin passing in street sales is diluted more and higher priced.

Supplies are tightening, Anslinger maintains, because the penalties of the Narcotics Control Act of 1956 have scared some "pushers" out of the dope trade.

Anslinger even credits the act and vigorous enforcement work by his agents with scaring the so-called Mafia crime syndicate into an alleged 1957 decision to get out of the dope trade altogether. He said an order to quit narcotics trafficking was passed down from the high command at the November, 1957, gangland conference at Apalachin, N.Y.

Oil Production Down

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Oil production in the U. S. declined last week, thanks largely to a reduction in Kansas, the Oil and Gas Journal reported Tuesday.

Production averaged 7,121,710 barrels daily, down 39,034. Kansas output averaged 270,360 barrels daily, a drop of 39,484.

Also on the downtrend were Wyoming, down 9,000 barrels daily to average 331,000, and California, down 2,600 to 827,500 barrels daily.

Rummage Sale

PIEDMONT — Young Ladies Bible Class of Trinity Methodist Church will sponsor a rummage sale April 6 through 9, in the room formerly occupied by the DeLuxe Restaurant, Main Street, Westernport.

To Hold Meeting

MOSCOW (UPI)—The fifth session of the U.S.S.R.'s Supreme Soviet has been called for May 5, Tass reported Tuesday.

The news agency said the presidium of the Supreme Soviet called the session.

England Is Tiny Island Of Many Characteristics

By MARIS ROSS

LONDON (UPI) — There'll always be an England — and don't go telling any Englishman there won't.

But don't make the mistake, either, of thinking England is a tidy little country where everyone speaks with the same broad "A" or has the same likes and dislikes.

Northerners and southerners, for instance. They both like cricket and beer, but if there's anything else they have in common (beyond love of country) they don't wave flags about it. In fact, they scarcely speak the same language.

Develop Characteristics

The 40 counties of England have developed such individual characteristics that in the 50,000 square miles of England, there are really 40 different empires.

First of all they each speak the English language with variations. So much so, that it can take a lot of patience to talk with someone who lives in the next county.

The origin of these different accents dates back to the so-called "Dark Ages" following the Roman de-occupation of Britain.

Waves of Europeans settled in Britain, bringing a variety of languages. Traces of their accents remained in different areas as the present-day English language emerged from the hodge-podge.

People Look Different

The people even look different in some part of the country. In northeast Northumberland and Durham, the inhabitants retain a Danish appearance from the Danish invaders who settled there hundreds of years ago.

Even food isn't uniform all over the country. In the agricultural South, fresh food is rated higher than in the more industrial North where puddings are more favored.

Northerners like to have "high tea" instead of a mid-afternoon snack and an evening meal. High tea combines the two. The usual enormous teapot is accompanied by a main dish — often of kippers, which few people eat in the South.

'Jumbo' Today Is Luxury For Maharaja

By R. C. PANDE

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Time was when the wealth of any maharaja was at least partially reckoned by the number of elephants he owned.

At festive occasions, elephants sported howdahs of gold and silver and proudly paraded with painted trunks and tusks.

At other times, maharajas amused their guests by feeding the royal pachyderms a crude country liquor and then loosing them on the bewildered keepers. The keepers, armed with only small spears and tin swords, were understandably less amused.

Nonetheless it was jolly good fun to see the wobbly elephants make their ponderous passes. It was, of course, a trifle un-British.

Jumbos Are A Luxury

Alas, today, jumbo is just another day laborer.

The advent of Indian independence cut into the wealth of most maharajas and elephants became a luxury few could afford.

A notable exception is the Maharaja of Cooch-Bihar. But the maharaja, lamentably, has gone commercial. His elephants are used on tiger shoots by well heeled white hunters.

About the only time jumbo regains his former splendor is during India's Republic Day celebrations in New Delhi. The Republic Day parade in January always features a number of well draped elephants.

Good Swampers

However, in India the poor and obsolete animal still plays an important part in jungles where human access is almost impossible. In certain swampy areas of northern India the government is experimenting with "elephant plows."

Mighty mountains of muscle and bone as they are, elephants are peculiarly lacking in powers of resistance to shock and disease. Many have been known to lie down and die of a broken heart when they had to carry a great burden.

Also, they succumb to anthrax in a very few hours after the bacillus finds an entry into the bloodstream.

Saddlemakers Still Work At Their Craft

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — In a few small shops, where the pungent aroma of fine leather hangs heavy in the air, a handful of western craftsmen continue to work at an art that will endure as long as man prizes fine horseflesh.

They are the saddlemakers—a dwindling clan, even in this city with the title: "Where The West Begins."

Three Fort Worth firms specialize in fine, handmade saddles. They are Leddy Bros., L. White Boot and Saddle Shop, and Nobby Harness Co., Inc.

Most of the saddles made by these firms are to special order for customers who may choose from a wide variety of sizes, types and shapes to suit themselves and their horse.

Design "Easy Chairs"

After the design is selected, the saddlemakers go to work tooling, shaping and tacking the leather to saddletrees. Their end product: An "easy chair" for horseback riders.

Frank Leddy, who established his company 29 years ago, has devised several innovations that are exclusive with his firm.

One is called "So-Fa-Ride." It features a ball bearing mounting that permits a free-swinging forward action in the saddle.

Leddy's firm is believed to have the largest volume of any handmade saddlemaker in the country. His 12 craftsmen produce an estimated 1,300 saddles annually.

Make Trophy Saddles

At the L. White shop, two saddlemakers turn out about 300 saddles each year, including the famed trophy saddles awarded annually at the World Championship Rodeo in Madison Square Garden.

The oldest of the three shops is Nobby Harness, founded 70 years ago by the late J. H. Clary, who named his company for his favorite trotter, Nobby May.

The Nobby shop has produced probably the most unique saddle of the three.

More than 50 years ago, J.C. Miller of the 101 Wild West Show had Nobby build a saddle that contained 166 diamonds, 120 sapphires, 17 rubies, four garnets and 15 pounds of sterling silver and gold.

Hold Secret Talks

MADRID (UPI)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco has slipped secretly out of Madrid for a meeting Tuesday with the pretender to the Spanish throne, well informed sources said.

Franco left late Monday night or early Tuesday morning for the conference with Don Juan, Count of Barcelona and heir to Spain's now vacant throne, the sources said.

Normally strict security measures surrounding Franco's activities were intensified—apparently because unwanted publicity forced him to cancel a meeting with Don Juan earlier this month.

Addiction To Drugs Lessening

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Drug addiction in the United States is declining, according to Narcotics Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger.

But progress is least where the problem is greatest, he acknowledged.

The nation has 45,391 known addicts.

Anslinger credits the tough penalties of a 1956 federal law with helping his agents and state and local police knock holes in narcotics traffic networks.

Figures compiled by the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics show a dip last year in the total number of addicts, a drop in the number of new addicts for the third year in a row and a sharp fall off in addiction among teen-agers.

Large City Problem

More than half the nation's dope addicts are in New York City, Los Angeles and Chicago. Some states have only a handful of addicts.

In New York and Illinois in 1959, the total number of addicts edged up although the number of new addicts in these states reported by authorities fell.

Anslinger says the smallest inroads on dope supplies and addiction have been made in those cities and areas where the problem is most severe, especially New York and Los Angeles.

The bureau's official nationwide tabulation showed 45,391 addicts as of last Dec. 31, a drop of 875 from a year earlier. But public health authorities tend to agree with the rounded estimate of 60,000 Anslinger gave Congress in January. The bureau's count is the only national roundup there is.

Lose Supplies

Anslinger told United Press International a drop in new addicts reported last year stemmed from a loss of foreign dope supplies. He has no figures to prove less dope is getting into this country, but infers it from:

The decline in new addicts from 7,626 in 1958 to 5,690 in 1959. In 1955, when the bureau began a detailed reporting system, the total was 9,113.

—Agents' reports that heroin passing in street sales is diluted more and higher priced.

Supplies are tightening, Anslinger maintains, because the penalties of the Narcotics Control Act of 1956 have scared some "pushers" out of the dope trade.

Anslinger even credits the act and vigorous enforcement work by his agents with scaring the so-called Mafia crime syndicate into an alleged 1957 decision to get out of the dope trade altogether. He said an order to quit narcotics trafficking was passed down from the high command at the November, 1957, gangland conference at Apalachin, N.Y.

Oil Production Down

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Oil production in the U. S. declined last week, thanks largely to a reduction in Kansas, the Oil and Gas Journal reported Tuesday.

Production averaged 7,121,710 barrels daily, down 39,034. Kansas output averaged 270,360 barrels daily, a drop of 39,484.

Also on the downtrend were Wyoming, down 9,000 barrels daily to average 331,000, and California, down 2,600 to 827,500 barrels daily.

Market Suffers Modest Loss On Slow Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market worked within a narrow range again Tuesday, finishing with a modest loss on the slowest trading since March 17—St. Patrick's day.

Indusrtials closed at 620.35 off 1.43 in their average and slightly above the day's low. The heaviest gain were scored by issues outside those used to compile the averages.

Brokers say the news background will have to improve considerably before the market can shake the lethargy that has kept it narrow and irregular during the past week.

Trading slowed to 2,320,000 shares from 2,500,000 shares the day before and was the least since March 17 when 2,140,000 shares changed hands.

Steels continued to react to the sharp drop expected in steel production this week. Youngstown Sheet fell 1⅜ to 111, U.S. Steel ⅜ to 82 ⅜ and Bethlehem ¼ to 46⅝.

The reshuffling of missile programs by the Defense Department brought mixed reactions in the aircraft section. Marquardt, which makes Ramjet engines for the Bomarc missile, closed with a loss of 2⅞ to 19½. Douglas added ¾ to 34⅝.

International Business Machines jumped 7½ to 443½ in the electronics where Siegler added a point and Zenich, General Time and Litton fell more than a point.

Polaroid closed at a new high with a gain of 11⅛ to 218, as did American Ship building with a rise of 10½ to 100½.

Market Suffers Modest Loss On Slow Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market worked within a narrow range again Tuesday, finishing with a modest loss on the slowest trading since March 17—St. Patrick's day.

Indusrtials closed at 620.35 off 1.43 in their average and slightly above the day's low. The heaviest gain were scored by issues outside those used to compile the averages.

Brokers say the news background will have to improve considerably before the market can shake the lethargy that has kept it narrow and irregular during the past week.

Trading slowed to 2,320,000 shares from 2,500,000 shares the day before and was the least since March 17 when 2,140,000 shares changed hands.

Steels continued to react to the sharp drop expected in steel production this week. Youngstown Sheet fell 1⅜ to 111, U.S. Steel ⅜ to 82 ⅜ and Bethlehem ¼ to 46⅝.

The reshuffling of missile programs by the Defense Department brought mixed reactions in the aircraft section. Marquardt, which makes Ramjet engines for the Bomarc missile, closed with a loss of 2⅞ to 19½. Douglas added ¾ to 34⅝.

International Business Machines jumped 7½ to 443½ in the electronics where Siegler added a point and Zenich, General Time and Litton fell more than a point.

Polaroid closed at a new high with a gain of 11⅛ to 218, as did American Ship building with a rise of 10½ to 160½.

County Library Establishment Seen Assured

Commissioners Offer Two-Cent Equivalent

Establishment of an Allegany County Library system seemed assured last night when members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners informed the steering group of the County Library Committee that the equivalent of two cents can be included in the county budget without materially affecting the overall tax rate.

County Board President John J. Rowan, who had repeatedly stated that he favors the county library plan if money is available without increasing taxes generally, told members of the library group that Commissioner John T. Mason, with the cooperation of Commissioner William A. Wilson, had studied the problem at length."

"Because of efficient operation during the past year, because of economies which have been established by the present board and because of careful management, budgeting and planning, the county will end the year in excellent financial condition," he said.

"The best way to return these savings to all the people," the board president said, "is through a service which reaches every citizen, young and old, such as a county library."

Enough For Start

Commissioner Mason said two cents on the tax rate, earmarked for the library system, will provide between $32,000 and $34,000 in the levy. "This is about $15,000 less than the county library committee requested, but under the law," he pointed out, "is a sufficient appropriation to establish the system. Thus, the county will be eligible to receive $20,000 in a federal grant, plus $14,500 in state money, to help round out the budget."

Commissioner Mason said that one of the factors which convinced him is the availability of federal and state money for enlarged library service. "All of us are state and federal taxpayers," he observed. "When these grants are available and we do not make provisions to accept them, we are merely helping to pay for these expanded and improved services in other counties and in other states. Failure to establish a county library system in this county, when the opportunity was first presented almost a decade ago, has cost the taxpayers here over $100,000 in lost federal and state aid, which we have been taxed for anyway. It seems like good business, to have the county system of libraries established in Allegany County," he concluded.

The group agreed that the city of Cumberland, which now carries the entire burden $27,800) of the Cumberland Free Public Library, should be asked to make up the deficit in the proposed budget. It was decided by members of the library group that the City Council would be asked for an audience.

Attending the meeting besides the three county commissioners and County Attorney Leslie J. Clark were former judge George Henderson, Mrs. Charles L. Kopp, Mrs. William A. Cook, LaVale, and F. Allan Weatherholt, chairman for the library steering committee, and James Alfred Avirett for the Cumberland library board of trustees.

The new county library, complete with bookmobile and extended services, can become effective after July 1, when the new county budget becomes operative.

Following the levy of two cents on each $100 of assessable property, the county commissioners by resolution can establish the system. The old or present board of trustees can then be dissolved and the libraries at Cumberland, LaVale, Frostburg and Westernport can be incorporated into the county plan.

Administered By Board

The county library will be administered by a board of governors of seven county citizens appointed by Gov. J. Millard Tawes to serve terms of from one to seven years. As a vacancy occurs, each will be filled with a seven-year appointment so that a new member goes on the board each year.

The library committee last night suggested that the county commissioners include one of their number in recommendations to the governor and that they give thought to a list of names which should be submitted to the governor. Mr Rowan asked the committee to make suggestions to the commissioners.

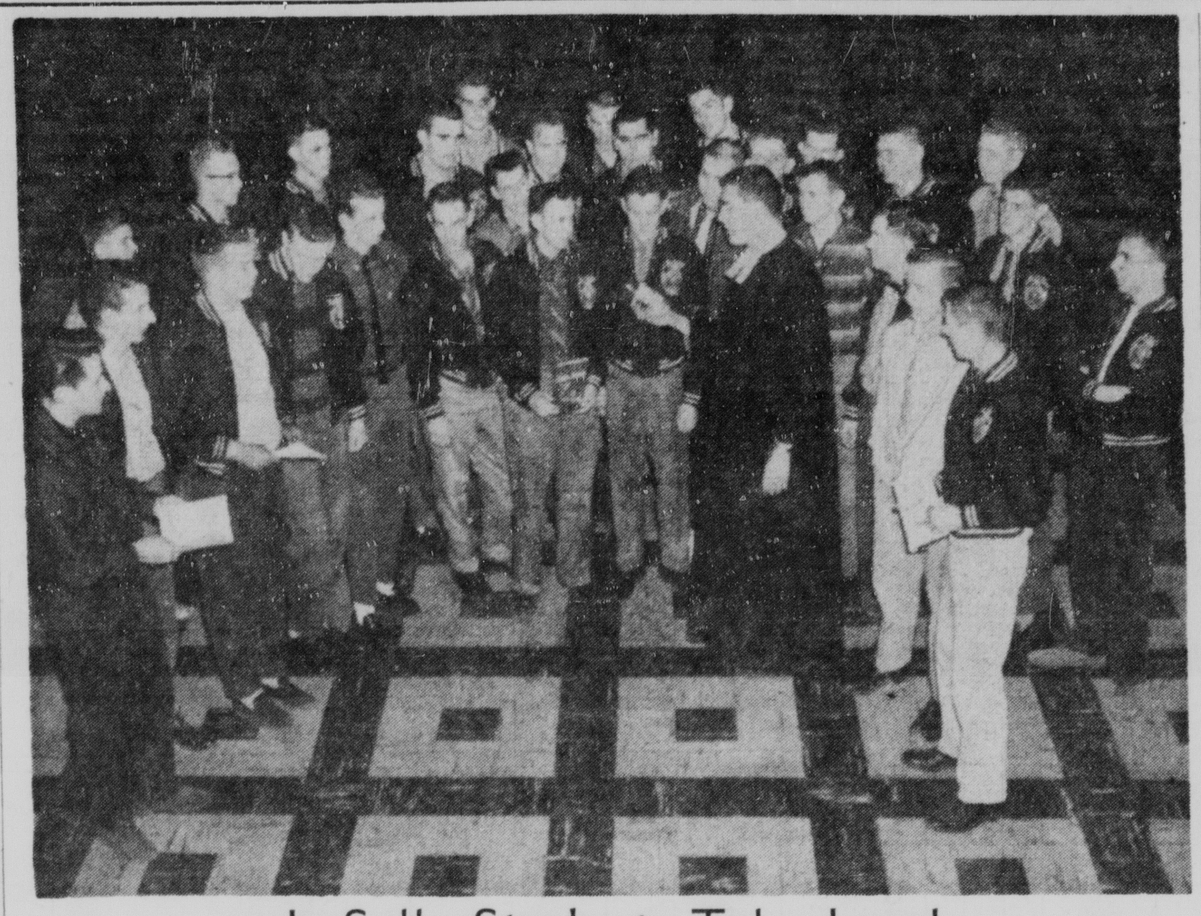

The meeting last night culminated seven years of effort on the part of the County Library Committee to establish the plan in Allegany County. There are now only five other counties in Maryland without county libraries and bookmobiles.

The establishment here would assure annual state assistance for library services and bring library facilities to all parts of the county for the first time.

LaSalle Students Take Lead

The above students of La Salle High School have taken the lead in responding to the appeal of Allegany County Red Cross chapter for "young blood" for the county blood program. The 30 young men who have signed up to join with veteran donors at the blood collection at the Eagles Home next Monday from noon till 6 p. m. are shown with Brother F. Anthony, chairman of the school's blood program. In addition to teaching languages and science, Brother Anthony is a registered nurse, accredited in every state in the Union, and has donated blood every four months for a number of years.

36 Students, Teachers At LaSalle To Give Blood

Taking the lead in responding to a Red Cross appeal for "young blood" for the Allegany County Blood Program, 30 members of the senior and junior classes of LaSalle High School signed up yesterday as donors for next Monday's visit of the Johnstown Bloodmobile to the Eagles Home, North Mechanic Street, between noon and 6 p. m.

Six members of the faculty have also signed up to give blood, with Brother F. Anthony, language and science teacher, serving as chairman of the La Salle blood donor program. Brother Anthony is a registered nurse, trained at St. Joseph's Hospital, Philadelphia, and is accredited in every state of the Union. He has donated blood every four months over a period of years.

"Brother Anthony will be able to give his students a lesson in practical biology at the blood bank," Brother G. Paulian, La Salle director, said, "while the students are giving blood for the benefit of their families, friends and fellow citizens."

Value Explained

At Brother Paulian's request, an official of the Red Cross met yesterday with the students and explained the value of the blood program, which not only saves lives, but means a saving of about $35 a pint when blood is received — the cost of blood in areas where there is no free blood bank.

Students were advised that the giving of blood is harmless to the individual, that the human body replaces the blood within four hours, that a physical examination is given before the blood is taken.

Each student will be given a billfold-size card showing his blood type which, in case of an emergency requiring a blood transfusion, will enable the attending physician to start administering blood without loss of time waiting for the blood to be typed.

"We are proud of the civic spirit shown by these young men," Mrs. Harry Beneman, chairman of the county blood program, said last night. "They are demonstrating at an early age that they are willing to accept their community responsibilities."

The students represent communities in all parts of Allegany and Mineral counties, the two counties in which the cost of collecting and processing blood is borne by County United Fund through the facilities of the Red Cross. Scheduled to appear at the blood bank at one o'clock on Monday, the La Salle donors will be free for the rest of the day, Brother Paulian said.

Donors Listed

In addition to Brothers Paulian and Anthony, faculty members who will give blood include Brother G. Thomas, Brother Xavier, Brother Flavian and Brother Hugh.

Thayer Named New District Forester Here

Oakland Native Gains Promotion

R. Thomas Thayer Jr. of Oakland, assistant district forester for Garrett County, has been appointed to succeed William H. Johnson as district forester for the four Western Maryland counties, according to Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the State Department of Forests and Parks.

Mr. Johnson is being promoted to chief of the Division of Forest Protection in the Annapolis office.

A native of Garrett County, the new district forester was born in Oakland, where his family has resided since colonial times. His grandfather was one of the early local advisers to the State Forest Service on forest conditions in Western Maryland.

Mr. Thayer, who served in World War II, is a graduate of the West Virginia University School of Forestry. Earlier he was graduated from Hagerstown High School. He was first appointed by the State Department of Forests and Parks on August 14, 1950, as a ranger for forest fire control. On January 1, 1951, he was promoted to the position of assistant district forester doing forest management work in the Westminster area of Carroll County.

He later was transferred to his hometown to supervise the state-private cooperative forestry programs in Garrett County. His close cooperation with the landowners and his effectiveness in inducing private participation in state sponsored planting and forest management programs have evoked much favorable local comment in Garrett County. Within a five-year period, landowners raised their plantings of new forest stock from a few thousand to nearly a million seedlings annually.

In taking over as district forester for the counties of Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick, Mr. Thayer will assume duties including administrative management and development of state forest and park lands, roadside tree administration, forest fire protection and the administration of state-private cooperative programs in the area.

Mr. Thayer's transfer and promotion are effective administratively immediately. Full transfer of duties, however, will not take place until about mid-June in order to give both Mr. Thayer and Mr. Johnson opportunities for familiarizing themselves with their new duties. The district

South End Traffic Is Discussed

Police To Study Varied Suggestions

Proposals for improving the flow of traffic in South Cumberland were discussed at a meeting here yesterday.

Attending were delegations representing the South Cumberland Business Men's Association and the City of Cumberland.

Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming, who arranged the conference said it was an excellent meeting and the Police Department will make a study of all proposals.

After the meeting, the delegations went to Laing Avenue and discussed the possibility of running a new street between Laing and Grand avenues.

Mr. Fleming said a connecting street would benefit the Fire Department, as trucks now must drive .7 mile on Laing Avenue on some calls unless they run the wrong way on a one-way street.

Seek Correction

The delegation reported conditions off Somerville Avenue, opposite Jane Frazier Village, were "terrible" and need to be cleaned up.

Mr. Fleming said the area has grown up in brush and has become a dumping ground, which is a fire and health hazard.

The group visited Second Street, from Virginia Avenue to Springdale Street, which is from three to four feet narrower than the rest of the street. Mr. Fleming said parking restrictions were suggested so the area can remain two-way.

The South End delegation also asked the Police Department to study parking practices on Oldtown Road south, as ready access to Memorial Hospital should be available at all times.

Also under study is a proposal that Massachusetts Avenue be made a main artery leading to the Industrial Boulevard, rather than Blackiston Avenue, since the distance is less.

City Engineer C. R. Nuzum was asked to check into the proposal.

Mr. Fleming said the Police Department does not think the traffic light at Virginia Avenue and Second Street should be operated around-the-clock and will recommend to the association that it be operated as a caution signal at night, as are downtown lights.

Count Progresses

Chief B. F. Gaffney said a traffic count completed by the Police Department shows that 1,699 vehicles use Second Street, between Virginia Avenue and Springdale, each day.

He said the counter has been

Tax Office Duties Cited In Civil Service Report

The revised Allegany County Civil Service Commission has submitted a suggested amendment to the rules and regulations governing classified service in this county concerning duties and qualifications for employes in the county tax office at the Court House.

They were received by the Board of County Commissioners at yesterday's meeting but no immediate action was taken. The Civil Service Commission had its first meeting Monday night since the appointment of Charles L. Kopp, retired superintendent of schools, to take the place vacated by the resignation of William L. Wilson, now a member of the County Board of Education. W. Eric Gibbs is the new chairman and Woodward D. Pealer is the Republican member.

First listed was the position of deputy collector, now a Grade 2 employe. He must be a high school or business college graduate with supervisory experience and must be bonded at $50,000 He must be able to keep books, know accounting, handle large sums of money and must be able to compute a tax bill and discount without an adding machine. He must be able to fill the tax collector's duties in the latter's absence.

The chief tax clerk, now a Grade 4 employe, also must have a high school or business college diploma, be bonded for $25,000, have experience in programing and planning a work schedule, experience in tax accounting and auditing, experience in keeping books and handling large sums of money. The chief clerk must be responsible for preparing periodic reports.

Finally, the proposal sets forth the qualifications and duties for the three tax clerks who must be bonded at $15,000 each. They

Streams Swell On Anniversary Of 1924 Flood

Crest Is Reached On Potomac River

Brown water fed by melting snow in nearby mountains rushed past Cumberland yesterday on the 36th anniversary of the 1924 flood.

Both Wills Creek and the Potomac River were beginning to recede to near normal spring heights by early afternoon.

One of the biggest floods in modern days, the 1924 deluge caused major property loss here and, combined with the 1936 flood, resulted in the decision to proceed with a flood protection project here.

The 1924 flood also marked the end of operations of the C & O Canal. Damage to the structure was considerable.

But Edwin M. Dale, superintendent of the C & O Canal Historical Park project, reports that the flood damage was overrated and that economic reasons and not the 1924 flood damage closed the historic waterway.

River Crests

The river gauge at Wiley Ford showed the crest was reached there yesterday at 11 a. m. when the reading got up to 12.27 feet. Seventeen feet is flood stage. This was an increase from the 4.38 reading Monday at 7 a.m.

But the height of the Potomac was due to the Savage River Dam being opened Monday night and yesterday morning.

F. D. Glass, superintendent of the dam, said the big gates were opened five feet at 10 p. m. to drop the lake.

This dropped the lake down, but not enough so the big gates were opened ten feet. This brought the lake down 76 feet from its maximum level.

When the water level is approximately 80 feet below the crest of the dam, the gates will be closed, he said.

Is Good Sign

The Wiley Ford gauge had dropped to 12.13 feet by 4:30 p.m. as the water began to subside.

Wills Creek was still running strong yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Nuzum said the stream crested at Hyndman about 9 p.m. Monday with less than three feet of water. Flood stage is 12 feet.

Actually, observers were quite pleased at the beginning of the spring thaw, pointing out that the heavy runoff this week will lessen the danger of high water later on.

Board To Run Hospital At Frostburg

A seven-member board of governors will be appointed in the near future by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and Mayor and Council of Frostburg to operate Miners Hospital as a non-profit organization.

Plans are for the organization to take over the hospital about July 1 when the State of Maryland withdraws both financially and administratively.

The new board of governors will consist of John J. Rowan, president of the county board, and Mayor Joseph James of Frostburg; three members to be named by the Frostburg Mayor and Council and two to be selected by the county commissioners. Commissioner William A. Wilson has relinquished his selection to the Frostburg officials.

The names of the seven members of the board of governors will be submitted to the Maryland Board of Public Works and if they are approved Gov. Tawes can then sign the necessary papers for transfer of the institution to the non-profit organization.

Also attending a meeting on the subject Monday night were Commissioners William Preston, Herbert Loar, William Goebel and James Kenney of Frostburg; Mrs. Upton Loar, William S. Jenkins, Edward J. Ryan and Frank Powers, the Frostburg hospital committee; John A. Moberly, superintendent of Memorial Hospital in Cumberland and Delegate Noel Speir Cook of the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly.

Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the county commissioners, has been instructed by the board to draw up the necessary papers of incorporation for the new group.

Fire Inspection Course Planned

The Cumberland Fire Department will send two men to the ninth annual Short Course for Fire Inspectors to be held April 5-8 at College Park by the Fire Service Extension of the University of Maryland.

They will be John E. Trost, full time inspector for the department, and Assistant Fire Chief Vincent Wegman, who is in charge of the Inspection and Prevention bureau, according to Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

Included will be classes on arson, securing and presenting evidence, special fire hazards and fire prevention.

Mr. Fleming said the men have been doing a terrific job on inspections.

GEN A. M. GRUENTHER

Gen. Gruenther To Speak To Holy Name

Area Section Host At Annual Session

General Alfred M. Gruenther, president of the American National Red Cross and former supreme allied commander in Europe, will address the dinner concluding the 46th annual Archdiocesan Holy Name Convention Sunday in Baltimore.

The convention this year is being sponsored by the Western Maryland Section of the Holy Name Society. Francis L. Werner, president of the local unit, is serving as general chairman of the event.

More than 1,000 priests, officers and delegates from throughout the state will attend Sunday's meeting which will be opened at 12:15 p.m. at a mass in the Cathedral celebrated by Archbishop Francis P. Keough.

The general business session and the election of officers will be held at 2 p.m., followed by several workshops.

Among the dinner guests will be Rev. Dennis B. McCarthy, national director of the Holy Name Society; Rev. John C. Griffith, archdiocesan director; Gov. J. Millard Tawes and J. Harold Grady of Baltimore.

During 1959 Gen. Gruenther, as president of the Red Cross, traveled 113,000 miles and delivered 179 talks, 40 of them to U. S. overseas military installations. His 38-year military career began when he graduated fourth in his West Point class of 1918.

Gen Gruenther was appointed chief of staff of the Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Powers in Europe in 1951 under Gen. Eisenhower. In July 1953 he succeeded Gen. Matthew B. Ridgeway as supreme allied commander in Europe and as commander in chief of U.S. European Command. He occupied both posts until his retirement in December 1956.

He is presently serving in an advisory capacity as a member of the Disarmament Advisory Panel of the Secretary of State; the Business Advisory Council of the U. S. Department of Commerce; the executive committee, American Council on NATO, and other governmental and private organizations.

No Charges In Road Death

State's Attorney James S. Getty said yesterday no charges will be preferred against the driver of an automobile which struck and fatally injured Theodore E. (Buck) Kasecamp, 78, Monday night on U. S. Route 220 in Rawlings.

Driver of the car was William Charles Ryles, 32, of Fort Mitchell, Ky. Mr. Getty questioned the driver yesterday and said there was no evidence of neglect.

Services for Mr. Kasecamp will be conducted tomorrow at 11 a. m. at the George Funeral Home and interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

The family will receive friends at the funeral home from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

Peebles Defends Parking Setup

Mayor Robert D. Peebles of Lonaconing last night said the parking regulations on Main Street at the Lonaconing Post Office were changed recently for reasons of "safety and convenience."

Mayor Peebles, noting a report of objections to the new parking setup in yesterday's issue of The Cumberland News, said the Council made the changes only after hearing complaints from the fire company and from bus drivers.

He said steps were taken to discourage parking on both sides of Main Street at Douglas Avenue because this practice blocked traffic.

Mayor Peebles declared that the two spaces where five-minute parking is permitted will allow ample parking if drivers will cooperate. The spaces are on the side of the street opposite the post office.

Admitted To Hospital

David Diehl, 7, of 610 Louisiana Avenue, was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night for observation. The youngster was injured Sunday when he fell from his bicycle.

S. J. Groves Bids Low On Route 40 Job

Nine Firms Compete For Area Contract

S. J. Groves and Sons Company of Camp Hill, Pa., was apparent low bidder yesterday as the State Roads Commission opened nine bids for the improvement of U.S. Route 40 on the western side of Martin Mountain.

The Groves bid of $2,142,282.95 apparently was the lowest of nine offers. Harrison Construction Company of Pittsburgh was second at $2,327,170.20 and J. O. & C. M. Stuart of Washington was third with $2,344,176.40. Highest bidder was the T. Edgie Russell Construction Company of Frederick, at $2,793,089.50.

To Modify Grade

The project, first in Western Maryland to be undertaken under the newly accelerated state highway improvement program, covers 3.59 miles of U.S. 40 from the top of Martin Mountain westward.

It calls for grading, draining and blacktop surfacing of the relocated highway. The road will have two lanes, plus an eastbound pull lane for slow traffic. The grade of the present route also will be modified.

The westernmost point of the project will be at the eastern end of the present stretch of concrete pavement just east of the Baltimore Pike Fire Hall.

Next on the program for Route 40 in the Cumberland area is an improvement project covering the highway from the end of the first project to Lindnerville, where the eastern approach for the Cumberland Thruway is being built.

Second Contract Set

When the two projects are completed, U.S. 40 will be a completely new highway from the city limits to the top of Polish Mountain. The State Roads Commission expects to have both jobs under construction by this summer.

The other bids were submitted by E. D. Plummer and Sons, Chambersburg, Pa., $2,345,020.25, George F. Hazelwood Construction Company, Cumberland, $2,367,119.40; J. Robert Bazley, Inc., Pottsville, Pa., $2,378,788.90; Cumberland Contracting Company, $2,627,150.70 and the S. T. Brotemarkle Company, Cumberland $2,793,089.50.

Textile Union To Get Report On Wage Talks

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, will hold a membership meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the union hall to hear a report on wage negotiations with the Celanese Fibers Company.

John G. Thomas, president of the local, said the meeting will be informal and was called to inform members of what has taken place in the negotiations.

The wage talks opened here February 8 and are scheduled to be completed by April 8.

The negotiations are being held in connection with a wage reopening clause in a two-year contract signed last year.

Company and union negotiators met yesterday at the Amcelle plant. No conclusive action was taken at the session, Mr. Thomas said.

Plans were made to resume the wage talks at sessions next Wednesday and Thursday. Ralph Cline, TWUA representative, is assisting the Local 1874 negotiating committee in the talks.

Local 1874 represents over 2,400 hourly paid workers at the Amcelle plant.

Flood Project In Top Shape, Mayor Reports

Mayor J. Edwin Keech reported yesterday that the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Protection works is ready to go if necessary.

He reported, following a tour of the flood control structures here, that all parts of the system were in "top shape."

Mayor Keech and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum yesterday inspected the Wills Creek flood walls and the Viaduct and Mill Race pumping station.

They found that both Wills Creek and the Potomac River had crested after rising several feet overnight as a hot sun began melting snow from nearby mountains.

The city officials later visited the site of Fort Cumberland Homes, the city's third low-rent housing project off Oldtown Road.

County Library Establishment Seen Assured

Commissioners Offer Two-Cent Equivalent

Establishment of an Allegany County Library system seemed assured last night when members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners informed the steering group of the County Library Committee that the equivalent of two cents can be included in the county budget without materially affecting the overall tax rate.

County Board President John J. Rowan, who had repeatedly stated that he favors the county library plan if money is available without increasing taxes generally, told members of the library group that Commissioner John T. Mason, with the cooperation of Commissioner William A. Wilson, had studied the problem at length."

"Because of efficient operation during the past year, because of economies which have been established by the present board and because of careful management, budgeting and planning, the county will end the year in excellent financial condition," he said.

"The best way to return these savings to all the people," the board president said, "is through a service which reaches every citizen, young and old, such as a county library."

Enough For Start

Commissioner Mason said two cents on the tax rate, earmarked for the library system, will provide between $32,000 and $34,000 in the levy. "This is about $15,000 less than the county library committee requested, but under the law," he pointed out, "is a sufficient appropriation to establish the system. Thus, the county will be eligible to receive $20,000 in a federal grant, plus $14,500 in state money, to help round out the budget."

Commissioner Mason said that one of the factors which convinced him is the availability of federal and state money for enlarged library service. "All of us are state and federal taxpayers," he observed. "When these grants are available and we do not make provisions to accept them, we are merely helping to pay for these expanded and improved services in other counties and in other states. Failure to establish a county library system in this county, when the opportunity was first presented almost a decade ago, has cost the taxpayers here over $100,000 in lost federal and state aid, which we have been taxed for anyway. It seems like good business, to have the county system of libraries established in Allegany County," he concluded.

The group agreed that the city of Cumberland, which now carries the entire burden $27,800) of the Cumberland Free Public Library, should be asked to make up the deficit in the proposed budget. It was decided by members of the library group that the City Council would be asked for an audience.

Attending the meeting besides the three county commissioners and County Attorney Leslie J. Clark were former judge George Henderson, Mrs. Charles L. Kopp, Mrs. William A. Cook, LaVale, and F. Allan Weatherholt, chairman for the library steering committee, and James Alfred Avirett for the Cumberland library board of trustees.

The new county library, complete with bookmobile and extended services, can become effective after July 1, when the new county budget becomes operative.

Following the levy of two cents on each $100 of assessable property, the county commissioners by resolution can establish the system. The old or present board of trustees can then be dissolved and the libraries at Cumberland, LaVale, Frostburg and Westernport can be incorporated into the county plan.

Administered By Board

The county library will be administered by a board of governors of seven county citizens appointed by Gov. J. Millard Tawes to serve terms of from one to seven years. As a vacancy occurs, each will be filled with a seven-year appointment so that a new member goes on the board each year.

The library committee last night suggested that the county commissioners include one of their number in recommendations to the governor and that they give thought to a list of names which should be submitted to the governor. Mr Rowan asked the committee to make suggestions to the commissioners.

The meeting last night culminated seven years of effort on the part of the County Library Committee to establish the plan in Allegany County. There are now only five other counties in Maryland without county libraries and bookmobiles.

The establishment here would assure annual state assistance for library services and bring library facilities to all parts of the county for the first time.

LaSalle Students Take Lead

The above students of La Salle High School have taken the lead in responding to the appeal of Allegany County Red Cross chapter for "young blood" for the county blood program. The 30 young men who have signed up to join with veteran donors at the blood collection at the Eagles Home next Monday from noon till 6 p. m. are shown with Brother F. Anthony, chairman of the school's blood program. In addition to teaching languages and science, Brother Anthony is a registered nurse, accredited in every state in the Union, and has donated blood every four months for a number of years.

36 Students, Teachers At LaSalle To Give Blood

Taking the lead in responding to a Red Cross appeal for "young blood" for the Allegany County Blood Program, 30 members of the senior and junior classes of LaSalle High School signed up yesterday as donors for next Monday's visit of the Johnstown Bloodmobile to the Eagles Home, North Mechanic Street, between noon and 6 p. m.

Six members of the faculty have also signed up to give blood, with Brother F. Anthony, language and science teacher, serving as chairman of the La Salle blood donor program. Brother Anthony is a registered nurse, trained at St. Joseph's Hospital, Philadelphia, and is accredited in every state of the Union. He has donated blood every four months over a period of years.

"Brother Anthony will be able to give his students a lesson in practical biology at the blood bank," Brother G. Paulian, La Salle director, said, "while the students are giving blood for the benefit of their families, friends and fellow citizens."

Value Explained

At Brother Paulian's request, an official of the Red Cross met yesterday with the students and explained the value of the blood program, which not only saves lives, but means a saving of about $35 a pint when blood is received — the cost of blood in areas where there is no free blood bank.

Students were advised that the giving of blood is harmless to the individual, that the human body replaces the blood within four hours, that a physical examination is given before the blood is taken.

Each student will be given a billfold-size card showing his blood type which, in case of an emergency requiring a blood transfusion, will enable the attending physician to start administering blood without loss of time waiting for the blood to be typed.

"We are proud of the civic spirit shown by these young men," Mrs. Harry Beneman, chairman of the county blood program, said last night. "They are demonstrating at an early age that they are willing to accept their community responsibilities."

The students represent communities in all parts of Allegany and Mineral counties, the two counties in which the cost of collecting and processing blood is borne by County United Fund through the facilities of the Red Cross. Scheduled to appear at the blood bank at one o'clock on Monday, the La Salle donors will be free for the rest of the day, Brother Paulian said.

Donors Listed

In addition to Brothers Paulian and Anthony, faculty members who will give blood include Brother G. Thomas, Brother Xavier, Brother Flavian and Brother Hugh.

Brown water fed by melting snow in nearby mountains rushed past Cumberland yesterday on the 36th anniversary of the 1924 flood.

Both Wills Creek and the Potomac River were beginning to recede to near normal spring heights by early afternoon.

One of the biggest floods in modern days, the 1924 deluge caused major property loss here and, combined with the 1936 flood, resulted in the decision to proceed with a flood protection project here.

The 1924 flood also marked the end of operations of the C & O Canal. Damage to the structure was considerable.

But Edwin M. Dale, superintendent of the C & O Canal Historical Park project, reports that the flood damage was overrated and that economic reasons and not the 1924 flood damage closed the historic waterway.

River Crests

The river gauge at Wiley Ford showed the crest was reached there yesterday at 11 a. m. when the reading got up to 12.27 feet. Seventeen feet is flood stage. This was an increase from the 4.38 reading Monday at 7 a.m.

But the height of the Potomac was due to the Savage River Dam being opened Monday night and yesterday morning.

F. D. Glass, superintendent of the dam, said the big gates were opened five feet at 10 p. m. to drop the lake.

This dropped the lake down, but not enough so the big gates were opened ten feet. This brought the lake down 76 feet from its maximum level.

When the water level is approximately 80 feet below the crest of the dam, the gates will be closed, he said.

Is Good Sign

The Wiley Ford gauge had dropped to 12.13 feet by 4:30 p.m. as the water began to subside.

Wills Creek was still running strong yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Nuzum said the stream crested at Hyndman about 9 p.m. Monday with less than three feet of water. Flood stage is 12 feet.

Actually, observers were quite pleased at the beginning of the spring thaw, pointing out that the heavy runoff this week will lessen the danger of high water later on.

Board To Run Hospital At Frostburg

A seven-member board of governors will be appointed in the near future by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and Mayor and Council of Frostburg to operate Miners Hospital as a non-profit organization.

Plans are for the organization to take over the hospital about July 1 when the State of Maryland withdraws both financially and administratively.

The new board of governors will consist of John J. Rowan, president of the county board, and Mayor Joseph James of Frostburg; three members to be named by the Frostburg Mayor and Council and two to be selected by the county commissioners. Commissioner William A. Wilson has relinquished his selection to the Frostburg officials.

The names of the seven members of the board of governors will be submitted to the Maryland Board of Public Works and if they are approved Gov. Tawes can then sign the necessary papers for transfer of the institution to the non-profit organization.

Also attending a meeting on the subject Monday night were Commissioners William Preston, Herbert Loar, William Goebel and James Kenney of Frostburg; Mrs. Upton Loar, William S. Jenkins, Edward J. Ryan and Frank Powers, the Frostburg hospital committee; John A. Moberly, superintendent of Memorial Hospital in Cumberland and Delegate Noel Speir Cook of the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly.

Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the county commissioners, has been instructed by the board to draw up the necessary papers of incorporation for the new group.

Peebles Defends Parking Setup

Mayor Robert D. Peebles of Lonaconing last night said the parking regulations on Main Street at the Lonaconing Post Office were changed recently for reasons of "safety and convenience."

Mayor Peebles, noting a report of objections to the new parking setup in yesterday's issue of The Cumberland News, said the Council made the changes only after hearing complaints from the fire company and from bus drivers.

He said steps were taken to discourage parking on both sides of Main Street at Douglas Avenue because this practice blocked traffic.

Mayor Peebles declared that the two spaces where five-minute parking is permitted will allow ample parking if drivers will cooperate. The spaces are on the side of the street opposite the post office.

Admitted To Hospital

David Diehl, 7, of 610 Louisiana Avenue, was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night for observation. The youngster was injured Sunday when he fell from his bicycle.

S. J. Groves Bids Low On Route 40 Job

Nine Firms Compete For Area Contract

S. J. Groves and Sons Company of Camp Hill, Pa., was apparent low bidder yesterday as the State Roads Commission opened nine bids for the improvement of U.S. Route 40 on the western side of Martin Mountain.

The Groves bid of $2,142,282.95 apparently was the lowest of nine offers. Harrison Construction Company of Pittsburgh was second at $2,327,170.20 and J. O. & C. M. Stuart of Washington was third with $2,344,176.40. Highest bidder was the T. Edgie Russell Construction Company of Frederick, at $2,793,089.50.

To Modify Grade

The project, first in Western Maryland to be undertaken under the newly accelerated state highway improvement program, covers 3.59 miles of U.S. 40 from the top of Martin Mountain westward.

It calls for grading, draining and blacktop surfacing of the relocated highway. The road will have two lanes, plus an eastbound pull lane for slow traffic. The grade of the present route also will be modified.

The westernmost point of the project will be at the eastern end of the present stretch of concrete pavement just east of the Baltimore Pike Fire Hall.

Next on the program for Route 40 in the Cumberland area is an improvement project covering the highway from the end of the first project to Lindnerville, where the eastern approach for the Cumberland Thruway is being built.

Second Contract Set

When the two projects are completed, U.S. 40 will be a completely new highway from the city limits to the top of Polish Mountain. The State Roads Commission expects to have both jobs under construction by this summer.

The other bids were submitted by E. D. Plummer and Sons, Chambersburg, Pa., $2,345,020.25, George F. Hazelwood Construction Company, Cumberland, $2,367,119.40; J. Robert Bazley, Inc., Pottsville, Pa., $2,378,788.90; Cumberland Contracting Company, $2,627,150.70 and the S. T. Brotemarkle Company, Cumberland $2,793,089.50.

John G. Thomas, president of the local, said the meeting will be informal and was called to inform members of what has taken place in the negotiations.

The wage talks opened here February 8 and are scheduled to be completed by April 8.

The negotiations are being held in connection with a wage reopening clause in a two-year contract signed last year.

Plans were made to resume the wage talks at sessions next Wednesday and Thursday. Ralph Cline, TWUA representative, is assisting the Local 1874 negotiating committee in the talks.

Local 1874 represents over 2,400 hourly paid workers at the Amcelle plant.

Flood Project In Top Shape, Mayor Reports

Mayor J. Edwin Keech reported yesterday that the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Protection works is ready to go if necessary.

He reported, following a tour of the flood control structures here, that all parts of the system were in "top shape."

Mayor Keech and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum yesterday inspected the Wills Creek flood walls and the Viaduct and Mill Race pumping station.

They found that both Wills Creek and the Potomac River had crested after rising several feet overnight as a hot sun began melting snow from nearby mountains.

The city officials later visited the site of Fort Cumberland Homes, the city's third low-rent housing project off Oldtown Road.
